CHEST'S FUND IS SWELLED BY 7,500 WORKERS

REPORT ON RETURNS WILL BE MADE TODAY

$200,000 Must Be Obtained Daily if Goal Is to Be Reached.

Community Chest workers last night completed the first leg of their drive for $1,950,134.40, with returns steadily mounting toward the goal set as the amount needed to finance local charitable activities another year.

Executives of the Chest last night were unable to estimate how much has been collected by the 7,500 workers who literally were combing the city in an effort to make the first day's receipts a record to shoot at through the duration of the campaign.

Early returns are "extremely encouraging," Elwood Street, director of the Chest, said last night. He pointed out, however, that about $200,000 must be raised in each of the seven days of the drive if the goal is to be reached.

Reports Due Today.

First returns will be reported today at a joint luncheon of the metropolitan, group solicitation, governmental and school drive units at the Willard Hotel. The special gifts unit, which Sunday night reported $735,543.24 contributed at the outset of the campaign, will meet with these groups.

Banners will be awarded today to the division team and section in each unit showing the highest percentage of contributions. This spirit of competition will be kept alive at daily luncheons until at the conclusion of the campaign the division, team and section having the highest percentage of its quota will obtain permanent possession of the banners.

An appeal for the whole city to "get behind the Community Chest movement and make it a success" was made in a radio address last night by Edward F. Colladay, chairman of the campaign committee.

Situation Unparalleled.

There is an unprecedented situation in Washington today brought on by unemployment. Persons who have never before sought charity are being forced to appeal to Chest organizations for help, and burdens upon hospitals are increasing because of inability of a larger number of patients to meet their bills, Chairman Colladay said.

Frederick A. Delano, Joseph C. McGarraghy, Harlan Wood and Mrs. Leonard B. Schloss also broadcast radio appeals. Addresses will be put on the air today by Newbold Noyes, Mr. Street, Rabbi Abram Simon and Joseph D. Kaufman.

Director Street said last night that "marked increase" in the size of contributions over those received from the same people last year are shown in the first early returns from the metropolitan and group solicitation units.

Small Gifts Increase.

"Not only have a large number of our larger givers increased their contributions through the special gifts unit, but the smaller givers who are contributing through group solicitation and through the metropolitan units are also showing increases," he said.

Accompanying one contribution received was an offer from a man of his own blood for any transfusion operations that may be contemplated by hospitals affiliated with the Chest.

Mr. Colladay reported that the National Geographic Society, which contributed $252.50 last year, has already passed the $4,000 mark in its current contributions. Many of the workers, according to Mr. Colladay, have asked to have their pledge cards returned so they might increase previous pledges.

Addresses by Joseph D. Kaufman, Stanley Bell and Leo Colvin, in support of the Chest campaign, were features of yesterday's luncheon of the Advertising Club at the National Press Club.

Purposes Are Described.

Mr. Kaufman outlined the purposes of the drive, and explained the campaign machinery.

"The people soliciting funds for the Community Chest are doing much more than working without compensation," the speaker said.

"In addition to giving their time and efforts to this cause they have each contributed to the chest to the extent of their ability, and still in addition to that are paying for their own lunches at the report meetings. With such a campaign as this before

ROWBOTTOM HELD IN JOB SALES CASE

Representative Accused of Accepting $750 to Get Man Carrier Post.

FREED ON $10,000 BAIL

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Harry E. Rowbottom, representing the First Indiana District in Congress, was arrested today on a charge of having accepted $750 for recommending the appointment of a rural mail carrier.

The arrest was the first official intimation that he was the representative involved in charges made by the Postoffice Department on January 5, when it was announced evidence of the sale of postoffice appointments had been turned over to the Department of Justice.

On the same date the Postoffice Department ordered summary removal of four postmasters and suspension of one rural carrier, all serving in Rowbottom's district.

Rowbottom was arrested on an affidavit signed by George R. Jeffrey, United States district attorney at Indianapolis. The affidavit charged him with taking $750 from Walter G. and Aaron Ayer, brothers, who live at Rockport, in return for a promise that he would recommend the appointment of Gresham Ayer, a relative, as rural mail carrier.

Rowbottom, accompanied by his attorney, Philip Gould, appeared at the office of Charles Harmon, United States commissioner, and gave bond for $10,000. He will be at liberty pending action by the Federal grand jury, which is to meet at Indianapolist February 2.

The representative would not discuss the case.

He was defeated when he ran for reelection last November. He is a Republican. John W. Boehne (Democrat), was elected his successor.

Rowbottom was elected to Congress in 1924, after having served two terms in the House of the Indiana General Assembly. He was reelected in 1926 and in 1928. He is 40 years old. He has a wife and one child.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Jan. 27.—Ervin B. Taylor, 55, this morning shot and killed his wife and their 4-year-old son and then committed suicide by taking poison.

Taylor shot his wife, Hilda, 21 years old, as she fled from her parents' home with her son in arms. He not only shot the boy but poured a spoonful of poison into his mouth.

Taylor then drank the remaining contents of the bottle, tottered over under a tree and died. He left a note in which he discussed what he had "seen with my own eyes and heard with my ears."

RASKOB SEEKS MEANS TO HAVE PARTY PAY HIM

MOVE IS TO COLLECT TOTAL OF $600,000

$200,000 of This Owing to Chief—Relief Campaigns May Interfere.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has engaged a national funds collecting agency to make a survey to determine the feasibility of a campaign to pay off the party debt.

The survey is being made, it is understood, by the New York firm of John Price Jones, and is in furtherance of the chairman's promise some time ago to give Democrats, by and large, an opportunity to take over the party debt, of which $200,000 is owing directly to him and some $400,000 to the County Trust Co. of New York, with which Mr. Raskob, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and their friends are closely associated.

No publicity has been given to the survey, because it does not necessarily follow that the campaign will be conducted. The survey might very well find that the present time is not opportune.

Ordered by Shouse.

The firm making the survey is one of the many national organizations of its kind which undertakes to raise funds for churches, hospitals, community chests and the like. The preliminary survey precedes any of its undertakings.

The survey itself costs about $3,000 and was ordered by Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee, about the middle of December.

That it is being made will generally be taken as the result of the recent criticism of Mr. Raskob for holding a mortgage on the party. However, in a statement issued at that time, he said it was the plan to pay off the debt by popular subscriptions, and it is known that the survey was underway then.

Indeed, prominent Democrats had been giving serious thought to the party's financial structure as early as last December, when reports to the clerk of the House of Representatives on the year's receipts and expenditures disclosed Mr. Raskob's mortgage as having been boosted from a little more than $200,000 to some $600,000.

There had been discussion as to whether the fund-raising campaign should be turned over to a professional collecting agency or whether the local organizations of the party should be permitted to conduct the campaign. By doing this latter, it was argued, it would revive their party interest and bring them into closer harmony with the national organization. On the other hand, there is the question of whether they are as effective money raisers as the professional collectors.

Timeliness Doubted.

It is also possible that a plan may be adopted whereby the local organizations would do the work, but under the guidance and supervision of the professional promoters.

The recent blow-off over Mr. Raskob's hold on the party has its lingering embarrassments, in that none of the party chieftains believe present conditions fitting for a drive for funds.

With the Red Cross making a national appeal and community chests throughout the country doing their seasonal stuff, it would be a pretty come-off, it is believed, for Democratic panhandlers to appear on the streets.

Yet there is considerable impatience on the part of several party lights that something be done to relieve Mr. Raskob of his burden.

The apprehension among those who are studying the feasibility of a drive is that they may be precipitated into hasty action and undertake something at which they can not succeed.

BUTLER TO EXPLAIN TALK ON MUSSOLINI

Italian Embassy Denies Il Duce, in Car, Ever Ran Down Any One.

POSSIBLE COURSES SEEN

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Maj. Gen. Smedley Darlington Butler, stormy hero of the Marine Corps, was on the carpet yesterday, the central figure in a controversy of international proportions.

In his quarters at Quantico, Va., Gen. Butler was drafting a letter to Maj. Gen. Ben Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps, in which he will explain whether or not he called Benito Mussolini a hit-and-run driver.

The explanation has been demanded by Nobile Giacomo de Martino, Italian Ambassador to the United States. The ambassador protested to the State Department after he had read newspaper accounts of a speech Gen. Butler made in Philadelphia recently, and the State Department asked the Navy Department to call on Gen. Butler for an explanation.

Secretary Adams referred the matter to Gen. Fuller, who communicated with Gen. Butler on Monday, and asked him to explain.

If Gen. Butler runs true to form, he may take a stubborn stand in his letter of explanation. In that case, two things may happen: Gen. Butler may be reprimanded, and the American Government may make a formal apology to the Italian governmnet.

In his speech before the Contemporary Club at Philadelphia, January 19, Gen. Butler was quoted as making the following remarks:

"A friend of mine said he had a ride in a new auto with Mussolini, a car with an armored nose that could knock over fences and slip under barbed wire.

"He said they drove through the country and towns at 70 miles an hour. They ran over a child and my friend screamed. Mussolini said he shouldn't do that; that it was only one life and the affairs of the state couldn't be stopped by one life. How can you talk disarmament with a man like that?"

Gen. Butler's theme was disarmament, and he was quoted as saying that there are "mad-dog" nations which will refuse to sign international agreements, or else sign them and refuse to abide by them.

If Europe went to war, a newspaper quoted Gen. Butler as saying, the United States would be dragged in to help catch the mad dog.

Gen. Butler's references to Mussolini, according to the newspaper accounts, came after he had assailed the Italian dictator's belief the state was more important than human life.

Unconfirmed reports have it that Mussolini himself directed the Italian Ambassador here to protest to the

GANDHI, FREED, SAYS CAMPAIGN WILL CONTINUE

'Civil Disobedience' Not Ended by British Concessions.

WOMAN DIES AS MOB SEEKS TO SEE LEADER

Boycott of Foreign Cloth, Picketing, Refusal to Pay Taxes Stand.

Bombay, British India, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi — toothless, shriveled, wraith of a man—sat crosslegged on a stone floor today, serving notice on the British Empire that India's campaign of civil disobedience would continue unabated, while outside a frantic crowd, mad for a glimpse of him, struggled so furiously that a woman was crushed to death.

Naked but for a homespun loin cloth, he leaned against a hay mattress in the center of a circle of newspapermen, an expression of deep melancholy on his ascetic face, but an almost spiritual light in his eyes.

"We can suspend judgment on Prime Minister MacDonald's statement to the round table conference at London," he said, "but we can not suspend the activities of the Indian Congress party."

All Activities Continue.

Regardless of MacDonald's proposals and of the approaching peace talks with delegates returning from the round table conference, he said, all activities of the Nationalists—the boycott on foreign cloth, the refusal to pay taxes, the picketing of shops—will continue.

In a feeble voice almost lost in the clamor of the thousands outside, he gave his emphatic indorsement to last year's resolution of the Congress party, demanding immediate measures for establishment of India's full independence.

His clawlike hands, wasted by repeated fastings, toyed with a spinning wheel or waved a benediction upon the long lines of fanatical devotees which entered the room to touch the apostle's bare knee. As they approached him these common men and women of India prostrated themselves before him, as though he were a reincarnation of Rama, the Hindu's god of gods.

Police Were Helpless.

The police were helpless, so great was the mob which had come to see Gandhi. The woman who was killed was crushed against a wall and trampled. Thirty-one others were seriously injured and the confusion was so great that Gandhi could not address the multitude from the balcony of his house.

These were not the only casualties of the day. At Patna, in Bengal, 10,000 natives celebrating the Nationalist declaration of independence, charged a detachment of police who had arretsed several of their number. The police opened fire and five natives were killed.

Speaking excellent English and weighing every word carefully, the little man elaborated the first statement of policy he has made since he was released last night from the prison at Poona, where he spent nearly nine months.

Hold to Demands.

"Even if after our conference with the delegates coming home from the round-table conference it is found that the prime minister's statement affords sufficient ground for the Congress party to suspend its non-cooperation movement," he said, "the party can not abandon the right to picket liquor and drug shops and those selling foreign cloth, nor can the right of India's starving millions

Plane Crash Injuries Kill Nobile's Rescuer

Men on Icefloe Saved by Arctic Flight of Lundborg.

Stockholm, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Death today closed the adventurous career of Capt. Einar P. Lundborg, Swedish airman, who rescued Gen. Umberto Nobile after the destruction of the airship Italia on an icefloe in the Arctic.

He died this evening from injuries suffered a few hours before in the crash of a plane he was testing at Malmslaett Flying Field for the Swedish government. Although both arms and legs were fractured in the accident, it was expected that his strong constitution would pull him through. A relapse came, however, and he sank rapidly.

Capt. Lundborg had many adventures and served as a soldier under four flags, but his major achievement was the rescue of Gen. Nobile.

He was a member of the Swedish rescue expedition and on the night of June 24, 1928, set out in a Fokker machine to seek the survivors of the Italia disaster. He managed to land his machine, an exceptionally difficult task under the wind and ice conditions prevailing, took the Italian commander on board and returned to his base safely.

Later, when he returned to the Italia floe to rescue the remaining

HOT FIGHT FORECAST BY BAN ON TAXICABS

Hacks May Not Use Portion of F and G for Cruising in Congested Periods.

COURT TEST INDICATED

A heated battle between District authorities and Washington taxicab companies was forecast yesterday after the commissioners had issued a drastic regulation tending to bar taxis from two of the most congested downtown thoroughfares except for the specific purposes of taking on or discharging passengers.

The amendment to the traffic regulation, approved upon the recommendation of Traffic Director W. H. Harland and inspired by E. W. Brown, assistant superintendent of police, bans taxicabs from F and G streets, between Ninth and Fifteenth streets, from 8 a. m. until midnight on week days and from 2 p. m. until midnight on Sundays.

Counsel for the independent taxi organizations indicated yesterday that they would make a test case of the order. They insisted that it was too drastic to be upheld by court in that it prevented the taxis from using the streets while crossing the city with occupied cabs.

District authorities have long waged war on cruising cabs, but this regulation has gone much further. Twice before they attempted to adopt the order, but objections brought delays.

An amendment was also adopted to prevent any vehicle from making a U turn at an intersection or between intersecting streets on F and G streets between Fifth and Fifteenth streets.

The regulation barring taxicabs states they shall not "enter or operate" on the streets mentioned except to take on or discharge passengers and "the driver or operator for such purpose shall enter and leave at the nearest intersection to such loading or unloading point." It adds: "The burden of the proof shall be upon said driver or operator to show that he has previously ascertained the need of his vehicle on said street."

A final provision states: "That nothing shall be deemed to prohibit the crossing of F and G streets by such vehicles at intersecting streets."

In his report recommending the regulations, Assistant Superintendent Brown called attention to the traffic congestion on F and G streets and said that, in his opinion, there were two "outstanding contributing factors," viz., the taxicabs and the vehicles making U turns.

William McK. Clayton, counsel for the City Cab, the Stop-Me, and the Sun taxicab companies, said last night that a test case would certainly be made of the regulation on the cabs. A. D. Smith, counsel for the Inde-

DENTISTS WILL GAIN PERMITS FOR LIQUOR

New Order to Allow Same Amount Doctors Have for Office Use.

RULINGS TO BE CHANGED

Dentists of the Nation will be allowed the same amount of liquor for office use that physicians now may have—that is, 6 quarts annually—under new regulations that will soon be promulgated by the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, said last night that new regulations governing industrial alcohol will soon be issued. The regulations governing the issuance of liquor permits for dental use have not yet been approved by the Secretary of the Treasury or the Attorney General, he said.

Dr. Doran also revealed last night that on January 22 a circular was sent to the medical profession, announcing that the requirement that doctors certify upon subscriptions to patients the ailment for which the liquor was prescribed had been eliminated.

This circular was in line with a finding by the Wickersham commission that the specifications of the patient's ailment was viewed by the medical profession as a violation of ethics.

The new regulations governing the allotment of liquor to dentists grew out of a request from the American Dental Association to eliminate a "restriction upon the profession," it was reported. Under existing regulations, both physicians and dentists are allowed 2 gallons of medicinal alcohol yearly.

Dr. Doran could not verify reports that whisky salesmen from bonded warehouses are now soliciting dentists for liquor orders.

Prohibition Director Woodcock said last night that the new regulations regarding industrial alcohol and liquor will be issued shortly. A study of the situation, he said, has been in progress by Secretary Mellon and Attorney General Mitchell since the transfer of prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department.

Jury Disagrees in Trial Of Bishop Cannon's Son

Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The trial of Maj. Robert M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, on charges of failure to pay wages, ended tonight in a jury disagreement.

Justice Elliott Gibbs dismissed the jury when it failed to reach a verdict after four hours' deliberation. He summoned a new venire and said the retrial would begin Thursday.

DRY MEASURE IS DISPLACED BY WAR BILL

SPONSOR DISTRESSED; NORRIS SEES DANGER

Senator Blease Advocates Amendment That Would Embrace Diplomats.

Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, opponent of the Howell home raid prohibition enforcement bill for the National Capital, smilingly objected yesterday to setting the measure aside and thereby just about finished the chances of its enactment this session, and possibly for all time.

Senator Blaine's objection was overridden by the Senate without a record vote, as he knew it would be, on motion of Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, that the Senate begin consideration of the War Department appropriation bill.

Adoption of the motion to take up the War Department bill automatically displaced the Howell bill from its favored position as the unfinished business of the Senate and put the enforcement measure back on the Senate calendar.

Howell Distressed.

Senator Robert B. Howell (Republican), of Nebraska, author of the measure, was somewhat distressed while the parliamentary maneuvering was taking place and protested to the Senate that, under the circumstances, to displace the bill would harm its chances.

Dry senators assured him that he would have enough votes to take up his measure after passage of the War Department bill, but Senator George W. Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, a dry, warned that such a promise was rather an empty one, in view of the fact that there remain eight annual appropriation bills to be passed by the Senate prior to the end of the Congress on March 4.

One of those who probably would vote for the Howell bill, Senator Norris, told the supporters of the measure not to deceive themselves as the time to act on the bill was now, when it was before the Senate; if it were to be taken up later to be displaced in a short time by another appropriation bill, that was not the way to achieve its passage. Senator Norris seemed to think it was now or never.

Move Pleases Blaine.

Several senators participated in the discussion. Meanwhile, Senator Blaine sat pleased, knowing his objection to shoving the bill aside had forced Republican leaders to continue its consideration and to let appropriation measures wait or displace it from its favored position as the unfinished business.

The Senate chose the latter course, and because of the limited time remaining to the life of this Congress, the number of appropriation measures still to be acted on, to say nothing of the flood of amendments to be offered to the Howell bill when opportunity affords, even Senator Howell found comfort only in philosophical musing that the way of a controversial legislative measure is hard.

He has the votes to bring his bill up again when the road is clear, Senator Howell said, and he is confident that, if it is brought to a vote, the Senate will pass the measure, although probably in amended form.

But even if the Senate does pass the bill, it is doubtful that the House will act on it in this Congress, Senator Howell said, admitting that he had heard House Republican leaders were determined to smother the measure if it gets by the Senate.

Bill's Fate Must Wait.

Senator Blaine was cautious in his predictions about the bill's fate. It might be passed if brought to a vote. But it was now a long, long way from a vote, seemed to sum up the Wisconsin senator's thought.

The truth is that the drys, with the exception of a few who are so

Deportation Plan Blamed On O'Brien by Son-in-Law

Hollander Is Under Arrest in New York as Being in Country Illegally; Capital Attorney Hopes He Will Be Shipped Out.

Adrian H. Lamp, a professed Hollander, husband of Mrs. Ruth O'Brien Cady Lamp, of this city, who faces deportation proceedings in New York City after his arrest and incarceration at Ellis Island, blames his predicament on his father-in-law, Clarence A. O'Brien, prominent and wealthy patent attorney, of 1615 Crittenden street northwest.

Lamp is accused of having entered the United States illegally on an American passport last April 19. Self-styled as a Dutch art connoisseur, he was taken in custody Monday in the offices of his attorney in New York and after spending a night in a police station was held at Ellis Island pending investigation of the charges. His attorney, Isaac Weitz, complained that Lamp's trouble was due to Mr. O'Brien.

"As far as I know, and I have the papers, Lamp is in the country legally," Weitz said. "I believe the wrath of his father-in-law is responsible for his predicament."

Mr. O'Brien, disclaiming any previous knowledge of the arrest of Lamp, expressed hope yesterday that Says: For generations the British have excelled in capacity to deal with foreign people. That is why in every quarter of the globe they have been preeminently successful in planting colonies to develop trade.

It is this faculty that has enabled them now to make what promises to be a satisfactory settlement with India. The British assume the responsibility for foreign relations, defense, and finance. That leaves the conduct of domestic affairs largely in the hands of the Indian people. As a guarantee of good faith Gandhi and others recently engaged in the movement for complete self-government have been released from confinement.

This prospect is important not only because of the effect upon the British Empire but because of the new era it opens for three hundred and twenty million people in India. It is one of the greatest movements toward self-government of the present century. Every well-wisher of India must hope the plan will be accepted and adopted. If British statesmanship can pacify that country it will do more than anything else to revive the prosperity of the whole empire. Under order and liberty the progress of India will be assured.

Young Society Woman, Who Was One of Pair "Smuggled" Into Naval Academy Hall, Weds; Congress May Reinstate Two Dismissed.

One of the two young society women who were smuggled by two midshipmen into the mess hall at the Naval Academy, which prank resulted in the middies being dismissed from Annapolis, was married on Monday and has gone to Dallas, Tex., to make her home.

She is Miss Loretta Elizabeth Taylor, of 3505 Woodley road northwest. Last July she and Miss Mary Hayden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Hayden, of Twenty-eighth street, near Woodley road northwest, donned midshipmen's uniforms and were "smuggled" by two second-classmen into the mess at Bancroft Hall, with other members of the incoming second class.

Her mother, Mrs. Robert Love Taylor, yesterday announced the marriage of her daughter to Charles W. Boyd, of Dallas, Tex., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Boyd, of Galveston, Tex. The notice simply stated that the wedding took place Monday, and that the couple will reside in Dallas. The bride is the granddaughter of the ultra-dry that they would approve any drastic measure and believe it should be made even more drastic, are not especially eager to claim credit for a death battle over the bill.

On the other hand, the wets are determined the measure shall not pass until they have exhausted every possible effort to defeat it.

They are taking no chances on letting the bill come to a straight out-and-out vote, on which they probably would be defeated. They are prepared to offer amendment after amendment and to debate each amendment with such skill as they have, knowing full well the value of time in the present situation.

The situation is somewhat strange in comparison with recent days, when truculent drys rode roughshod over the oratorical but impotent wets. Maybe the last elections had something to do with it. Undoubtedly other things than merely prohibition enter into consideration. But the dry champions have forgotten their days of swashbuckling power and their heart really isn't in the fight for the Howell bill. Of course, they want to keep the record clear for the benefit of the folks back home.

Blease After Diplomats.

Senator Cole Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, critic of the immunity enjoyed by foreign diplomats, took occasion to have another fling at them. He said he wanted the Howell bill amended so as to include all persons and buildings in the District. If such a law were sustained it would, of course, make diplomats amenable to our prohibition law.

Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, made known that he has a long list of amendments to propose the Howell bill.

The Marylander carried forward the move he began in earlier consideration of the bill by introducing a resolution calling on the Wickersham commission to supply the Senate with the evidence on which was based its prohibition report. The resolution calls for the testimony taken by the commission.

No action was taken on this in conformity with ordinary procedure, but it was said Congress had a right to know what was behind the commission's recommendations.

That the resolution will get more favorable consideration than did his proposal to investigate the commission was indicated by Senator Norris, chairman of the judiciary committee, to which the resolution was referred. Senator Norris said he favored getting the commission's evidence. The resolution would excuse the commission from exposing evidence taken under pledge of secrecy.

Library Expansion In District Urged

Chamber Committee Favors 15-Year Program to Enlarge System.

Expansion of the public library system of the District, through the medium of a fifteen-year program and an adequate appropriation from Congress, was urged by the recommended committee on public li... of the Washington Chamber ...merce in resolutions adopted ...erday.

The conventions committee of the chamber, which also met yesterday, voted to urge that Congress authorize an appropriation to enable the United States Bureau of Education to prepare a monograph on the history and public buildings of the National Capital for the benefit of civic classes in high schools throughout the country.

The library committee recommended that Washington be put on a parity with other cities with regard to branch library service, and money be provided to defray the cost of doubling the size of the main library building. Dr. George F. Bowerman, District librarian, addressed the meeting. The resolutions pointed out that there are an average of 16 branch libraries in 38 cities of more than 200,000 population whereas Washington has only three.

Tall Cedars Committee Will Meet With Slye

The installation of Mr. Slye as highest official in the Forest was postponed due to an injury he received last month when he fell while he was on his way to the meeting at which he was elected. His home address is 212 A street southeast.

Plans Made in Honor Of Susan B. Anthony

Plans for the 111th birthday anniversary of Susan B. Anthony, famous woman statesman, on Sunday, February 15, were made at a meeting of the Susan B. Anthony Foundation, Inc., last night at the Chastleton Hotel.

A committee was appointed to confer with leading pastors to ask them to use Susan B. Anthony as the theme of sermons on that day. The committee is composed of Mrs. H. Moffatt Bradley, Mrs. Virginia Peters Parkhurst, Mrs. M. Powell, Lady Mary Montague and Mrs. Percy M. Bailey.

Former Minister Quits His Post With Atheists

Albert D. Bell, former minister, resigned yesterday from the offices of president of the Washington Chapter of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism and national secretary of the Junior Atheist League.

Bell characterized the association as a one-man show. He said its total membership is smaller than any one of the larger Washington churches. Bell said that both organizations were "paper groups." Bell studied at Aimee Semple McPherson's Bible School, Los Angeles, Calif., but later renounced his ministry.

HOUSE COMMITTEES IN JAM ON AID BILLS

WHEAT PLAN UP TODAY

(Associated Press.)

In spring log jam fashion, relief legislation piled high in committee tributaries of the House yesterday, while members attempted to blast loose some of the proposals, to float them into the main stream for early action.

The House appropriations committee continued its hearing on the Senate's proposal to give the Red Cross $25,000,000 for food distribution.

Meantime the agriculture committee laid plans to consider today the Senate proposal to divert 20,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat to the needy. The administration is opposed to both these suggestions.

Funds Held Adequate.

At the same time a plea was made before the rules committee for early House action on the Senate's proposed $95,000,000 revolving loan fund for draining and irrigation districts. The Farm Loan Board presented evidence to the banking and currency committee to show that Federal land banks had sufficient funds to grant mortgage extensions to farmers in drought and depression stricken areas.

In the Senate Senator Black, (Democrat), Alabama, charged that action on the Red Cross relief was being delayed deliberately.

Conceding that considerable distress existed in the South and Middlewest, Surgeon General Cumming, of the United States Public Health Service, told the appropriations committee the worst results would not come from the existing acute situation, but from disease resulting from malnutrition of children.

45,000 to Get Jobs.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army Engineers, before the committee, said that by March 1 about 45,000 men would be given employment under the $22,500,000 appropriation for river and harbor and flood control work.

Cumming said some outside aid was needed in Southern States, and expressed fear that, by being undernourished, the future health of the people in the drought areas would be endangered by pellagra, tuberculosis and other diseases.

The surgeon general said many counties in Southern States had been hard hit but, no harder than Virginia where the public health office had not requested aid. He added that so far as he knew the State of Arkansas had done nothing to help its people, but the counties had been trying to care for them.

Cumming said he thought that outside of the drought area the $3,000,000 Robinson proposal for medical supplies to be distributed by the public health service would not be necessary.

Divided Aid Favored.

Brown said that Congress had provided all the funds that could be used economically for river and harbor work during this emergency.

Chairman Wood said that where the Federal Government compelled local interests to accept some responsibility before assistance was given in emergencies the results were much more desirable.

Chairman Haugen, of the agriculture committee expressed opposition to the Senate's wheat proposal.

"The bill defeats the purpose of the farm board," he declared, "because by turning this wheat loose it breaks the price which the Board has been trying to stabilize."

He said he favored appropriating money with which to purchase the wheat.

Reapportionment Asked Upon Basis of Voters

(Associated Press.)

Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, yesterday proposed a constitutional amendment to base congressional reapportionment on the number of registered voters at the two preceding presidential elections.

The amendment is directed at Southern States, where, Mr. Tinkham contends, Negroes not permitted to vote should be excluded in the population count on which congressional representation is based.

Severe Quake Recorded By Georgetown Device

(Associated Press.)

A severe earth disturbance was recorded late yesterday by the seismograph at Georgetown University.

Father Sohon estimated the distance at 8,000 miles from Washington. The first record was at 3:27:05. The quake reached its maximum at 4:20 p. m.

Soldiers Affected In Funds Measure

On motion of Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, the Senate yesterday inserted an amendment in the War Department appropriation bill which would prohibit any officer or enlisted man of the Army from being connected with any publication which solicits paid advertising from firms which do business with the Government. Most of the publications affected have their offices in Washington.

Senator Moses, in introducing the amendment, declared that the problem is one which the committee on printing, of which he is a member, has had to contend with. He pointed out that there are laws which are now being evaded and that his amendment will have the effect of enforcing these laws. He declared that many of the publications affected have preferred postoffice mailing status which is not granted to private publishers.

The amendment was accepted by Senator Reed, chairman of the War Department appropriation committee.

Bills Introduced to Pay Car Lines for Changes

Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, yesterday introduced an amendment to the law extending the Capitol Grounds to provide for reimbursement of the street car companies for the moneys they are forced to expend to relay their street car tracks in accordance with plans for development of the Capitol Plaza. A similar measure has been introduced in the House by Representative Frank W. Bowman (Republican), of West Virginia.

POWER BOARD'S PAY IS UPHELD BY HOUSE

Senate Controversy Injected by LaGuardia Motion to Withhold Salaries.

DEFEATED BY 102 TO 37

(Associated Press.)

The dispute between President Hoover and the Senate over the confirmation of three of his new power commissioners spread to the House yesterday when an effort was made to withhold their salaries until the controversy is settled.

An amendment by Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, to the independent offices supply bill to withhold the salaries of Chairman George Otis Smith, Claude L. Draper and Marcel Garsaud until their nominations have been clarified, was defeated 102 to 37.

The Senate voted to recall their nominations after confirmation because of the dismissal of certain employes.

"It strikes me," Mr. LaGuardia said in arguing for his amendment, "that in this contest between the power trust and the people of this country, the legislative branch of our Government should stand together. It seems to me that good taste would have compelled the commissioners to submit to a reconsideration of their confirmation or to send in their resignations."

Representative Graham (Republican), Pennsylvania, took issue, declaring that when the Senate confirmed the nominations its functions ceased.

"We have nothing to do," he said, "with hysterical utterances about the power trust. I think the House had better attend to the appropriation before it."

The lone Negro member, Representative De Priest (Republican), Illinois, suggested that if the Senate's position was supported it would allow the Senate "to intimidate public officials."

Senators Halted In Near Battle

Two Spirited Southerners Are Kept Apart by Colleagues.

Associated Press.

The Senate appropriations committee found out yesterday what happens when one spirited Southern senator arouses another. It took two fellow Democrats and a broad table to stop the action.

Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, and Senator Morrison, of North Carolina, were the principals. A comment by one or the other didn't sound just right and in a flash each was on his feet and leaning across the expansive committee table.

Senator Bratton, of New Mexico, got Senator McKellar. Senator Harris, of Georgia, intervened on the other side of the table with the equally irate Senator Morrison.

The heat of the dispute—whatever it was about—soon passed, however, and the senators left the room on speaking terms. The committee was in executive session discussing an appropriation bill. Colleagues of the senators likewise were silent and regarded the incident as "one of those things" and all closed.

Freight Loadings Gain 11,687 Cars in Week

(Associated Press.)

Revenue freight loadings for the week ended January 17 were announced yesterday by the American Railway Association as totaling 725,938 cars. This was an increase of 11,687 over the preceding week, but a decrease of 121,217 under the same week a year ago.

Miscellaneous freight loadings totaled 237,658 cars, a decrease of 55,969 below the same week in 1930; merchandise, 206,505, decrease 25,567; coal, 167,193, decrease 23,689; forest products, 32,295, decrease 14,695; ore, 4,916, decrease 3,136; coke, 8,942, decrease, 2,252; grain and grain products, 41,112, increase 3,612, and live stock, 27,317, increase 479.

M'FADDEN STRIKES SNAG IN MEYER CASE

House Group Chairman's Stand on Reserve Governorship Challenged.

NEW YORKER IS PRAISED

(Associated Press.)

The contention of Chairman McFadden of the House banking committee that the way was cleared deliberately for Eugene Meyer, jr., to become governor of the Federal Reserve Board was sharply challenged yesterday before the Senate banking committee.

At a hearing by the Senate committee on the Meyer nomination, Mr. McFadden said he did not believe Edmund Platt, former vice governor of the board, resigned voluntarily. Mr. Platt's resignation made possible the appointment of Mr. Meyer, who comes from the same district—New York.

Roy Young, former governor of the board, who resigned last summer about the same time as Mr. Platt, told the committee he did so to help his own finances. He said he was delighted with the subsequent appointment of Mr. Meyer, whom he characterized as "the best man in America" for the governorship. He said he had not discussed his resignation with Mr. Meyer.

Factors Named in Move.

George F. Rand, president of the Marine Midland Corporation of Buffalo, with whom Mr. Platt is connected, told the committee he initiated the negotiations leading to the employment of Mr. Platt. He read correspondence exchanged between himself and Mr. Platt.

Representative McFadden also named Alfred W. Cook, a New York lawyer, who is a brother-in-law of Mr. Meyer, as one who helped clear the way for Mr. Platt's retirement and the subsequent appointment of Mr. Meyer.

Mr. Cook termed Mr McFadden's "insinuations" untrue. He said he never had met Mr. Platt, did not even know of the appointment of Mr. Meyer to the Reserve Board until he read it in the newspapers, and had no connection whatsoever with the corporation which employed Mr. Platt.

Denies McFadden Version.

"I had nothing to do directly or indirectly," said Mr. Cook, "with Mr. Platt's employment by the Marine Midland Corporation. I can't imagine how Mr. McFadden got the idea. All his statements about me are untrue."

Mr. Meyer several times interrupted Mr. McFadden to deny his statements. Mr. McFadden complained that Mr. Meyer and his friends were too close to the "house of Morgan."

When Mr. McFadden read a newspaper account purporting to show that J. P. Morgan had attended a meeting last December of the board of directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, Mr. Meyer denied it.

He said he had not seen Mr. Morgan since 1921, when the New York financier attended a Government hearing here.

The committee will hear Mr. Meyer today.

Little Hope Seen In Shoals Deadlock

Norris Predicts Failure of Nitrate Legislation at This Session.

(Associated Press.)

Senate leaders held out little hope last night for settlement of the long-standing dispute over Muscle Shoals at this session of Congress, after House and Senate conferees again failed to reach an agreement.

Failure of the legislation was openly predicted by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, author of the Senate bill for Government operation of $150,000,000 power and nitrate plants.

Chairman McNary, of the Senate conferees, also was dubious over the possibility of an agreement. The conference broke up with no provision for a future meeting unless called by Senator McNary. He said he would not call another session unless there is a change in the situation.

ROW OVER NAMING U. S. JUDGE IN OPEN

Attorney General Labels Efforts of Schall as "Political Debt."

SENATOR RAPS MITCHELL

(Associated Press.)

A lengthy controversy between Attorney General Mitchell and Senator Schall over the appointment of a federal judge in Minnesota yesterday broke into the open.

Laying aside customary silence, the Attorney General, a native of Minnesota, said it should be "understood once and for all" that he could not recommend to President Hoover appointment of Ernest A. Michel, Minneapolis lawyer recommended by Schall, a Republican senator from that State.

The blind senator, who has gone to the White House repeatedly to insist that Michel be named to the long-vacant post, immediately replied with a statement that he would not withdraw his indorsement.

Indorsed by Minnesotans.

He said Michel had been indorsed by the entire Minnesota delegation in Congress and by officials of that State as well.

The Attorney General in a statement said some indorsements of Michel had been withdrawn privately, "claiming that their support was solicited." He added that "our file of protests against this nomination is more impressive than in any other case before the department for years past."

Indicating that Schall's recommendation was "unsatisfactory" to the President, the Attorney General said he believed the people of Minnesota did not want men appointed to pay political debts.

Judgment Held Need.

He said the man for such a post "should have good ability, plus common sense and sound judgment," and added, "It goes without saying that his character and integrity should be beyond question."

"I have been told," he said, "that I might help President Hoover politically in Minnesota if I should recommend this appointment."

Mitchell's reference to payment of "political debts" drew from Schall a charge the Attorney General had shown "less than good taste." The senator added that he has heard nothing in Mitchell's record which would eliminate him from "being classed with the most ethical of his profession."

Farm Board Aid Held Extravagant

Assailed by Stafford but $100,000,000 More Voted by House.

(Associated Press.)

The Farm Board was assailed in the House yesterday as being extravagant in its farm relief activities as an appropriation of $100,000,000 to complete its $500,000,000 revolving fund was approved. Representative Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, charged the board with having loaned $17,000,000 to the "California wine growers" and asserted that its members knew it was to be used "illegally" to permit the flooding of the country with millions of barrels of grape concentrates.

He also criticized the salaries paid the officials of the grain and cotton stabilization corporations. In testifying before the House appropriations committee, Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, said these salaries came out of the corporation's profits and not from the Government.

Cutten Foretells End Of Federal Farm Board

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Arthur W. Cutten, noted grain trader and financier, said today he believed the Federal Farm Board in the United States would cease to function when it completes handling the 1930 crop.

Arriving from Chicago to apply for a membership in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, Mr. Cutten said that if the board disposes of its holdings under present conditions it must take a huge loss. The board, he said, had aided the wheat farmer, but there had been no help for the producer of corn, oats, rye or barley.

Hurley Opposes Salary Raise for 918 Officers

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hurley opposed yesterday the Wurzbach bill to grant pay increases to 918 officers promoted under the national defense act to lieutenant colonel, major and captain.

In a letter to the House military committee Mr. Hurley said while an increase in Army pay is justified, he opposed the Wurzbach bill as singling out certain officers for increases. He favored an investigation of military service pay.

Dirigible Fund's Killing Fought by Vandenberg

(Associated Press.)

The elimination from the Army appropriation bill of $200,000 for experimental work on a metal-clad dirigible was opposed in the Senate yesterday by Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan.

Senator Reed said the Senate appropriations committee struck it from the House bill because the Army had said it did not want the dirigible and the use of its funds for the experiment would embarrass its aviation program.

An Outstanding Investment Thought for 1931

Ambassador Dawes said, "The business fool of 1929 was the man without fear—the business fool of 1931 is the man without hope." In making this utterance Ambassador Dawes undoubtedly had in mind the whole country, perhaps the whole world. If the man without hope in 1931 is a fool, the man without optimism with respect to the capital of the United States, our City of Washington, is a hopeless idiot. Meantime prices are low with respect to values, and opportunity is beckoning to the shrewd investor.

Real estate offers the safest field for your investment because time and experience have proven its stability. Washington real estate offers you the most promising future, because Uncle Sam and all his millions stand godfather to the District, and, furthermore, the eyes of all the citizens of this country are centered upon the capital city, many of whom cherish the hope of some day making it their home.

Moreover, the owner of Real Estate is the sole manager of his investment; he is never in the dark as to what it is earning or what are its prospects; the value of his property is not subject to the bids or offerings of excited or panic-stricken speculators; he at all times knows what he has got.

Great times are just ahead of us now. Take advantage of the present market before the millions of people and dollars will flow into the city with the Bicentennial celebration.

BILL TO CURB ALIEN ENTRY IS REPORTED

House Committee Measure Plans 90 Per Cent Cut in Immigration.

ALL NATIONS INCLUDED

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Johnson, of the immigration committee, made a favorable report to the House yesterday on the Free bill for a 90 per cent reduction in immigration during the next two years.

Calling attention to President Hoover's recommendation for "a revision of our immigration laws upon a more limited and selective basis," Mr. Johnson said it was thought best to augment by legislation efforts of the State and Labor departments to reduce immigration.

"The migration of immigrants under existing laws would, it is believed," the report said, "only tend to aggravate the unemployment situation and this fact, if for no other reason, warrants the enactment of the proposed legislation."

Mr. Johnson said the Free bill would reduce immigration from quota countries from 153,000 to 19,000 and from Western Hemisphere countries from 62,000 to 7,000.

Entries in special classification under nonquota visas would remain at 45,000, making the total reduction in immigrants from 261,000 to 72,000.

The Philippines are considered in the bill as if they had a quota of 500, and American Samoa and Guam as if each had a quota of 100. Philippine migration to Hawaii would not be changed.

Convicts Are Shocked At Sing Sing Thievery

Ossining, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—There's a crook in Sing Sing!

Somebody, between last Saturday and today, stole $250 from the safe of Nicholas Schatzel, confidential secretary to Warden Lawes, of the penitentiary. The money belongs to a convict' welfare organization.

What particularly riled the convicts, though, was the fact that they were compelled to submit to search and questioning—just like common thieves!

Many of them protested at the search. They said it reflected upon their integrity.

BUTLER TO EXPLAIN HIS MUSSOLINI TALK

SEVERAL COURSES OPEN

State Department. Whether Il Duce did or not, Ambassador de Martino was emphatic in denying the remarks of Gen. Butler.

In a statement issued yesterday at the Italian Embassy, the ambassador said the remarks attributed to Gen. Butler were "untrue" and "slanderous."

Denied by Embassy.

"The Royal Italian Embassy," the statement said, "can state categorically that Signor Mussolini has never invited any American to accompany him on any trip around Italy. That the premier has never run over any child, man or woman. That, if any accident of this sort had happened, Signor Mussolini would have done what is the duty of every one—he would have stopped and brought help.

"The Italian Ambassador has protested to the Department of State against such untrue and slanderous allegations, expressed by a general in active service."

If Gen. Butler admits making the statements attributed to him, so his close friends believe, he will decline to mention the name of the man who told him the story about the Mussolini machine running down a child.

Gen. Butler's letter is expected at the Navy Department today or tomorrow. Until it has been received, Navy and Marine Corps officials refuse to discuss what action will be taken if the Quantico leader admits he made the remarks attributed to him.

How Officers Should Act.

While there are no regulations against an officer making a speech, it is understood always the officer has to be able to back up the statements he makes.

It is A Navy and a Marine Corps tradition that an officer, in dealing with representatives of foreign governments, shall always show "moderation and courtesy," and always cultivate a feeling of good will.

Should Gen. Butler be reprimanded, the reprimand would be given by one of three persons—Gen. Fuller, Secretary of the Navy Adams or President Hoover.

KENTUCKY G. O. P. DEFEAT EXPLAINED

NYE GROUP HEARS TALE

(Associated Press.)

Injection of the religious issue into the last Kentucky campaign was blamed yesterday for the defeat of former Senator Robsion and at least one representative.

Gordon Huff, a Louisville newspaperman, told the Senate campaign funds committee thousands of copies of a special edition of the Fellowship Forum, a Ku Klux Klan newspaper published in Washington, were distributed.

Regarding previous testimony that Mr. Robsion himself ordered 125,000 copies of the paper to be paid for by friends, Huff said he did not know who ordered or paid for them, but was certain every Republican leader in the State except Robsion "bitterly opposed" their circulation.

Was Publicity Director.

Huff said he served as publicity director for the Republican State central committee during the campaign and "everybody at headquarters," including himself, regarded the Forum editions as "so bad" that 70,000 of 100,000 copies received by the committee were burned—40,000 before and 30,000 after the election.

"Why did you consider them so vile?" asked Chairman Nye.

"Religious prejudice," Huff replied. "They revived the religious issue of the 1928 campaign and religion was not an issue in Kentucky."

Huff said the Democrats also distributed the paper evidently for "boomerang" purposes; that the Fourth District was "knee deep" with copies; that Representative Craddock, Republican, was defeated on that account, and Representative Katherine Langley, another Republican, virtually lost reelection due to their circulation in the Tenth District.

The witness said Robsion told him it was "none of my damn business" when he asked the former senator who was to pay for the Forum.

Opposed by Chairman.

Judge Thomas S. Yates, chairman of the State committee, and Henry J. Stikes, committee treasurer, refused to have anything to do with the paper's distribution and orders were issued none was to be sent out of headquarters unless applicatons came from county chairmen, he said.

Evidence was produced by Chairman Nye that R. M. Estes, a Kentuckian in the Internal Revenue Bureau here, paid $2,000 of the $3,375 printing bill for Robsion. Huff said he was surprised to hear that because he thought Estes did not approve of the Forum campaign.

Estes, in a letter to the committee, has denied he violated the corrupt practices act provision against Federal employes contributing to campaign funds. He said he raised the money, at the request of Robsion, among personal friends not in the Government service.

Asked About Lucas' Cartoons.

Huff was asked about wet cartoons Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee and former Commissioner of Internal Revenue, had sent into several States, and which were made part of the Kentucky edition of the Forum.

He said Lucas came to Louisville the night of the election and was "pretty sore" about the Forum editions. He added the belief Lucas had nothing to do with ordering or distributing them.

Senator Dill, of Washington, a Democratic member of the committee, interposed it was "no more reprehensible to send out the Forum than the cartoons or anything else that Lucas sent out."

survivors, his plane upset on landing and he was marooned with them for twelve days. A brother officer, Lieut. Birger Schyberg, finally took him to safety in a small machine.

Among the stories told of the Swedish airman, during the harrowing fortnight he spent on the rapidly disintegrating ice floe, was one of how he set up a portable radio and broadcast a greeting to his wife in Stockholm on her birthday.

His personal equipment on the dangerous Arctic flight included a revolver and a mouth organ. The gun was taken along in case wild animals prowled too near the primitive camp, and the mouth organ served to cheer the flagging spirits of the marooned men.

After the Italia rescue Capt. Lundborg went to Rome to testify in the investigation of the disaster and later visited the United States. For his rescue of Gen. Nobile he received the first gold merit medal awarded by the Swedish Aviation Society.

EXCLUSION IS URGED OF RUSSIAN IMPORTS

LABOR AND FARM PLEAD

(Associated Press.)

Demands that the American market be safeguarded against imports produced by forced labor were carried to the House ways and means committee yesterday by representatives of farm, labor and lumber organizations. Some of them brought the opinion that such action would bar virtually all imports from Russia.

Wilson Compton, secretary of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, said that forced labor imports threatened domestic as well as foreign markets.

Would Protect Labor.

Edward F. McGrady urged the exclusion on behalf of the American Federation of Labor, "to protect the American Government, as well as its labor and market."

Representative Nelson, of Maine, urged a bar against Russian timber, but declined to sponsor exclusion of all of that country's exports.

Nelson, a member of the Fish Communist investigating committee, who dissented from the majority report, told the committee that evidence before that group and before the Treasury left no doubt that Russian lumber and pulpwood was "produced in vast camps of political prisoners living under horrible conditions."

Asked whether the evidence warranted the proposed legislation, however, the Maine Republican responded, "I wouldn't pass on that."

Part of Reds' Program.

Nelson said the Fish committee had gone into some evidence on Russian production where it bore on the question whether "the so-called economic invasion were a part of a political or Communist program."

"Even then," he added, "I believe we stretched our province."

He said that the United States might establish proof of forced labor production by "recognizing Russia and sending some one over there to see how it is done.

"But I'm not advocating that," he amended.

BONUS PLEA VOICED BY 'ARMY' REMNANT

MISSION IS EXPLAINED

Out of an enthusiastic "army" of some 200 World War veterans which ambitiously swung away from Independence Hall in Philadelphia Saturday in a march to the Capitol, barely 26 haggard and hungry of the parade hobbled into Washington to voice their plea for immediate payment of veterans adjusted compensation.

Losing strength along the entire route, the first remnant of six veterans made its appearance yesterday morning at the office of Representative George A. Walsh, of Philadelphia. In the afternoon came another section, numbering a score and headed by John Alfieri, a leader of the original array who set forth on the march.

Terrance B. Cochran, of the Cochran Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Philadelphia, explained the mission.

"We came down to get our bonus, cash payment on the adjusted compensation certificates," he declared. "John Alfieri, who calls himself the leader, wants work and that's all. There's no leader and everybody knows its bonus we want. That's what Congress is talking about and that's why we came down."

Split thus by dissension over the purpose of the hike, the veterans planned no concerted action and some prepared to make their way back home today as best they could, while others were uncertain whether they will wait until tomorrow in the hope of appearing before the House ways and means committee.

In addition to Representative Walsh, the veterans also called on Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania; Representative Darrow, of Philadelphia, and Representative Patman, of Texas, author of one of the bills providing for immediate payment on adjusted compensation.

Members of the delegation pointed out that the trip was not entirely in vain, inasmuch as the hike might serve as a motive to other veterans' groups to actively back the pay bills by similar demonstrations.

Seven Escape in Midst of Clash at Reformatory Near Trenton.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—While a free-for-all fight raged in a cottage at the Annandale State Reformatory tonight, half a dozen youthful prisoners made a successful break for liberty.

A fight of almost riot proportions in the detached building was started among the 50 or 60 Negro and white inmates gathered for study hour after supper. At least a dozen suffered minor hurts. State police from Somerville and Lambertville were called.

The inmates range from 16 to 24 years old. They battled with fists and other handy weapons, but no gunplay was reported. There is no wall around the institution and when about seven of the lads broke away from the fight in the cottage they dashed out of the grounds to liberty.

CASH FOR VETERANS' CERTIFICATES URGED

Aid of Former Service Men Says Plan Would Act as Business Tonic.

HINES IN DISAGREEMENT

(Associated Press.)

Cash for veterans bonus certificates was proposed to a Senate committee yesterday as a tonic for the ills of business depression.

Paul C. Wolman, of Baltimore, commander in chief of hte Veterans of Foreign Wars, told the Senate finance committee the certificates given World War veterans should be cashed. He added they would "not only be a distinct aid to the welfare of the disabled and needy former service men, but also act as a marvelous stimulant to existing economic conditions."

Veterans administrator Brig. Gen. Hines, appearing before the committee for the second day, testified, however, that some of the measures now before Congress looking to the cash redemption of the certificates would take so long to administer they would do no good toward relieving present distress.

Gen. Hines said the quickest measure to carry out would be one calling for cash redemption of the certificates on their face value as of 1945. He testified this also would be the most expensive and would cost the Government $3,400,000,000.

Year's Work Forecast.

Several bills providing for this procedure are pending in both houses. Cash redemption under this plan would take about a year to complete but could begin almost at once, Gen. Hines said.

He testified the bills providing for redemption of the certificates on the current value, including the extra 25 per cent credit authorized by the original bonus act, would take too long to administer to do any good. Bills of this kind have been introduced by Representative Garner, of Texas, minority leader, and Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas.

It would take about six months to carry out the terms of the bill introduced by Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, for paying the current value of the certificates without the entire 25 per cent additional credit, Gen. Hines said.

Increase In Loans Cited.

Still withholding any recommendations, Gen. Hines presented the committee with statistics to show loans to veterans on the basis of their certificates increased 35 per cent in number during 1930, as compared with 1929.

The veterans' administrator said the bill introduced by Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, to allow veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their certificates would cost $1,697,000,000.

The bill introduced by Representative Fish (Republican), New York, for cash payment of 25 per cent of the face value without interest, would cost $835,000,000.

Mr. Wolman testified his organization at its 1930 convention approved the plan for cash redemption of the face value of the certificates.

President Acts to Prevent Erosion of Niagara Falls

Proposes That Canadian-American Board Convene to Consider Engineering Work to Save Contour of Cataract; Might Use Steel and Concrete.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover took steps yesterday to prevent further marring of Niagara Falls by erosion and rock slides. The contour of the American side of the falls was changed somewhat last week by a sudden and immense fall of rock from the lip of the cascade.

The President asked the War and State Departments to arrange for a session of the joint Canadian-American board created to consider water channels along the international border. They would determine the practicability of engineering work which either might check the erosion or restore the ancient contour of the waterfall. A treaty between the United States and Canada covering the matter was tentatively drawn up several years ago, the President said, and a renewed study was considered justified now. Last week's slide gouged sharply toward the cascade's center.

Geologists repeatedly have warned that Niagara Falls would continue to recede upstream, with a prospect eventually of turning into a series of rapids.

San Francisco, Calif., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The British motorship Enton, with a crew of 60 to 75 men, was aground on a reef near the Island of New Caledonia today and leaking badly. New Caledonia is in the South Seas, about 1,500 miles northeast of Sydney, Australia.

BANDITS GET $120 AT 3 GAS STATIONS

FOUR UNAWARE OF DEED

Filling station bandits last night obtained $120 in three holdups. In one of them, however, a bandit was outwitted by a station employe, who told the holdup man that all the money was in a safe and only the manager knew the combination.

A lone white bandit, with his hat pulled down over his eyes, entered the Gulf Gas Station at Eighth and M streets northwest, and warned Robert Montgomery, 30 years old, of 1340 Monroe street northwest, that unless he handed over all the day's receipts he would "be blown apart."

Montgomery was told that there were two confederates awaiting outside the station with a machine gun to carry out the threat. Montgomery, who had $50 in his pockets, told the intruder that all the money was in the safe.

Visits Neighbor Station.

The bandit forced Montgomery to accompany him across the street to the Standard Oil station, where he made a similar threat to David P. Morton, 50 years old, of 1646 W street southeast, a station attendant. Morton handed over $40 from the cash register.

Morton and Montgomery were warned to keep quiet for five minutes. The bandit ran down Eighth street and disappeared.

Customers Unaware.

With four customers waiting the attention of the lone attendant, two bandits entered the Arcade Filling Station at Fourth and I streets northeast shortly before 8 o'clock and, whipping out revolvers, robbed the cash register of the place of $60.

Before their surprised audience could swing into action the two were lost in the darkness of a nearby alley. As one of the four customers told Detective Sergt. J. J. Tolson, the robbery occurred so smoothly and was over so quickly none of them realized just what was happening.

Thomas Guy, manager of the station, of 19 F street northwest, gave police descriptions of the two men. He said one of them appeared to be a foreigner. Both were about 27 years old, and, he said, judging from the finesse with which they accomplished their mission, both were "regulars."

Judge Sets Aside Adoption of Child

Mother Regains Custody of Boy as Court Hears of Trick Attempt.

Baltimore, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Esther Belt, 23, testified in circuit court here today that she had been tricked in permitting her infant child to be adopted more than two years ago, and Judge Samuel K. Dennis set the adoption aside.

The child, William Raymond Belt, now 2 years old, was adopted July 9, 1928, by Mrs. Helen M. Newman, of Liberty, Lake County, Fla.

Mrs. Belt testified that after the birth of the child she became seriously ill and that Mrs. Newman nursed her. Mrs. Newman, she declared, told her she was about to die and persuaded her to sign the adoption papers. After she recovered, Mrs. Belt said, she made several trips to Florida, but Mrs. Newman refused to give up the child.

Judge Dennis ordered that the boy, now believed to be in Florida, be returned to his natural mother.

Plant to Resume Operations Soon

Woolen Mills to Employ 153 Charlottesville Men in Two Weeks.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 27.—The Charlottesville Woolen Mills, the city's biggest industrial plant, will begin normal operations in about two weeks, according to announcement today by D. VanWagenen, president. The mills closed one week ago.

Mr. VanWagenen said the temporary cessation of work was necessitated by the installation of some large machinery and by general repairs. He was careful to add that closing the plant was not because of any business depression nor because of a shortage of orders.

According to the president, the 153 employes will return to work when the mills are reopened. He said that about seven will be cut off because of rearrangements of machinery.

late Senator "Fighting Bob" Taylor, of Tennessee. She lived in Tennessee as a girl, before moving to Washington. She attended Miss Madeira's School here and is widely known in the younger social set. The groom is a graduate of the University of the South.

Meanwhile, a controversy rages around the two midshipmen whose prank in taking the girls into the hall led to their summary dismissal after the presence of the girls had been detected by an executive officer. They are Lawrence L. Myatt, of Wollaston, Mass., and Miller S. Burgin, now of Jacksonville, Fla. They were dismissed from the Naval Academy by President Hoover, on recommendation of Secretary of the Navy Adams and Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, academy superintendent.

About two weeks ago Senator David I. Walsh and Representative Richard B. Wigglesworth, of Massachusetts, introduced bills providing for reinstatement of the two young men. Despite the strenuous objection of Secretary Adams and Admiral Robison, a Senate naval subcommittee on Saturday voted for reinstatement, in a report to be submitted to the naval committee this week. The House subcommittee on private bills of the naval affairs committee has held several hearings and intends to conclude its investigation with a hearing on Thursday, according to the subcommittee's chairman, Representative Clark Burdick, of Rhode Island. He declined last night to indicate the attitude of the group.

Peculation Cases Reach Grand Jury

Baltimore, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Three men, one an officer and another an employe of the Chesapeake Bank, which closed December 9, were presented by the grand jury today on charges of peculations totaling $136,349.

Milton B. Delcher, the vice president, was named in three charges involving a total of $95,479. James L. Smith, manager of the Fulton Branch, and Fred W. Kahl, a garage man, were charged jointly with conspiracy to obtain $40,870 with intent to defraud.

Under the Maryland law presentation by the grand jury is usually equivalent to indictment.

A grand jury investigation of the affairs of the bank, which listed resources of more than $5,000,000 in a statement last June has been in progress for more than a week. Delcher's bail was set at $130,000 and that of the other two named at $45,000 each.

Rev. R. D. Harlan's Funeral Rites Held

Retired Minister, Princeton Graduate, Died Three Days After Wife.

Funeral services were held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church for the Rev. Richard Davenport Harlan, 71 years old, retired minister and educator, who died Saturday night in the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital. Interment was in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Former Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, of the District Supreme Court, and Charles Henry Butler, formerly official reporter of the United States Supreme Court, attended the ceremonies as representatives of the Rev. Harlan's class of 1881 at Princeton University. Included in the floral tributes were yellow lilies and other flowers in the Princeton colors, sent by members of his class and the Washington Princeton Alumni Society.

Mr. Harlan was buried beside his wife, whose death preceded his by three days. Mrs. Harlan died on Wednesday following a stroke of apoplexy, suffered as she was preparing to visit her husband in the hospital on Saturday, January 17. Her body was placed in a vault in Rock Creek Cemetery, and burial services were postponed to enable Mr. Harlan to attend when he was well enough.

Washingtonian Among 30 Raised to Order of Malta

Thomas F. Woodlock Is Honored With Others by Council.

Thomas F. Woodlock, of this city, who resigned last August from the Interstate Commerce Commission to become contributing editor of the Wall Street Journal, is one of 30 Americans elevated to the Order of Malta, according to Associated Press dispatches received last night from Rome.

Mr. Woodlock was elected at a meeting of the Sovereign Council of the order January 20, the dispatch stated.

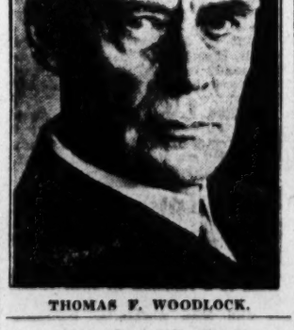
Formerly associated with the American International Corporation and the New York Stock Exchange, Mr. Woodlock was named to the Interstate Commerce Commission by former President Coolidge, and his appointment was confirmed by the Senate only after a long battle. He was charged with too close association with moneyed interests.

Upon resigning last August he expressed a desire to return to private life, and was succeeded on the commission by Charles D. Mahaffie, former finance director. Mr. Woodlock returned to the contributing staff of the Wall Street Journal, which publication he edited in 1905.

Joseph J. Larkin, whose address was not given, was elevated to master of the Grand Cross by the Sovereign Council. Mrs. Larkin and the Countess Edward L. Hearn, of Rome, were made ministresses of the cross.

Fourteen American made Knights of Malta at the January 5 session of the council included Clarence H. Mackay and Angus D. McDonald, of New York; Lawrence Aloysius Downs, of Chicago; Jack Johnson Spalding, of Atlanta; Theodore F. McManus, of Detroit, and Dennis F. Kelly, of Chicago.

Americans elected at the council meeting January 20 included Victor J. Dowling and Victor F. Ridder, of New York; James E. Gorman, of Chicago; Edward Hines, of Evanston, Ill., and Edward James Tobin, of San Francisco.



THOMAS F. WOODLOCK.

W., B. & A. ROAD PUT IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

G. W. Williams Appointed by Judge Soper on Petition by Capital Company.

POWER FIRM INCLUDED

Receivership for the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railway and its subsidiary, the Annapolis, Chesapeake Bay Power Co., was granted to petitioners yesterday on orders signed by Judge Morris A. Soper in the United States District Court in Baltimore.

George Weems Williams, Baltimore attorney, was named receiver on a petition filed by R. E. Duvall Co., Inc., of Washington, with offices in the Franklin National Bank Building. Judge Soper simultaneously appointed Albert E. Towers, of Baltimore, as receiver for the subsidiary company on a petition of George Baker Schroeder, a citizen of New York.

The Duvall firm, in its petition, stated the transporation company owed it $3,246.25 for crossties bought recently. Mr. Schroeder, in his petition, alleged that the power company owed him on a $30,000 promissory note, due last December 31.

Manager Issues Statement.

The W. B. & A. and its subsidiary, through Harry T. Connolly, vice president and general manager, issued the following statement:

"The appointment of a receiver of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railway Co. was made necessary by impairment of the railroad's revenues through continuous falling off in traffic. The road, like other interurban roads, is subject to competition of motor buses, motor trucks and private automobiles. This competition we have not been able to overcome, even by new equipment, reductions in fares and decreases in running time. Consequently, the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railway Co. finds itself in the same unfortunate position as some of the steam roads and an increasing number of electric urban and interurban roads.

"The appointment of a receiver for the Annapolis & Chesapeake Bay Power Co. is a consequence of the receivership of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railway Co., which owns all the stock of the power company.

Conserve Security, Claim.

"This power company receivership will not prejudice but will conserve the security of the power company's bonds. The power company is earning interest, not only on its bonds but on its larger junior indebtedness to the Consolidated Gas Electric Light & Power Co., of Baltimore, on loans for construction.

"This junior indebtedness, which itself is fully covered by corresponding equity in the property, has thus provided additional equity and security for the bonds. The receivership need not prevent or delay payment of bond interest, and in any reorganization of the power company or sale subject to its bonds the bonds will occupy the position of underlying bonds."

It was stated that both companies will continue to be operated.

Ancillary Receiver Asked.

Immediately after officials of the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Railway had petitioned and had obtained receivership for their line in Baltimore, a petition for the appointment of an ancillary receiver in the District was filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The same grounds recited in the petition filed in Baltimore were recited locally. R. E. Duvall Co., Inc., also appears as the plaintiff.

TIRED WHEN SHE GOT UP

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I used to be as tired when I got up in the morning as when I went to bed. I had fainting spells and palpitation. Of course it was my age. I read a Lydia E. Pinkham booklet and started taking the Vegetable Compound three times a day. I am now a well woman. Three of my neighbors know what it did for me so they are taking it too. I will write to any woman if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her as it did me. I feel like a young woman now and I thank you."—Mrs. H. C. Henry, 286 Fuller Ave., St. Paul, Minnesota.

He said he didn't know it was against the law to park on Pine street, in the downtown financial district, and promised not to do it again. Magistrate Burke fined him $1.

HEARINGS AT NIGHT SET IN BRADY TRIAL

OTHER CASES ON DOCKET

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Jan. 27.—Night hearings in the trial of LeRoy Brady will be instituted tomorrow night, it was learned today from Judge Robert Moss, presiding jurist of Anne Arundel County Circuit Court, before whom the case is being argued jointly with a jury. The Anne Arundel docket includes several murder trials for next week and the Brady case, removed here from Prince Georges County, must be completed by Saturday night.

Progress was slow today, the State attempting to prove that the metal particles placed on exhibition and labeled as coming from the scene of the tragedy were bomb parts which killed Naomi Hall Brady, her sister, Dorothy, and brother, Samuel. It was the effort of the State through the special prosecutor, J. Wilson Ryon, to try to prove that parts of the bomb can be traced in their origin to the machine shop in Washington where Herman was employed. The State brought out the particulars of the tragedy, together with statements concerning the early life of the defendants

Defendant Appears Calm.

LeRoy Brady was accompanied to the courtroom by his third and youngest brother, Emmett Brady, who testified during the latter part of the afternoon. The defendant, however, still refused to show any signs of interest in his trial.

Experts in chemistry and metallurgy were summoned to the stand. After having examined several experts this morning, the State resumed its questioning of Dr. Henry O. Weller, following a noon recess, learning from him the method he used in taking pictures of the metal parts of the bomb at the Bureau of Standards, where he is a chemical expert.

Following him, two other experts were summoned from the Bureau of Standards, Dr. Gustav Lindell, department of chemistry, and Dr. E. C. Groesbeck, department of metallurgy.

During the latter part of the afternoon, witnesses were examined on general phases of the case. Frank Prince, policeman at Upper Marlboro; William Clark, watchman at the Barry-Pate Chevrolet Co. in Washington; Mrs. Ester Jones, sister of Naomi Hall and Emmett Brady were called to the stand.

Prince Is Questioned.

Prince was questioned on his discovery of auto tags, which he said he picked up in back of the Hall home shortly after the explosion. Prosecutor Ryon later exhibited certificates from the Maryland Auto Commissioner's office showing that the tags were ones given to the Barry-Pate Co., for which Herman Brady worked.

Clark was questioned concerning the early appearance of young Brady at the shop on the morning of New Year's Day. Clark stated that it was not unusual for employes to report for work an hour or two earlier, and that on the day mentioned Brady was observed to do nothing unusual.

Mrs. Jones appeared on the stand in a most confused condition. She told of family relationship.

Emmett Brady was the final witness. He had just taken the stand when Judge Moss adjourned court. He will be called again tomorrow. At the close, the State was attempting to learn from Emmett whether his brother was familiar with the outbuildings on his father's property, from where, it is claimed, the dynamite and bombing equipment, frequently used for blasting stumps, was obtained.

Boys Go on Stand.

The three boys who found alleged particles of the bomb in the Hall home at Seat Pleasant testified. The youths, Herman Schmidt, Henry Edelen and Martin Ware, around 16 years old, and living in the neighborhood of Capitol Heights, told of how they recovered the particles from the walls of the room in which the explosion occurred. The State attempted to prove that Herman Schmidt was an expert in describing corrosion found on certain of the metallic particles because he was a student of physics and chemistry. The defense attorney, Lansdale G. Sasscer, objected, but Judge Moss sustained the boy's testimony.

Harold Rogers, a reporter, and August C. Chinn, photographer for a Washington newspaper, told of obtaining bomb parts from the youths and later turning them over to Lieut. Fowler, who acknowledged their receipt upon the stand.

Another witness was Dr. James R. Boyd, who examined the body of Naomi Hall Brady, wife of Herman Brady, who will also face trial on the murder charge. He said Mrs. Brady was an expectant mother, and commented that she was horribly lacerated by the explosion.

Sculptor Is Ordered To Vacate Park Site

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—A sculptor rated eloquently by his friends as the equal of Michelangelo, was ordered, in effect, today to take his statues and get out.

The board of estimates approved acceptance from John D. Rockefeller, jr., of the land on which stands the studio—and the masterpieces—of George Gray Barnard. The land, some 30-odd acres in Washington Heights, is to become a city park.

France Buys Soviet Oil.

Moscow, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—An agreement has been signed in Paris for the purchase by French interests of 300,000 tons of Soviet bezine yearly, an increase of 40 per cent over the old contract. Agreements have also been renewed with French importers of Russian lubricants.

Two Cents Too High.

Canberra, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—There is much disappointment in government circles because an Argentine firm underbid Australian producers on a big contract for furnishing meat to the Italian army. The South Americans shaded Australian prices by 2 cents a pound.

Beer Replace Wine? Not On Italy's Diet

Rome, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Fear that beer might displace wine in Italy's favor appears to be a very frothy idea, in the light of statistics.

The Italians, forty-odd millions of them, each put away a full half barrel of wine a year, or half a gallon a week.

Eight Refuse to Leave Jail When Doors Open

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Jan. 27.—Though doors were wide open, eight Upshur prisoners refused to leave the warm Upshur jail late yesterday when two worked locks and walked out. A third man joined them, but returned later. The escaped men are Sherman Tenney, 27, of Ellamore, charged with theft, and Roy Pringle, 22, of Alexander, held on a paternity charge.

200,000 MORE NOW IDLE, GREEN STATES

EMPLOYERS ARE WARNED

(Associated Press.)

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, estimated yesterday that 5,700,000 wage earners were idle early in January, as compared with 5,500,000 in December.

The figures did not include farm labor or office workers, he said.

At the same time, the federation head warned against employers dropping completely wage earners who have been given part-time employment.

"Now is no time to abandon this barrier against depression forces," he said.

He said the increases in unemployment was attributable largely to complete layoffs, instead of part-time work, particularly in the garment, metal and other manufacturing industries, and in building.

"This decrease in part-time work and increase of unemployment," he said, "sounds a warning to the American business world. * * * When a man has part-time work he at least has credit and money for bread. He has a job, and that is about the most important thing in the world for a wage earner. * * *

"Industrial recovery is starting, competent observers tell us, and the spring season just ahead is the best time for advance. We can not afford to have it checked as it was last year by increasing unemployment and reduced buying power. Efforts to keep men on the pay roll and to give relief should be redoubled now when the need is greatest and when workers' buying will count most in stimulating trade."

Green said figures showed the increase in unemployment from December to January this year was larger than usual and in November and December the number laid off also was larger.

"This does not mean that business is suddenly worse," he said. "But it does indicate a dangerous trend which if it continues will retard business recovery."

Citizens Approve Bill for Workers

Southeast Residents Meet at Branch Library for Discussion.

Adoption of a resolution favoring the Walsh bill now pending in Congress, which provides a five-day week for Federal per diem employes, featured the well attended meeting of the Southeast Citizens Association last night in the Southeast Branch Library.

A resolution which would express the member's approval of requiring all operators of automobiles to carry compulsory liability insurance of $10,000 was referred to a committee for consideration.

Miss Lydia Berklin, chairman of Friendship House; John P. Collins, assistant principal of Eastern High School; Charles Guyon, coach at Eastern High School, and H. O. Beaver were elected to membership.

W. J. Carry spoke in favor of having a traffic light placed at Eighth and G streets southeast. It was announced that Massachusetts avenue will be a boulevard from Stanton Park to the entrance of Gallinger Hospital grounds. The association voted to ask for the immediate completion of the circle at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.

SEVEN ARE INDICTED IN RECENT KILLINGS

Five Persons Accused of Murder in First Degree; One, Second Degree.

MAYHEM CASE REPORTED

Seven persons were indicted yesterday by the District grand jury in connection with homicide cases, five being charged with first degree murder, one with second degree murder and one with manslaughter. All are Negroes.

The indictments were among 34 reported to Justice Peyton Gordon in District Supreme Court. Other indictments covered gaming, mayhem, grand larceny, housebreaking and larceny, assault in various degrees, violation of the prohibition act and nonsupport.

Arthur and Jesse C. Lanier were charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of Willie Coates, Negro, January 11, near Second and L streets southeast. Coates was said to have been attempting to part persons who were fighting.

Accused in Shooting.

David Marshal was accused in connection with the slaying of Daniel Taylor, Negro, January 16, in Grace court southwest.

The death of Elmer Neverson, January 19, led to the indictment of Benjamin Pruitt. Neverson was shot January 18 in Greenes court northwest. Pruitt, according to the indictment, shot Neverson three times.

A charge of second degree murder is contained in an indictment against Lawrence Madison, Negro, accused of having killed his wife on Christmas Eve, at a house on D street near Second street northwest. He is said to have used a flatiron.

10 Indicted in Gaming.

The automobile death of James R. Butler, January 11, led the indictment of Walter Clinton Geary on a charge of manslaughter. Butler was struck by a machine said to have been operated by Geary, in the Northeast section.

As a result of police and Federal activities against reputed gaming establishments, ten persons were indicted on gaming charges. Bennie Olevack, George Dixon, Clifford D. Vorhees and Dock Davis were indicted in connection with a raid at a place on I street near Eighth street northwest.

Harry Zieler, Mossy William Mosko and Ruby Haberman were named jointly in an indictment resulting from a gaming raid on a basement on Eighth street near E street northwest.

Carl Joseph Simonton, Charles H. Quinn and George L. Littlefield were indicted jointly on a gaming charge as the aftermath of a raid January 20 on a second-floor apartment on Eleventh street near E street northwest.

This mayhem indictment was returned against Emilio R. Torres. The man is accused of having assaulted Alfred A. Weisfeld, December 18. Weisfeld, who wore glasses, was permanently blinded in one eye, the indictment specifies.

Freed in Tear Gas Case.

William Dietz, accused of having fired a tear gas gun at Stephen W. Kendrick, a taxicab driver, in an argument over fare, was cleared of a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. The grand jury's action was based on the fact that Dietz had defrayed all expenses incident to Kendrick's injuries, it was said.

Richard H. Hight was exonerated of a technical charge of homicide growing out of the death of George Stephens December 27. Stephens, police said, died from a fall when he was on a drinking party with friends.

BIG CROWDS MAKING AUTO SHOW SUCCESS

SALES INCREASE NOTED

That the eleventh annual automobile show, which today reaches the half-way mark in its run at the Washington auditorium, will prove to be highly successful not only from the standpoint of attendance, which already promises to break last year's record, but also in respect to sales, was pointed out last night by Richard J. Murphy, show manager.

According to Mr. Murphy, exhibitors report a substanial volume of actual business transacted, the most direct public acknowledgement that the values offered this year are unprecedented in the history of the industry.

"Further, the material results of the show thus far seem to us to furnish sound proof of returning normalcy, and all observers recognize the importance of such activity in the automobile industry and trade to general prosperity," Mr. Murphy said. "Therefore, this year we have been especially watchful of the reaction of show visitors to the exhibits from this standpoint, realizing fully that business men in all fields are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the show.

Reaction Is Favorable.

"At this half-way mark in the run of the exposition at the auditorium we can say that it is markedly favorable."

It was emphasized by Mr. Murphy that under no circumstances are visitors to the automobile show importuned to buy, and that such sales as have been made are simply the result of a conviction on the part of purchasers themselves that current motor car values are too attractive to overlook. The automobile show, it was pointed out, is designed primarily as a convenience to all persons interested in the newest automotive developments, affording them an opportunity of viewing all the cars under one roof.

"We regard these spontaneous sales as a splendid augury of the season, and feel that the success of the auto show should give confidence to the entire business community," Mr. Murphy said.

150 Passenger Models.

Both floors of the huge Washington Auditorium have been receiving their full quota of visitors, and none of the more than 150 passenger car models on display has been slighted. Especial interest has been manifested also in the marine and aircraft displays, while the exhibits of accessories and shop equipment have proved unusually attractive this year.

Today, and until the closing on Saturday, the doors of the Auditorium will be opened promply at 10:30 a. m. and closed at 10:30 p. m. Show officials call particular attention to the availability of the show during the morning and afternoon hours, during which many persons find it convenient to attend.

The audience of Station WMAL will be addressed tonight by Mr. Murphy on the subject of the newest developments in motor car coachwork design.

Moore, commissioner of county police, said tonight he had seized a cache of 6,000 dynamite caps and 400 feet of dynamite fuse in woods two miles from Schoolfield today. BUS HEARING SENT TO UTILITIES BOARD

COMMISSION IS DEFIED

The moot question of interstate bus regulation was shifted back to the Public Utilities Commission by the District Commissioners yesterday despite the fact that the Municipal Court has ruled the former body has no authority in the matter.

While it appeared that the Commissioners surrendered to the Utilities Commission following a prolonged controversy as to where the authority of regulation lies, the District heads retained a string to their proposal that the commission conduct the public hearing in that they specified that the recommendation of the utilities body must be forwarded to the Commissioners before a regulation is drafted.

It was said at the commission offices that a date for the hearing, which is intended to give the bus companies an opportunity to air their objection to any ban, will probably be set at the semiweekly meeting of the body tomorrow.

One of the chief reasons that induced the District Commissioners to seek some regulation of the motor vehicles at once rather than wait for the passage of the traffic bill is the action of one large bus line in opening a terminal at Fourteenth and E streets northwest in defiance of the Utilities Commission which denied an application for a permit.

Both the corporation counsel's office and Richmond B. Keech, the people's counsel, have expressed opinions that the Commissioners have authority to regulate interstate buses under the present traffic act, but the District heads would prefer to have the matter clarified by the passage of the new bill before they take any action. Adoption of the bill, however, is doubtful at this session of Congress.

The District bodies have been unable to agree on the proposed boundaries of the congested area from which the bus terminals and stops would be excluded. This will be one of the matters to be considered at the hearing.

FATHER-IN-LAW BLAMED BY LAMP

the Government will deport his son-in-law. He said that he had had some trouble with Lamp here a month ago when Lamp came to see his estranged wife, who is at her father's home.

"My daughter tells me that when she first met Lamp he was traveling on a Dutch passport," said Mr. O'Brien, who added that he himself was not sure of Lamp's citizenship.

Lamp on January 9 filed two suits in District Supreme Court against Mr. O'Brien, one charging his father-in-law with alienation of affections of Mrs. Lamp and asking $50,000, and the other asking $25,000 for alleged false arrest and imprisonment while at the Union Station. In his suits, Lamp declared that on November 12, 1929, he married Mr. O'Brien's daughter at Rockville, Md., and that they lived happily together until Mr. O'Brien intervened. He claimed in his suit that he was arrested when he came here recently.

RATE CONSENT PLEA NEARLY COMPLETED

SEEKS TO CUT RETURN

A petition to modify the electric rate consent decree in accordance with the desires of the Public Utilities Commission has been practically completed, Corporation Counsel William W. Bride announced yesterday, and will be filed in the District Supreme Court within the next few days, maybe today or tomorrow.

A final checking of the document and the final approval of the utilities body is necessary, Mr. Bride explained, before the case goes to court. The commission has furnished the corporation counsel with data he requested in order to draw up the petition and Mr. Bride intends to make every effort to obtain the modification despite that he advised the utilities body to abrogate the decree.

The chief provision of the proposed alteration is the reduction of the Potomac Electric Power Co.'s rate of return, permitted before a division of profits is required, from 7½ to 6¾ per cent. Under the decree, as it now stands, this excess profit is divided, half going to the company and the other half being utilised in providing lower rates for the following year. The new proposal would scale this division so that the amount applied to rate reductions would increase according to the percentage of excess profit.

While there is no official comment, it is believed that there is little hope of the commission gaining the modification unless it is agreed to by the power company, which was a party to the agreement in 1924. Richmond B. Keech, the people's counsel, is also known to be merely waiting until the petition is filed before acting. While he will not reveal his plans, it would not be surprising if he moved to have the whole matter thrown out of court because of his position that the commission can abrogate or alter the decree on its own initiative.

"Congress may have the power to make such a regulation, but the District Commissioners have not. Not only does it discriminate against taxicabs in favor of street cars, but it also discriminates against the public."

They pointed out that a person leaving any one of the F street theaters during the rain would have to go a half block or more to another street in order to get a cab under the new ruling.

The regulation does not become effective until it has been advertised ten days. Meanwhile, the taxicab companies are preparing to fight it with all their legal resources.

Little Aid to Drought Area Expected From Feed Loans

Chairman of Relief Organization Points Out Only $30 a Head Is Allowed, While $60 Is Sum Needed to Survive Winter.

Marianna, Ark., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—A prediction that few farmers in the cotton sections of Arkansas will be able to take advantage of the $45,000,000 appropriated for Government feed, seed and fertilizer loans was made here today by Col. Egan C. Robertson, banker and chairman of the feed loan organization in Lee County.

Similar opinions were expressed by bankers, planters and merchants in other eastern Arkansas cotton counties, struck by last summer's drought, including St. Francis and Phillips Counties, where the Red Cross is feeding thousands.

Col. Robertson based his statement on interviews with more than a dozen planters who would be expected to take advantage of loans, he said. Out of these none was found able to obtain relief from this source.

"I doubt that a single farmer in Lee County will be able to take advantage of these loans," Col. Robertson said. "What farmers of Lee and other counties in this section need is not so much seed and fertilizer as feed for live stock.

"The Government will loan only $30 a head for work stock for the work season. The best estimate of the amount required is $60 a head. To obtain a Government loan, the farmer must give a first mortgage on his crop. If by doing this he can get only half enough feed, he can not arrange for credit to get the rest of his feed, to say nothing of food for his family or for the tenants on his plantation."

Louis McDaniel, at Forrest City, who is now in charge of Red Cross relief for live stock in St. Francis County, expressed the same opinion.

"These loans may help the wheat farmers, but I can't see where the cotton planters will get any relief through them," he said.

There is general agreement on one thing—this year's crop will be produced at less cost than in many years.

Parched corn, turnips and walnuts have been keeping the wolf from the doors of drought sufferers in this section. Numerous families have been found by Red Cross relief workers who had nothing to eat but parched corn and turnips, and in a few instances there was nothing but walnuts. One woman now receiving rations from the Red Cross had eaten nothing but walnuts for three days, she said.

Rabbits provide meat for many. Asked why he didn't kill more rabbits, one old Negro replied:

"Boss, you know these rabbits are young and wild, and we're just too hungry to chase 'em."

The end of cotton picking time in the early fall marked the beginning of distress in this, as in most other, drought sections of the State.

Three days before Christmas the Red Cross began functioning to aid the destitute, and in the last month distress has become so widespread in Lee County that more than half its population is on the food dependent list. The county has a population of 28,000, and 17,000 of these are being fed by the Red Cross. About 65 per cent are Negroes.

Pellagra and other diseases common to the undernourished are breaking out. The Red Cross is distributing yeast to prevent the spread of pellagra.

Another problem here as elsewhere is how to keep live stock alive. The Red Cross here is beginning to provide some feed, but the need is too widespread for quick handling.

GANDHI, FREED, SAYS CAMPAIGN OF DISOBEDIENCE TO CONTINUE to make their own salt be given up."

It was for making salt in defiance of the British law that Gandhi was sent to prison.

"The execution of these three fundamental rights is not intended to register the resistance of the Indian nation to British rule. It is intended to achieve these ends for all time, regardless of the outcome of the forthcoming peace conversations.

"Pampered Prisoner."

"No amount of good will established between Great Britain and India will, so far as I can see, reconcile the Indian public to the evils of alcohol and foreign cloth, and the refusal of the government to allow the peasants to make their own salt."

Gandhi said he had lost 7 pounds during the nine months in prison, but that he feels better now than when he began his sentence last May.

"I was a pampered prisoner," he smiled. "The prison officials were extremely kind to me, but, of course, I was isolated from my associates in the Congress party, and it was impossible for me to see those near and dear to me. Whatever comforts I enjoyed were really mental torture to me, for I was conscious of the fact that other prisoners were suffering."

Nevertheless, he said, if the approaching peace conferences fail and if he runs afoul of the law again, he is ready to go back to jail.

"Indeed," said he, "I hated to leave the peace and solitude of prison for the turmoil and strife of everyday life."

He became solemn and spoke slowly:

"I hunger after peace, if it can be achieved with honor. But even if I stood alone I could not be a party to any peace which does not solve the three problems I have mentioned.

"I want the substance of independence, not the shadow. Therefore I shall judge the round table conference by its fruits.

Three Fundamental Points.

"I have given the three fundamental points of our program, but even after the government has accepted this program, the end of civil disobedience and noncooperation depends upon the settlement of the remaining eight points of our program."

He listed them: Reduction of the ration of exchange from 18 to 16 pence to the rupee; reduction of land revenue by at least 50 per cent; reduction of military expenditures by 50 per cent; reduction in salaries of high government employes by half; reduction of the protective tariff on foreign cloth; passage of the coastal reservation bill; abolition of the criminal police and establishment of the right of citizens to use firearms for personal defense.

GEN. PERSHING'S WARNING.

Gen. Pershing's story of the World War reveals a country woefully unprepared for the emergency, reluctant to realize the gravity of the situation, and seemingly unable to comprehend the fact that the winning of the war would require the mobilization of every element of offensive strength that could be commanded. The story is an eye opener in many respects. Months elapsed following the break with the Central Powers before even the skeleton of a fighting machine had been assembled in France. Months were consumed in obtaining the supplies essential to the prosecution of modern warfare. The story illustrates clearly the need for preparedness. Each day lost in assembling and equipping the expeditionary force prolonged the war and meant the loss of additional lives.

Secretary Hurley now explains why the War Department has withdrawn its support of the draft bill sponsored by the late Secretary Good. Explaining that it is unwise to enact draft legislation alone in peace time, because a much broader preparedness program is needed, he says:

> A complete mobilization plan for war must contemplate the mobilization and control of every national asset that is needed to carry the great burdens that war entails. The veterans' organizations of the country have rightly insisted on such a policy. Man power is only one of the essential elements that go to make up the vast machinery necessary to a nation when faced with a grave emergency. To seek piecemeal legislation would crystallize one portion of the plan into law, while the remainder would be subjected to all the changes that might be found desirable before the arrival of an emergency.

Secretary Hurley calls attention to the fact that the commission authorized by Congress to study methods for equalizing the burdens of war and to remove the profits of war has held its first meeting. This commission will study all aspects of the prosecution of modern war, including not only the plans for mobilizing man power but the plans as evolved by the War Department for the manufacture of munitions in large quantities and the mobilization of all industry for war purposes. At the conclusion of its study it will make recommendations to Congress for the enactment of comprehensive legislation.

Gen. Pershing's story reveals the need for such a study and such legislation. Had the country been ready to swing from a peace time to a war time basis on short order in 1917, mobilizing not only its man power but its industries and its raw material resources as well, the cost in life and treasure would have been much less.

BUSINESS METHODS FOR DOCTORS.

Much has been said in recent years about the obligation of the medical profession to organize for better health service. Almost invariably the subject is treated from the public point of view. Dr. Charles Gordon Heyd, president of the medical society of the County of New York, has presented the physicians' viewpoint in a way that may bring some action.

The immediate problem is to devise a means of compensating physicians for charity work. Dr. Heyd valued the medical services furnished free each year at $365,000,000. Physicians treat 500,000 persons daily without charge, he says, yet the average annual income of doctors is not more than $3,000. Only one out of five doctors leaves an estate equal to the cost of his education and training. Dr. Heyd considers the present system under which doctors are working "ethically wrong and economically unsound."

The remedy he suggests is medical insurance. He would have the people insure themselves against operations and serious illness as they do against death. As an alternative he would create a credit and funding society through which people could arrange for medical care on the deferred payment plan. Dr. Heyd is convinced that a large majority of the people now receiving medical treatment gratis could pay if some appropriate agency for handling small payments were set up.

The plan for medical insurance seems highly impractical, because those people who are now receiving charity would not take out such insurance. This suggestion illustrates the need of business methods in the medical profession. A considerable part of its practice is a dead loss, so far as remuneration is concerned. Millions of dollars which should be going to medical men is spent for patent medicines and quack treatments. Other millions are lost to the profession because many people choose to nurse themselves back to health rather than pay exorbitant fees. By adopting a business policy the profession might greatly enlarge its clientele and increase the percentage of those who pay for medical service. Industry has met virtually the same problem by cutting profits on each unit sold and selling more. Why can't the medical profession do substantially the same? If the profession is to serve modern communities adequately the business element can not be ignored. It is encouraging to note that the profession is beginning to acknowledge its own deficiencies.

SENATE LAWSUITS.

Efforts of certain senators to oust three members of the Federal Power Commission have given rise to a series of anomalous situations. When the President refused to return the nominations to the Senate for reconsideration Senator Walsh was of the opinion that to pursue the matter further would be a "futile gesture." Now he seems to think, and the Senate judiciary committee agrees with him, that he can induce the administration to prosecute itself in the courts.

Senator Walsh's resolution, which the committee approved, requests the District attorney for the District of Columbia to bring quo warranto proceedings against the three commissioners to test their right to hold office. Attorney General Mitchell, who is District Attorney Rover's superior officer, has already advised the President that these commissioners were duly confirmed and are legally in office. How can the prosecuting arm of the Government institute proceedings to overrule itself? How can an official who is responsible to the President bring a suit to impugn the President's actions?

The opposition to the President has set up the contention that the Senate does not mean what it says when it notifies the President that a nomination has been confirmed. Now it would ask the courts to confirm that absurdity.

The case, nevertheless, has its serious aspects. The Senate is trying to assert a right to interpret its own rules in a manner that runs contrary to the Constitution. Under the Constitution the legislative branch of government may impeach and remove individuals holding executive positions. But the Senate has no power to withdraw its confirmation. It can not interpret its rules in such manner as to effect removals from office.

Presumably the district attorney will refuse to obey the Senate's "request" to challenge the validity of President Hoover's action. The pending resolution seems to contemplate that the Executive Department will not attack itself, as it calls for an appropriation of $2,500 for "counsel for the United States in such proceedings," to be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

Thus there is a possibility that the Senate will make a spectacle of itself by hiring a lawyer and bringing suit to vindicate its rules. This innovation would open up great possibilities, limited only by the balance remaining in the Senate slush fund. Eventually, perhaps, the House might interpose an objection to making appropriations for the Senate contingent fund, unless the Senate gave some guarantee that it would not squander its allowance in hopeless lawsuits.

RELEASE OF GANDHI.

In releasing Mahatma Gandhi from the prison in which he has been confined as a political prisoner since last May the British government in India makes a dramatic bid for support of the tentative constitution evolved in the London round-table conference, but it also makes a move of potentially grave consequences. Coincident with ordering Gandhi's release, the viceroy issued an order establishing the legality of the All-India Congress working committee, in order that the assembly may meet and discuss the Ramsay Macdonald declaration of policy toward India with which the London conference was closed. With Gandhi were released all other members of the working committee, without exacting from them pledges of future good conduct. In explaining the releases and the removal of the ban against the working committee, the viceroy said:

> The best hope of restoration of peaceful conditions lies in the discussions being conducted by those concerned under terms of unconditional liberty. Our action was taken in pursuance of a sincere desire to assist in the creation of such peaceable conditions as would enable the government to implement the undertaking given by Prime Minister Macdonald that, if civil quiet were proclaimed and assured, the government would not be backward in its response. I am content to trust those who will be affected by our decision to act in the same spirit as inspires it, and I am confident they will recognize the importance of securing for these grave issues a calm and dispassionate examination.

Gandhi's release may be regarded as a triumph for the peaceful revolution he leads. He has made no promises to the British to call a halt to the noncooperation movement which, although it may seem to be dormant now, needs only a nod from any of the Swarajist leaders to flare forth anew. Gandhi's hold upon the masses of India has not been weakened by his incarceration. He returns rather to his people with his power increased. He returns victorious over the government he has taught the masses to despise, and he returns while the sponsors of the proposed new constitution are still on the high seas. What will this man do with his new-found freedom?

The Swarajists are committed to absolute and immediate independence for India. The proposed constitution is at best a sketchy document in which many matters of extreme importance are left undecided, providing for partial home rule, but not for immediate nor for absolute independence. In his first utterance after his release Gandhi sounds the note of the renewed struggle: "We want the substance and not the shadow of independence."

WORSE THAN MUSCLE SHOALS.

"If Muscle Shoals is today earning nothing and has no policy," asks William S. Lee, president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, "what will occur at Hoover Dam? There is a tremendous development started and nobody knows where it is going."

For more than ten years Muscle Shoals has remained idle while Congress has wrangled over its disposition. Even now the House and Senate are deadlocked on the question of how it shall be operated. There is no assurance that the controversy will ever end, at least not so long as these plants remain under direct Government control. If the Government should undertake to operate this power project Muscle Shoals will continue to be a football of politics. The taxpayers' money will continue to be wasted.

One white elephant of this kind ought to be enough for any government at one time. Yet preparatory work is going ahead for the construction of the largest dam in the world at Black Canyon at Government expense, to be under Government control. In this project there are seeds of controversy on a much greater scale than the Muscle Shoals squabble. Arizona is testing the validity of the act and the States' compact by which this development is authorized. Virtually all of the States are dissatisfied with the allocation of power. Mexico has asserted her right to a share of the waters of the Colorado, which has been divided up among the American States, and apparently Mexico has means of enforcing her demand.

Under no circumstances can the gigantic political row over this dam be considered at an end. Will this $250,000,000 dam become another Muscle Shoals to stand idle for an indefinite period while Congress disagrees over its operation? It is not surprising that a level-headed engineer concludes that "we are confronted with a situation that is fraught with danger."

INJUSTICE TO LOW-PAY EMPLOYES.

By a vote of 192 to 47 the House has refused to accept the Senate amendments to the Postoffice-Treasury supply bill making appropriation for the increase of salaries in certain under-average grades. A week or so ago the House struck out the Wood amendment that would have barred the use of any appropriation for the increasing of salaries. The Senate amendment to which the House took exception was inserted specifically to carry out the intention of the act as approved by the House; hence it comes as a surprise that the House, having defeated the Wood amendment, should refuse to approve the Senate amendment.

Properly, the proposed salary adjustments that occasion the dispute are not pay boosts. The classification act of 1923, as amended by the Welch act of 1928 and the Brookhart act of 1930, set up certain salary schedules and provides for automatic advancement to higher schedules those whose efficiency ratings are satisfactory. The Budget Bureau proposed, and the Senate amendment would have made the proposal effective, to inaugurate with the coming fiscal year a three-year program of promotion in under-average cases to bring them to the level specified by substantive law. These increases are due the under-average grades. The House, however, proposes to set aside the law until some indefinite time in the future.

The House shows no compunction in spending public funds when political advantage may accrue therefrom. In the case of Government workers, however, 40 per cent of whom draw less than $1,620 a year and 51.9 per cent less than $1,800 a year, it proposes to deprive them of money that is justly theirs. The Senate should stand firm against the perpetration of this injustice.

Newspaper publicity attending the arrest of a resident of Atlantic City revealed that he was heir to a substantial fortune. This process is not, however, recommended to fortune hunters.

The King of Siam hires a press agent for his forthcoming visit to the United States. It takes a pretty good press agent to put over a luxury item these days.

WASHINGTON

From the Christian Science Monitor.

It is often the tendency of reformers, particularly those who are attacking an evil affecting good morals, to exaggerate greatly the extent of that which they are combating. Just at present the admirably governed city of Washington, D. C., is in danger of getting a reputation somewhat akin to that which the newspapers have forced upon Chicago because of the intemperance of senatorial orators in discussing the prohibition law. Too many of them seek to make out the National Capital as the pet resort of the bootlegger and the chosen home of the speakeasy.

This is, of course, a charge for which there is little foundation. No one who knew Washington fifteen years ago, and who recalls "Whisky Row," which occupied the buildings fronting on Pennsylvania avenue, where the Munsey Building now stands, or who has fresh in his memory the almost uninterrupted row of saloons extending from the Capitol to the Treasury Department on one side or the other of Pennsylvania avenue, will question the extent and the value of the cleaning up effected by the prohibition law. There are, no doubt, bootleggers and speakeasies, as there are in all great cities. The latter are so concealed from the public gaze, so discreetly and secretly conducted, that the average citizen or visitor to the town has to be equipped with a guide to find one. The bootleggers are said to operate even in the sacred halls of the Senate and House Office Buildings; but here again the stories of their activities are unquestionably largely exaggerated, while the guest at first-class hotels in the Capital is seldom annoyed by their proffer of services.

One senatorial orator, endeavoring to make of Washington the head center of law violation, lays stress upon the use of liquor in the legations. This is, of course, permitted by law, and abuses of the privileges thus conferred upon foreign diplomatic representatives are seldom proved, though often discussed by propagandists.

Washington has become, since the war, one of the great cities of the United States. The problems that confront other centers of population exist there. But the unprejudiced observer, particularly if he be familiar with the field, will quickly discover that, in comparison with other cities of its size, the National Capital is peculiarly clean, orderly and law-abiding. The enemies of prohibition in the United States Senate, who are striving to score a point by slandering a city of which the Nation is justly proud, are engaged in a very discreditable form of propaganda.

Nothing New About It.

SHORT CIRCUITS.

Human Nature.

Buffalo News: A lot of us are actually happier in disaster. When the sun shines we expect a storm to follow. When it storms we look forward to future sunshine.

A Few Bombings.

Minneapolis Journal: A Paris seeress with something of a following sees for 1931 that Mussolini will die, Spain will be shaken by political convulsions and that Germany will be ruined by revolutions. There may also be "unrest in Chicago."

The Pajama Age.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The tennis pajama has now been evolved for feminine players. The walking pajama and the office pajama may be next. The girls' fathers have always worn working pajamas, but they called them "overalls."

The Last Survivor.

Spokane Spokesman-Review: The New York Times has an editorial based on a piece in a theatrical magazine about "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The magazine says that for the first time since 1853 there is not a Tom show on the road. That item of news is getting to be as hardy a perennial as the one about the last survivor of the Custer massacre.

Childishness.

Los Angeles Times: Vice President Curtis has been assigned license plate No. 111, because he thinks that number is symbolic of his victory in the 1928 election. John Q. Tilson, Republican leader in Congress, gets Y-91 for the reason that he was graduated from Yale in 1891. Representative Quinn Williams, of Texas, insists on 711, as he believes it is his lucky number. In California we have similar requests for auto plates. So many are of the belief that they must have special numbers that real distinction in that line would seem to be in the possession of a figure nobody is asking for.

WHY LEAVES CHANGE COLOR.

It is popularly supposed that frost causes the leaves to turn in the autumn. That such is not the case is proved by the fact that some of the most brilliant red and yellow tints precede the first frost, observes the Pathfinder.

Chemical processes in the tree are responsible for the change in color. During the spring and summer numberless tiny cells in the leaves serve as factories for the manufacture of plant food. The chief agent in this process is chlorophyll, which gives the leaves their green color. Sunlight promotes the production of chlorophyll, and therefore the leaves on trees in the open are usually darker green in color than those on less exposed trees in a forest. Plant food is manufactured by combining carbon from the carbonic acid gas taken from the air by the leaves with hydrogen, oxygen and various minerals taken from the water absorbed by the roots.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

STRANGERS.

I watch the countless thousands go,
All people that I do not know
And may not see again;
And yet like me I know they, too,
Have tasks they rise each day to do,
Like me they suffer pain.

And should I now my duties drop,
To step outside the first to stop
Who chanced to pass my way,
It is a certainty that I
Should see a smile and twinkling eye
And hear a glad good day!

And though a total stranger he
Had lived his years of life to me,
Before he'd turned to go
He'd give to me as bright a smile,
As glad a word in that brief while
As any friend I know.

And so unto myself I say,
As strangers pass along the way
Unto their journey's end,
Here is the glory and romance
Of life: that by the merest chance

You Can't Develop Backbone by Sliding Down Hill.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE men and women who ruled America in the time of our grandparents possessed a quality called character.

It was a quality developed and sustained by the practice of doing things that should be done and enduring things that should be endured.

The word "ought" was then in general use. A proper man did an unpleasant thing because he thought he ought to do it. And somehow the habit of doing unpleasant things for the sake of duty and right made him a steady, dependable, unflinching kind of man.

This generation has a sense of duty, also, but it isn't the same kind. It is a sense of the other fellow's duty.

It is no longer the fashion to stand up before the congregation and confess one's sins. People now get the same satisfying consciousness of duty well done by revealing the other fellow's sins.

How the change came about nobody seems to know, but the effect of it is obvious. It has made self-indulgence the chief aim in life.

Man is so constituted that he can't feel a deep and consuming interest in more than one thing at a time, and he can't aspire to better things until he is discontented with things as they are.

While he regards himself as something vile and worthless, he is filled with a sublime discontent that prompts him to mend his ways.

Only when that task is finished to his entire satisfaction does he concern himself with the business of mending his neighbor's ways.

Unfortunately, he is at times tricked by his vanity and led to believe himself flawless while he is still short of perfection.

This is the beginning of his undoing; for he now feels free to reform his neighbor, and complete absorption in that happy task leaves him no time to look for imperfections in himself.

He can't correct himself, for he doesn't realize that he needs correcting. He has no capacity for the experience described by old-fashioned preachers as a "conviction of sin."

We are a self-satisfied generation, and when we do our bit for righteousness by scolding the neighbors, we feel free to indulge ourselves as we please.

We feel so very respectable that anything we do seems all right merely because we choose to do it. Homemade sin is at the worst an indiscretion.

And that explains why so many people borrow the firm's money without bothering to ask permission.

PRO AND CON

New York World.

Mr. Howell thinks it is scandalous that bootleggers and speakeasies should flourish within a stone's throw of the Capitol. It is the purpose of his bill "to make Washington a model city." This purpose he would accomplish chiefly by an extension of the power of Government agents to search private homes.

It is interesting that this proposal should be brought before Congress so shortly after the Wickersham commission had voiced its disapproval of "legislation allowing more latitude for Federal searchers and seizures." The Wickersham commission and Mr. Howell think along different lines. The Wickersham commission believes that a vast amount of harm has been done in the past by what it describes as "high-handed methods of enforcement." Mr. Howell is convinced that until Government agents are equipped with more high-handed powers than they now enjoy it will be impossible to enforce the law successfully. The Senate will have an early opportunity to show which theory it favors.

A Clog on Prosperity.

New York Herald Tribune.

What Mr. Coolidge said in vetoing the soldiers bonus is turning out to be depressingly true. Open the gates an inch to any recompense other than caring generously for the actual sufferers from war service and there is no end to the political demands for more and more pay. Every demagogue and every specious argument will wait for the next auspicious opportunity to continue the raid on the public Treasury.

It is a selfish and shortsighted policy which the politicians inside and outside the Legion are fostering. To get service men a little cash they are willing to hamper returning prosperity and damage the chance of jobs for all.

Expansionists.

Boston Transcript.

And it took the "best minds in the country" to expand two little words, wet, dry, into 75,000!

Veterans' Relief.

Wall Street Journal.

It is regrettable that the executive committee of the American Legion, after adopting resolutions indorsing "the principle" of immediate cash payment of adjusted compensation certificates of World War veterans, did not go on to consider possible means of limiting the distribution to veterans in actual want. Drawing that line would be difficult, but it ought to be attempted, in the interest of the veterans no less than that of the country as a whole.

The legion itself may properly be asked to give the most specific and convincing reasons why the Treasury should be called upon to disburse, perhaps within two or three months, a sum which the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs estimated might under the Garner bill rise above $2,000,000,000.

Need Another Senator.

Hokah (Minn.) Chief.

Senator Nye doesn't get out of one investigation until he digs into another. His whole time is spent in prying into the campaign expenses of certain successful congressmen. In view of the fact that he is thus employed continually, why wouldn't it be a good idea to appoint him official investigator and let the North Dakota people elect a senator who will attend to the business he is supposed to do?

Morgue Congestion.

Minneapolis Messenger.

A merchant just thinks he has dead stock—how would he like to be an editor and have newspaper cuts of defeated candidates?

Nothing Omitted.

Detroit News.

The Senate seems to have thought of about everything except to tie knots in Hoover's hair shirt.

But It Won't Be Congress.

Louisville Courier Journal.

When Congress says nothing and saws wood, then will be the millennium.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Capper-Kelly Resale Bill Defended as a Means of Preserving Competition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The statement in your issue of January 26 that "this bill (Capper-Kelly) would allow manufacturers of trade-marked products to fix the retail price of their goods" is misleading. A manufacturer of a competitive trade-marked article could make a contract stipulating the resale price provided a distributor saw fit to make such a contract. A manufacturer can now fix the price at which his product may be sold at retail. Colgate does this: If a distributor fails to maintain the price fixed by Colgate he refuses to sell any more merchandise to him. The Supreme Court of the United States has sustained Colgate's right to do this and the right of every other manufacturer to do it. It is only a contract, or agreement, providing for the maintenance of a resale price that is unlawful today.

The bill would not "tend to stifle competition among retailers," but it would preserve competition between independent retailers and chain and department stores and mail-order houses. This competition is being destroyed by the daily advertising of popular nationally advertised articles at wholesale price as bait to lure the unsuspecting public for the purpose of selling private brands and unidentified merchandise at excessive prices in large volume.

One and one-half millions of independent retailers, including 60,000 retail druggists, would know that the Capper-Kelly bill "would reduce the retailer to a sales agent for branded goods" if it were a fact.

Any commodity that could be made the subject of a contract sanctioned by the Capper-Kelly bill would have to be "in fair and open competition with commodities of the same general class produced by others." The "fixing of a price that would be equitable within all sections of a given area" would be governed entirely by competition. The manufacturer of a competitive trade-marked article would be compelled to regard the price of competing trade-marked articles in any area, because if his price was too high the consuming public would select any one of a number of competing trade-marked articles.

The bill is not an attempt to "interfere with the law of supply and demand." It places independent manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of competitive trade-marked articles on an equal footing with Henry Ford, General Motors, General Electric and the other generals. They fix and maintain resale prices for their products everywhere in the United States through the agency, or consignment system of distribution. Independents could exercise the same privilege if they had sufficient capital to organize and maintain the agency system of distribution.

Chain Store Shareowners, Inc., of New York, in the Saturday Evening Post of January 24 last, states that chain stores today account for 16 per cent of the total retail trade in the United States and that "conservative financial authorities estimate that they will do 30 per cent of all retail business by 1940." When chain stores, department stores and mail-order houses control the retail business of the United States they will dictate the cost of advertising as they now dictate the price of manufactured goods.

"Prohibition Is Political," Even if It Has Moral Aspects.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, of the M. E. Church South, in a newspaper statement on prohibition says:

"It is a moral issue with me, and not a political question. I am not interested in its political aspects, but I am very highly interested in its success as a moral measure.

"The politicians can take warning that the church and the bishops will be found standing for prohibition. I am not in politics, I repeat, but the politicians will hear from me in the next campaign if an attack is made on prohibition. If they try to bring back the corner saloon they will hear from the Methodist Church and they will hear from me."

This statement would not call for comment here were it not for the fact that many laymen as well as clergymen take the same attitude. With me, as a matter of good citizenship, all political issues are moral. They have to do with what I consideg the higher morality. Political issues may vary in their moral importance; and I readily admit that the prohibition issue, concerned as it is with a movement to improve the quality of our citizenship, is of prime importance. But in considering that issue distinct from other civic issues, I think Bishop Mouzon deceives himself. When he takes his stand on prohibition in the battle of the ballot boxes, it becomes at once, so far as he is concerned, a political issue. Otherwise certain Southern States were not in politics when they voted dry in 1928.

F. J. GIDE.

A "Shut-In" Puts in a Kindly Word for Kindly Trees.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am old and a "shut-in," but take comfort in scanning the papers and looking out of the windows at the street traffic, but particularly at the great trees lining the narrow streets. They are trying hard to live under great difficulties. In this vicinity, particularly on V to Sixteenth street, every summer when storms come, their long limbs are whipped and broken by the winds, which does not add to their beauty. The maple trees particularly need help. Hereabouts enough wood could be obtained by trimming the trees to keep several families warm and give employment to not a few idle men. We need more sunshine and less shade.

Please give this matter a thought and hand it to the right ones. Without the newspapers, trees and the sunshine, this would be a drab old world to us old folks.

M'DONALD MEASURE FLAYED BY LIBERAL

Labor Government to Force Decisive Test on Trade Disputes Bill.

VOTE IS DUE TONIGHT

London, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Sir John Simon, noted British lawyer and statesman, speaking in cold, incisive terms, flayed the government's trade disputes bill in a House of Commons debate today which may bring the downfall of Premier Ramsay MacDonald's Labor administration.

A crowded house attended breathlessly, for Sir John is a Liberal and on the question of how many Liberals will join him in voting against the bill tomorrow night, the fate of the government depends.

The rank and file of the party has decided to abstain from voting, thus leaving the fight between the Labor members and the Conservatives, with the advantage for the government. In this decision parliamentary observers believed the cabinet would survive.

"A thoroughly worthless bill," was the way the Liberal speaker described the measure, and he added "every clause and subclause in it can only be intended, if not to encourage, at least to facilitate and make possible the evils which the country realsed in May, 1926."

His allusion was to the British general strike that for a fortnight tied up industry in that year.

The trade disputes bill defines as illegal a strike or lockout "of which the primary object is an object other than that of furthering purposes connected with the employment or non-employment, or with the conditions of labor, or any person whether or not employed in the trade or industry in which the strike or lockout takes place."

Mme. Pavlowa's Body Forwarded to London

Roterdam, Holland, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The body of Mme. Anna Pavlowa, the world's most noted ballerina, arrived tonight from The Hague and was put aboard a steamer which left with it for London.

Mme. Pavlowa called London her home and the body will be cremated there after a period of lying in state. Brief funeral services for the dancer were held early today at the Catholic Hospital in The Hague, where she died last week after a short illness with pleurisy.

McDougal and Hanna Reach Florida by Plane

Kentucky Society Pays Cobb Honor

600 Attend Dinner Given for Noted Author and Humorist.

Irvin S. Cobb, novelist and humorist, was entertained by members of the Kentucky State Society last night when more than 600 members and guests, including many statesmen and nationally prominent persons attended a dinner in his honor at the Willard Hotel.

Guests who were invited to meet the distinguished writer included the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick Hurley, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, Senators Arthur Capper, Porter H. Hale, Harry Hawes, Kenneth B. McKellar, Thomas J. Walsh, Jouett Shouse, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lucas and many others prominent in political affairs over the entire country.

Two former governors of the State were present, John R. Bartlett and Edwin P. Morrow, and Dr. W. J. Price, former Governor of Panama, was also a guest and speaker. Other speakers included Senator Alben W. Barkley, Senator A. O. Stanley, Jouett Shouse, Mrs. M. H. Thatcher, wife of the Kentucky representative, and Col. Allen Gullion, president of the society. Secretary Hurley also addressed the members of the society briefly.

LAVAL'S MINISTRY WAITS FIRST TEST

Observers Feel New Cabinet Will Command More Senate Strength.

NEGRO'S CHOICE LAUDED

Paris, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval's day-old cabinet sat up late tonight polishing off the declaration of policy with which it will make its first test of strength in the chamber of deputies Friday. Although the ministry was admitted to differ little from that of Andre Tardieu, which was overthrown in December, observers thought that it leaned a little more to moderate opinion and would be a little stronger in the senate.

Some partisans of the Laval cabinet tonight thought it would command a majority of 70 in the first chamber balloting.

M. Laval's inclusion of Blaise Diagne, 58-year-old Negro deputy from Senegal, was generally approved, and because of its appeal to sentiment favoring assimilation of the colonies, was considered to add strength to the combination.

Havana, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—A man who placed a bomb in a street of Santiago de Cuba last night was killed as it exploded prematurely. There was no property damage.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVED BY FORMER KAISER

Eldest Son and Other Princes Attend but Monarchist Unable to Come.

AT 72 HE SEES MOVIE

Doorn, Holland, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Former Kaiser Wilhelm passed the seventy-second milestone of his life today with only a small number of relatives on hand to wish him felicitations. The day was spent quietly. The program, including a morning sermon, a talking picture, the perusal of numerous messages of congratulations and presents.

No representatives of Germany's monarchist organizations, visited him as has been the custom in past years. Their absence was attributed to the economic crisis. Grip and other illnesses prevented several members of the Hohenzollern family from visiting Wilhelm. Among those who were present were the former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm with his second son, Louis Ferdinand, Prince Adalbert and Prince August Wilhelm, with his son Alexander.

The former kaiser himself is enjoying excellent health. He took his daily walk through the village today. He believes his active life is largely responsible for his health.

This morning's sermon was preached by the court preacher of the old empire days, the Rev. Johannes Vogel. Tonight, by arrangement of his wife, Princess Hermine, the talking picture shown was the "Flute Concert of Sans-Souci," in which another German ruler, Frederick the Great, was the leading character. All attendants at Doorn Manor, from highest to lowest, attended.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The Rev. Father Napoleon J. Gilbert, Catholic priest recently elected to the State House of Representatives, today informed that body he would be unable to serve.

FORMER GOVERNOR URGES RAIL MERGER

Cornwell Says Failure of Proposal May Injure General Business.

UNCERTAINTY END SEEN

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—John J. Cornwell, general counsel of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, tonight expressed the belief that unless the proposed four-party Eastern railroad consolidation plan is carried out general business may suffer.

He addressed the annual dinner of the Bloomington associations of commerce. He is a former Governor of West Virginia. He said if the Interstate Commerce Commission rejects the proposal, or it is thwarted by congressional action, the railroad situation in the Eastern region "will not only fail of coordination but it may, to some degree, become chaotic."

If the plan is approved he said the carriers will be relieved of uncertainty, smaller lines will know where, ultimately, they will land. Plans can go forward for development of the systems, not alone in the general interest.

Issuance of Securities.

"There has been a feeling engendered in some quarters, especially in congressional circles, that the proposed grouping is some kind of a high financial scheme. That it is a stock-watering job.

"The people who think this forget how these unifications are hedged by law and safeguarded by the strictest supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the issuance of securities."

So far as their feeling that "it is a grab game of the railroads," Mr. Cornwell declared, they have forgotten the commission ordered to bring about consolidation and that the present systems are the result of mergers or absorptions.

Subsidized Competition.

He contended that if the people are going to subsidize competition in various forms they must relax their grip on the railroads so that they can have at least a fair fight.

"They must cease to load railroads with more and more taxes, and at the same time pull down freight rates. They must help the railroads to unify and further lessen the cost of operation, for reduced operating costs, largely resulting from huge expenditures, have been their salvation for many years."

North Dakota Indians Like Horse Meat Diet

Salt Lake City, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The extension service of the United States Indian Service here today made known the results of experiments at the Standing Rock agency at Fort Yeates, N. Dak., in the use of horse meat by Indians.

So popular were hamburger and sirloin steaks from a yearling colt that other animals were furnished to the Indians desiring the horse meat. More than 500 of them have sampled the new diet and given it their approval, the report from L. C. Lippert, the Indian agent, said.

Slemp Defendant In Suit for $540

Virginian Alleges Election Services for G. O. P. Are Yet Unpaid.

Alleging that C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, had employed him to investigate ballots cast by absentee voters in previous elections in the Ninth Congressional District of Virginia and to render aid to Republican candidates in the District seeking election to public office, A. H. Williams, of Wytheville, Va., filed suit yesterday, seeking to recover $540, which he claims as unpaid salary.

The suit filed in municipal court through Attorney C. R. Heflin alleges that Williams was employed at a salary of $150 a month by J. W. McGavok, acting as agent for Slemp. Williams states he worked for four months and ten days, and earned $650. Slemp, he says, paid him only $110.

Slemp, prior to becoming secretary to President Coolidge, served the Ninth Virginia District in the House of Representatives. He is now practicing law in Washington.

Romanoffs Petition Court To Halt Sale of Treasures

Once Powerful Russian Rulers Claim German Concern Is About to Dispose of Jewelry Obtained From Palaces Through Soviets.

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The vagaries of a fickle fortune brought the once powerful Romanoffs, rulers of all the Russians, into a democratic American court today as petitioners before the law to halt the sale of jewelry and art treasures which once adorned the imperial palace at St. Petersburg.

The Grand Duchesses Xenia and Olga Romanoff, as next of kin of Czar Nicholas II, obtained an order requiring the Import Antique Corporation, a German concern, the Wallace H. Day Galleries and Wallace H. Day, to show cause tomorrow why they should not be restrained from selling 500 art objects from the late Czar's palaces.

The plaintiffs charge that the art pieces were stolen from the imperial palace, appropriated by the Soviet government and sold later to the German concern.

The grand duchesses set forth that they, with George Brasoff, nephew of the czar, are the legal heirs.

Among the objects scheduled to be sold at auction Thursday are a vase made at the command of Marie Antoinette for Marie Feodorovna, consort of Czar Paul I, solid silver wine coolers, engraved glass paintings, tapestries, porcelain silks and jewelry.

New York Cabarets Face New Curfew

New York, Jan. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A war on restaurants, cabarets and dance halls which remain open after 1 o'clock and doing away with the exemptions enjoyed by resorts which operate as part of hotels is planned by Police Commissioner Mulrooney.

The commissioner first will consult with the corporation counsel to find what can be done to the six or seven hotels and associated night clubs, including the Hotel Harding and the Club Abbey there, which dispute the right to any regulation of the hours of their open entertainment of the public.

"I believe in a curfew," said the commissioner today. "I do not believe the present closing hour is early enough. I am very sure that crime prevention and good order would be more easily maintained if all public resorts in this city were closed promptly at 1 a. m.

Notable Financiers Are Invited to Cabinet Function.

THE fourth of the state dinners to the President and Mrs. Hoover by members of the Cabinet was given last night by the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, who entertained in his spacious apartment on Massachusetts avenue. Particular interest is attached to any function given at Mr. Mellon's home, which so seldom is the scene of social fetes. Only on rare occasions, as last night, are guests afforded the opportunity to view the Secretary's famous collection of paintings and other treasures splendidly displayed in the sumptuous suite.

The dinner company last night included Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Gen. Arthur Woods, Mr. and Mrs. S. Parker Gilbert, who came on from New York for the fete.

Miss Kingman, 1930 Bud, Wed To Army Man

Lieutenant Weber Takes Bride in Cathedral Chapel.

Miss Katharine M. Kingman, daughter of Lieut. Ralph W. Kingman, U. S. A., and Mrs. Kingman, became the bride yesterday of Lieut. Frederick R. Weber, the ceremony taking place in the Chapel of St. Joseph of Arimathea at Washington Cathedral at 5 o'clock. The Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of the cathedral, officiated. The chapel was decorated with palms and white lilies.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin, her mother's wedding dress. It was embellished with duchesse lace and with it the bride wore a long veil of the duchesse, which belonged to Col. Kingman's great-grandmother. The headdress was also of the lace and was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a prayerbook and bridal flowers.

Miss Catherine Carr was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marjorie Simonds, Miss Betty Bull, Miss Caroline Wilcox, all of Washington; Miss Betty Allan, of Trenton, N. J.; Miss Bede Warfield, of New York, and Miss Ethel Percy Cochran, of Cincinnati. All of the maids wore frocks of blue lace chosen to match the blue of Lieut. Weber's company of infantry. They were made with five circular tiers to form the wide skirts.

The top of the gowns was fashioned in soft blouse effect with short Eton jackets of the lace. The sleeves were tight to the elbow, flaring to a wide bell-shaped cuff. The maids wore hats of blue taffeta with a blue ostrich feather and blue moire and silver slippers. Their flowers were white sweet peas, Miss Carr carrying white roses.

Lieut. Sidney Wooten, of Fort Howard, Md., was best man. The ushers were all lieutenants in the United States Army, and included Lieut. Dudley Wiegand and Lieut. Thomas Conley, of Fort Howard; Lieut. Hamilton Young and Lieut. Clarence Renshaw, jr., of Washington; Lieut. Henry Kunzig, of Fort Washington; Lieut. Alvin Pachynski, of Fort Monmouth, N. J.; Lieut. Herbert Gibner, of Fort Hoyle, and Lieut. William Carraway, of Raleigh, N. C.

The bridal party left the church beneath an arch of swords. There was no reception, but Col. and Mrs. Kingman gave a wedding dinner at the Officers Club at the Army War College, the guests including members of the immediate families and the bridal party. Lieut. Weber and his bride left for a honeymoon trip, and upon their return will be at home at Fort Howard, Md., where Lieut. Weber is stationed.

The bride attended the University of Georgia, but discontinued her studies last year to spend some time abroad. She was presented to society in Washington this season, and has been widely entertained preceding her marriage. She is the granddaughter of the late Col. Melville A. Cochran, of the Sixth Infantry.

Lieut. Weber, who is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William R. Weber, of Kalamazoo, Mich., was graduated from West Point last June, and has since been stationed at Fort Howard.

Among the wedding guests were Mrs. William Austin, of New York, and Mrs. A. G. Miller, of Long Island, aunts of the bride, and Miss Mary Kunkel, of Easton, Pa., who is the guest of Col. and Mrs. John Kingman.

Among those who have taken boxes for the performances to be given by "Roxy and His Gang," with Mme. Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Helping Him.

A girl of 5 was struggling to tie the bow knot of her shoe laces. Her mother, in a hurry to get through the morning's routine, took them out of her hands and, despite her protests, tied them for her.

The child burst into tears, and was not to be pacified until she was permitted to untie the laces and painstakingly tie them over for herself.

Parents are often too aggressive in giving their help chiefly because they are impatient of the child's clumsiness, and sometimes because unconsciously they like to dominate in a situation where there is no danger of opposition.

Children love to do things for themselves. They enjoy independent achievement. There is no instinctive tendency in the child's make-up which is more to be cultivated than this.

Learning to dress himself, to handle soap and wash cloth, to comb his own hair—all these seem to the child to be highly important attainments. They satisfy his desire to make things happen, and are symbolic, too, of achieving status in the grown-up world.

In the child's play activities, adult interference is especially harmful. Not only does it disturb the formation of good habits of self-reliance, but it also blocks the development of the child's creative impulse.

In work and in play, children should receive just enough adult help to save them from failure after they have made earnest efforts to succeed.

This help should be so inconspicuously given that it takes away as little as possible from the child's feeling that the achievement is his own.

Paris, January 27.

THAT train! And you still see them—in shops. Ye gods, will some one please tell me if they ever saw a train anywhere else, and if so, where and on whom? The only two trains I ever saw outside of royal courts and couturier salons were, one on myself, and the other on a defunct moving picture actress—I mean she was defunct, also the dress, at the time I saw it on her.

Well, as to hers, when she picked it up to tango she accidentally picked up most of the dress with it—and wasn't wearing much of anything else; oblivious to the smothered shrieks of the diners who weren't dancing. She thus pranced through the whole dance. As to the time I wore a trained dress to the Lanvin soiree, well, the less said about that the better—it was one of those dresses you have to hunch both shoulders a little to keep on above the waist, anyhow—picture me doing the shoulder hunching stunt and at the same time trying to keep two side trains and one rear from being stepped on—and me stepped out of the dress!

Sometimes I think the couturieres have their little joke when they show models with trains—and are then too polite to demur when a client inadvertently buys one of them. They aren't designed for anything under the sun short of a fashion show or a Queen Marie, and well, fashion shows are out of style.

If you ever have a yen for a train on your dress, take my heartfelt advice—don't. Unless you have a large sense of humor, and an elastic pocketbook which will permit you to discard the dress one-half an hour after you put on it for the first time.

• • • •

There's something so everlastingly cheerful about plaid. Can you imagine being blue in plaid, no matter how dreary the day—I can't, honestly! Why, even seeing plaid in a black and white illustration, like today's, makes me smile often—guess I had better retire to Scotland—or do they still wear 'em there?

Anyhow, two young ladies wear plaids from Paris in today's illustration, the one a blue, red and green plaid with a navy blue skirt—the other a smart black and gray plaid. It had a black kid belt, and smart steel buttons that were outlined in black—chic?

• • • •

There's no getting around it, positively, now! You have to get at it, determinedly. There are bending and twisting exercises for that surplus fat; yes, call it what it is, around the waistline—but meanwhile, whatever one does, doesn't seem quite enough!

What to do, what to do! Why, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dare, The Washington Post, for her directions for making the cleverest little corselet, or waistlet, which is to be worn right over one's corset or girdle! It will give you the waistline you need, to wear the new modes, Miladi, so better not delay with that envelope!

• • • •

Now I would have to be in Paris when I read about washable velvet! Believe me, that's the first thing I do when I get off that boat—find out more about it. Honestly, though, an important style bulletin just says that nightgowns, sleeping pajamas and lingerie in transparent washable velvet are "assured of popularity, since they are elegant in the first place, and require no ironing in the second place."

• • • •

Now I'm going to remind you again of the weekly Dare fashion letter. If you're not reading it each week in The Sunday Washington Post you should cultivate the habit.

Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name "Gann" is a shortened form of Mac Cann, Mac Gann, or Mac Ann. These names have come down to us from two Celtic sources according to which they may mean either "the son of the whelp" or "the son of the warrior."

The family name "Doe" is of English origin. It was originally given as a nickname to timid persons or to swift runners, and in almost all cases it has reference to the female of the deer. It will be recalled that in early days it was a common practice to display pictures or images before private dwellings, as well as before inns or taverns, as a means of identification. Thus, the family name Doe occasionally means "he who lives at the sign of the doe." A certain John le Doe and a William le Doe are mentioned in the Hundred Rolls.

"Simpson" has always been a common English name. A few of its many variations are "Sim," "Simes," "Simms," "Sims" and "Simson." All of these names mean "the son of Simon." The personal name "Simon," in turn, is of Hebrew origin, and means "obedient." An English document of the year 1379 mentions a Robertus Symmes and Johannes Symson.

The family name "Ryding" is of English origin, and means "he who lives near the ridding." A ridding is a clearing in the woods. A few of the many variations of this name are "Riding," "Ridding," "Riddyng" and "Rydding." An English document of the year 1379 mentions an Isolda de Rydding and Willelmus de Rydding.

The family name "Fechner" is a modern variation of the Middle High German "vech" meaning "fur" and especially "ermine." It was first applied to persons who made or sold garments of such material.

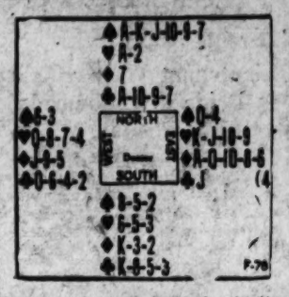
WORK ON BRIDGE



With the above hand the Auction bidding would be: South, pass; West, pass; North, one Spade; East, two Diamonds; South, pass; West, pass; North, two Spades. East probably would venture three Diamonds, but either South or North would bid three Spades.

The hand was played at Contract. After South and West had passed, North bid three Spades—possibly an overbid, but North felt that his hand was worth 5½ Spade tricks, 1 Heart and probably 2 Clubs. East risked 4 Diamonds—a wild bid, considering that West had passed, but the game was played in a social club on a festive occasion. South's four Spades ended the contracting.

In the play East selected his singleton Club, not wishing to lead a trump or open a tenace suit. The Declarer, marking the Queen of Clubs in the West hand, won with the King and led the Eight of trumps, finessing by playing the Seven from the closed hand. East's Queen won, and East then led a Heart. That drew Declarer's Ace, and he exhausted the adverse trumps. A Diamond through the strong East hand and toward South's King was his next effort; East played the Ace and led two more Hearts. North ruffed the second, but lost a Club and therefore four tricks went to the adversaries.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

When South won the first trick with the King of Clubs, North should have played the Nine, not the Seven; and then dummy should have led the Deuce of trumps and, with nine in the two hands, Declarer should not have finessed. Two rounds would exhaust the adverse trumps, and then the Seven of Diamonds should have been led. East would have won with the Ace and led a Heart which closed hand would win with the Ace and put dummy in with the Eight of trumps. Then dummy should cash his King of Diamonds and closed hand discard his Deuce of Hearts, after which the Eight of Clubs should be led from dummy; and if West did not cover, the Seven should be played under it so that a second finesse could be taken.

Work's Radio Bridge Game

The foursome for the tenth of Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge Games, broadcast yesterday afternoon from Station WRC, was made up of four famous women Bridge stars: Mrs. Beryl S. Moncrieff, New Bedford, Mass.; Mrs. Edward Goldsmith, Danville, Ill.; Mrs. Theodosia Van Norden Emery, Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. Oscar E. Busby, Dallas, Tex.

Mrs. Moncrieff, as Dealer, South, opened with one No Trump on: Spades, Q, 10; Hearts, A, 8, 7, 5; Diamonds, A, Q, J, 8; Clubs, A, Q, 5. Her hand totaled the unusual figure of 19. Mrs. Goldsmith, West, holding: Spades, K, 9, 7, 6, 4; Hearts, J, 9; Diamonds, 10, 9; Clubs, J, 7, 6, 3, of course passed. She would have had no justification for bidding a five-card suit headed by the King, with no side support. Mrs. Emery, North, also passed. Her hand contained: Spades, A, J, 8; Hearts, K, Q, 6, 3; Diamonds, 7, 5, 3; Clubs, 9, 8, 2—sufficient strength to bid two No Trumps. But passing left her in position, in event of a minor bid by East, to bid two Hearts if her partner did not overcall. However, Mrs. Busby, East, passed. Her cards were: Spades, 5, 3, 2; Hearts, 10, 4, 2; Diamonds, K, 6, 4, 2; Clubs, K, 10, 4. Therefore Mrs. Moncrieff, South, became Declarer with her contract one No Trump.

Leads 6 of Spades.

Mrs. Goldsmith, West, opened the play by leading the 6 of Spades. Mrs. Moncrieff, Declarer, planning her campaign, saw by the Rule of Eleven that she had in her two hands all the Spades higher than the 6 that were not in the hand of the leader. She therefore played the 8 from Dummy; Mrs. Busby, East, played the Deuce; and Declarer was careful to win with the Queen, not the 10, from the closed hand.

To trick two, Declarer led her Ace of Hearts; West played the 9; Dummy the Trey; and East the Deuce. Declarer continued with the 8 of Hearts; West played the Jack; Dummy the Queen; and East the 4. Declarer was then in position to finesse her Diamonds. So from Dummy she led the 7 of Diamonds; East played the Deuce; closed hand the Queen, and West the 9. Declarer played the Queen as a false-card to withhold information from the adversaries; a successful finesse of the Jack would have marked the Queen in Declarer's hand.

To trick five Mrs. Moncrieff led the 7 of Hearts; West discarded the 4 of Spades; Dummy won the trick with the King of Hearts, and East played the 10 of Hearts. Declarer then led the 5 of Diamonds from Dummy; East played the 4; Declarer the Jack; West the 10. Declarer realized that her Ace-8 of Diamonds was a major tenace over the King-6 probably held by East, and that she needed another Diamond lead from Dummy; so it was a good thing that she had handled her Hearts so as to give Dummy three entries in that suit.

5 of Hearts Played.

To trick seven Declarer led the 5 of Hearts, overtaking with Dummy's 6; West discarded the Trey of Clubs and East the Trey of Spades. Declarer proceeded to lead Dummy's Trey of Diamonds; East played the 6; Declarer the 8, and West discarded the 6 of Clubs. The lead of Declarer's Ace of Diamonds then dropped East's King, West discarding the 7 of Clubs and Dummy the Deuce of Clubs.

To trick ten Declarer led the 10 of Spades; West played the 7; Dummy the Jack (it was marked from the original lead that this finesse would win); and Mrs. Busby, East, played the 5. Because Declarer had carefully played closed hand's Queen of Spades on the first trick, Dummy was able at the eleventh trick to lead the Ace of Spades, giving closed hand a discard of the 5 of Clubs. On this trick East discarded the 4 of Clubs and West played the 9 of Spades.

Declarer at this point had taken eleven tricks. To trick twelve she led the 9 of Clubs from Dummy. Mrs. Busby, East, played the 10, and Declarer, trying for a Grand Slam, played the Queen from the South hand. West played the Jack. Of course Declarer's Ace of Clubs was good for the thirteenth trick, giving North and South 70 for tricks, 100 for Grand Slam, and 40 for Aces. At Progressive or Duplicate, there would have been 125 added for game in one deal.

Game Is Analyzed.

In analyzing the exhibition game, Mr. Work said: "The play of this hand illustrates the importance of planning a campaign by observing the possibilities and taking advantage of them. Had Mrs. Moncrieff not appreciated that she might need three Diamond leads and one Club lead from Dummy (four in all), she would not have realized the importance of creating three Heart entries in the dummy hand. Of course it was obvious that she should win the first trick with the Queen of Spades. That gave her a sure Spade finesse and an entry in the Dummy hand when making it; whereas if she had won with the 10 and subsequently led the Queen, she could not have taken that trick in the Dummy if Mrs. Goldsmith had refused to cover with the King. That would have cut off an entry from Dummy and given one less lead from that hand.

"It was not by any means certain that she would need all these entries. As a matter of fact, if the King of Diamonds had been located in the West hand, only one Diamond lead would have been required; but it is always well to prepare for all eventualities. Making up the 6 of Hearts as an entry was an easy play for such a master as Mrs. Moncrieff; there are many, however, who would overlook it, and therefore I call special attention to it. In many hands just such simple plays as this spell the difference between success and failure."

What to Have Lead.

At Contract Bridge, Mr. Work said South's first bid on this deal should be two No Trumps. With a count of 19 and no available major-suit bid, it is advisable, according to Mr. Work, to bid two No Trumps even when holding a doubleton in one suit, provided that doubleton is headed by an honor not lower than the Jack. West would pass, and North with a count of 10, would bid three No Trumps, which would end the bidding. Although a Grand Slam actually is made on the hand, it can not properly be bid at Contract, as the bidders can not possibly tell that all the adverse high cards are so fortunately located.

For Questions 17 and 18 in his Handicap Test, Mr. Work announced these cards: South—Spades, A, Q, 10; Hearts, K, J, 4; Diamonds, J, 9, 7, 6; Clubs, A, K, J. North—Spades, 7, 5; Hearts, Q, 6, 5, 2; Diamonds, A, Q, 10, 8; Clubs, Q, 10, 9.

South is the Declarer, playing a No Trump contract (at Contract Bridge three No Trumps), and West leads to the first trick with the 4 of Spades, East plays the 9 of Spades.

Question 17. Which Spade should South play on Trick One?

Question 18. Which suit should South lead to Trick Two?

Guide to Gardening

Ferns, Ferns and ...

more ferns, to dress up your living room and make you realize that summer isn't so very far away, after all.

If, however, your ferns remind you of the falling leaves of autumn, you will find the leaflet on their care just what you need. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for it to

JANE LESLIE KIFT,
Care of The Washington Post.

Stevia costs little and is so fragrant that it is a pity more people do not grow it. All it asks is a warm, sunny, well-ventilated place and a daily drink of water. Having no insect enemies and being practically immune to disease, it is an admirable plant for house culture. It likes a rather rich soil.

(Copyright, 1931.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

START STEVIA AT THIS TIME.

NOW, when your stevia is about finished flowering, is a good time to start some more for next season. If you have been successful with this fragrant little blossom this year, of course you will want more next season.

Stevia is perhaps the only fragrant flower that is absolutely sure to be in bloom for Christmas, with the exception of the paper white narcissus.

Just as soon as your stevia has finished flowering, take off cuttings and grow them, transplanting them into larger pots as the occasion demands, until they are growing in 6-inch sizes.

In April, or when all danger of frost is past, plunge the pots out of doors in ashes. While in this location it will be necessary to turn the pots each day to prevent the roots, which are likely to protrude through the opening in the bottom of the pots, from rooting through into the ground.

In the fall, or when cold weather is approaching and the nights are becoming frosty, lift the pots and store them in any light, cool place. During the summer and fall keep pinching the plants back, to induce them to become bushy. If left to follow its own devices, stevia is sure to make a scraggly, leggy growth.

From the light, cool place where you have stored them when first bringing them under cover, you can take them a few at a time into your living room. By bringing in a few at a time there is no reason why you should not have blooming stevia from the first day of November until the last day of January.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

CONTAMINATING INFLUENCES.

WHEN our grandmothers bemoaned the dangers that confronted us in our ventures into the outer world they had in mind mostly men. But today not the least of the dangers of the business world is the woman who thinks she is wise and wants the world and his wife to know it. She is a very real menace, this woman who looks at the world through slightly yellowed eyes. She thinks she knows and she is dangerous because she is convincing. Bettie-Jane has just met her for the first time and just see what she is doing to Bettie-Jane:

Dear Frances McDonald:

I am 26 and six years ago I married the most wonderful man. Fourteen months later our adorable little boy was born, and I will never forget the happiness I felt as I saw my husband literally swell with pride as he behld our little son. My husband and I each have a degree and are successful and happy with a dear little home well on the way to being paid for. Until a few weeks ago I was perfectly happy and convinced that I was a success in life and had found some real happiness with that success. Now I feel as if I had been in some sort of torpor or dream or did not know what was happiness or success either.

It all happened when several new women came to work with me. They talk of nothing but men, and speak so slightingly of them—their own husbands in particular. They know how devoted I am to my husband and they smile with amusement at me. In fact, they have made me an object of ridicule. They assure me I am a poor fool if I really believe that he is faithful to me. Can you imagine my feelings when there is never an hour any evening when each of us does not know where to reach the other. He goes once a week to play poker with his friends and once I week I go to play bridge with mine, but where ever we go we each leave the phone number with the other. We have no interests unshared, work or play. We are really as one and working for each other's happiness and the boy's. And now come these people and say, "My dear, how quaint, where have you been all your life?"

Is it possible that all men are faithless? Is it possible that they know more about my husband than I do? Or is it possible that he is the upright and intelligent and high-principled man I believe him to be? Isn't it possible that I hold a place in his life that no other woman could ever hold? Or am I a poor fool to love and trust and believe him? These people have completely upset my life with their sly smiles and amused glances. I have never had a doubt of him before. I have never questioned him nor been questioned by him. We just each know the other is doing what is right? But now the seeds of suspicion are working. I find myself for the first time—wondering! And it is agony. Are these wise ones right or am I crazy?

BETTIE-JANE.

Thus the modern menace. Thus the real contamination. Not the villainous male of the business world, but the venomous female. The hard-boiled lady who thinks she knows. Fortunately she sooner or later reveals the source of her spite, and after that her sallies bear less bitter fruit. Meanwhile young women shrink from the poison of her darts, thwarted unhappy soul that she is. Bettie-Jane will find the answer very shortly, and then her own happiness will be greater than ever. But what a menace!

JELLIED CIDER SALAD.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

While cider is at the height of its season during the winter months, some of this delicious product may be used for salad or dessert, combined with gelatin. The Bureau of Home Economics contributes the recipe for jellied cider salad given below.

2½ cups clear cider
2 tablespoons gelatin
½ cup finely chopped celery
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley or green pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento

Soak the gelatin in ½ cup of cold cider. Heat the remainder to the boiling point and pour into the gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Strain and chill the mixture. When just beginning to set stir in the vegetables and the salt. Pour into individual molds which have been rinsed in cold water. When set turn onto lettuce leaves and serve with French or mayonnaise dressing.

For a dessert use cider and gelatin in the same proportions and in place of the chopped celery, pepper, parsley and pimiento, put in equivalent amounts of any dried fruits you have on hand—chopped dates, raisins or figs, and a few nut meats. Use half the amount of salt and add sugar if necessary. When molded serve with plain or whipped cream.

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

CHAPTER XXV.

Woodrow Wilson gave no sign that he comprehended the tragedy unfolding in Europe. * * * The war seemed as remote to him as to the majority of his countrymen.

For Gen. Wood it was close and vital. However, it might end it would bring a readjustment of power among the great nations which would profoundly affect the United States.

"War situation: gradual withdrawal of allies. English struggling to get men and train them in a hurry. No reserves. Old Anglo Saxon story. All that saves England today is her navy," he wrote in his diary, September 5, 1914.

He was determined that the "old Saxon story" should not be repeated in the United States. He did not believe that war could be averted by good intentions or that the nation could be protected by exhortation and self-righteousness. He believed that force should be met by force. A favorite adage of his was: "Be sure you are right then go ahead." He talked preparedness day and night with whomever would listen, made speeches, pleaded with the Secretary of War to persuade the President to let the facts be known of the nation's unprepared state. The Secretary was not hopeful. Bryan's influence was still dominant.

Country Pacifistic.

The country, indeed, was in a pacifistic mood. The competition of armament, rang the cry, had brought on the war. "Thank God that we are not as other men!" Any suggestion of more soldiers, more guns, was greeted as an echo of "Prussian militarism." Was there not enough of organized murder in the world? German propagandists chanted loudest the blessings of disarmament.

The autumn of 1914 was a period of mental confusion in which the President offered no beacon.

But by November Wood's campaign in behalf of the realities—begun six years before, pursued before committees of Congress, civic bodies, clubs, universities, in interviews and magazine articles, at private dinners and in personal conversations, dramatized in maneuvers and training camps, propagated by young men he had himself inspired—began to show results. Letters from writers, asking for data, poured into his office on Governors Island; editors pumped him at staff luncheons. Meanwhile, in a series of articles, published in newspapers in different parts of the country, Roosevelt, with prophetic fervor, was proclaiming the duty of self-defense. To Wood, Roosevelt and Col. House—Wilson's intimate adviser—all three accustomed to deal with realities—the demand of the hour was clear and insistent. But Wilson, moving amid shadows and dreams, could not hear it or, hearing it, covered his ears.

House Talks to Wood.

Col. House came to Governors Island to discuss Wood's suggestion of introducing some modification of the Swiss plan of universal military service and took to the President memoranda on the short enlistment and the reserve. Wilson balked. Labor, he declared, would object to a large army; the country would be shocked. He did not believe, moreover, that there was any necessity for immediate action. House's insistence that now, if ever, was the time for a complete reconstruction of the Nation's military defense made no impression.

In his annual message in December Wilson praised the student camps, but swept aside with eloquent sophistry the agitation for preparedness.

There was a shiftiness in the passages relating to the national defense, a jesuitical adroitness, an unctuous insincerity, which had one very definite effect. Rightly or wrongly, it persuaded countless men, young men, in the main, with youth's impatience of cant, that on the path of national duty, strength and straight-dealing there was no leadership for them in the White House. Fifteen hundred of them acclaimed Wood when, a week after the President had delivered his message, the general spoke before the Merchants Association in New York of the urgent need of that preparation for defense which the President had decried.

Wilson's Attention Called.

Irate pacificists swiftly called Wilson's attention to the fact that Wood's speech reflected upon his own "magnificent presentation of the whole situation to Congress." A rebuke came promptly from Secretary Garrison written in his own hand, tactfully phrased. There was clearly an attempt in certain quarters, he said, to thrust the question of the national defense into partisan politics. This seemed to him unfortunate. Here was a great opportunity to utilize public opinion in behalf of the Army and it might be lost if the public gained the impression that military men were pushing the matter. Wood himself had abundantly set for his own views and his reports were available. Since newspapers insisted in misrepresenting every one and everything connected with national preparedness, it would be wiser for Wood for the present to decline all public expression.

Wood had an interview with the Secretary of War, but told his diary no details. He shunned reporters thereafter, but his efforts in behalf of preparedness suffered no interruption or diminution.

Likened to Weak Team.

"The United States," he wrote a friend, "is today exactly in the position Harvard would be in if she had one good football player weighing about 110 pounds and another substitute perhaps turning the scales at 120 pounds, but rather poorly trained, the first representing the Army and the second the militia. They know they have got a game with a first-class team, trained to the hour, and with at least five men for every position. No one knows when the game is coming off, but we know it is coming some day, and what is worse, we know we are not getting ready for it.

"In the football proposition the outcome would be pretty clear to you. As a military proposition it is equally certain to me. I think you, and all of us who are interested in bettering conditions, should do everything possible to wake up the sleeping public, for I assure you that the position is one whose gravity can not be overestimated."

If there was insubordination in the fact that he made speeches at all there was none in the things that he said. No hint of politics blunted the cutting edge of his message. He talked of the menace of war, the impossibility of improvising arms and supplies, the need for action while yet the Nation was at peace.

Appeals Are Simple.

His appeals were simple, undramatic, overwhelmingly sincere. He was not in the accepted sense an orator; but his fervor and a certain indubitable integrity gave his words persuasive power. He had great skill, moreover, in adjusting his words to the mentality of his audience, and even as he stirred universities and chambers of commerce, he set pulses fluttering in schools and women's clubs. His words were a call to national service, and young and old alike felt the stir to arise and go.

As the months passed and the war drew closer to America, a popular movement developed, comparable in American history only to the revolt in the Northern States during the '50s against the reactionary or drifting policies of the Government in Washington on the slavery question. It was an uprising not against the authority of the President, but against his leadership; a stirring of the consciences of men against what appeared to be a callous disregard of the Nation's traditions, of her prestige in the world, of common precautions regarding the national defense.

Intense Feeling Stirred.

The feeling behind the movement was intense. The accumulated resentment against the cant, the sham, the backing and filling of the President's Mexican policy was in it; the feeling that the administration had no regard for the dignity of the Nation, no sense of shame for promises unfulfilled, no respect for the fine tradition that among gentlemen words meant what they said. To straightforward men who regarded shiftiness in personal relations as the unpardonable sin and took pride in the tradition of American forthrightness and courage in international relations, it seems unbearable that in the greatest crisis in the world's history their country should be so tortuously led.

The fact that the President's motives were lofty did not serve to temper the indignation of other Americans whose idealism was no less sincere in that it was practical. The public derived from the curious jumble of his words and acts an impression of a man who wanted to be greater than he was; a school teacher who could not keep order in his schoolroom because he blustered and was indulgent to wrongdoers—too soft-hearted to punish the little boys, too timid to punish the big ones—and lacked a sharp sense of right and wrong.

Preparedness organizations sprang up. Wood supplied them with irrefutable data. Young men came to Wood asking what they could contribute to the cause, or laid before him some plan of their own. No one ardent for the cause appealed to him in vain.

Unofficial Reserve Proposed.

One group, calling themselves the American Legion, proposed to establish an unofficial reserve, enrolling immediately men of military age, who had had military training or possessed peculiar qualifications in one field or another which might be turned to the benefit of the country in case of war: automobile drivers, telegraph and telephone operators, bridge builders, mechanics of all sorts; in time of peace a list, and nothing more; in time of war a source not impossibly of three or four hundred thousand volunteers.

Gen. Wood approved the idea "unofficially" and lent his aid, Capt. Gordon Johnston, as military adviser. Personal letters brought an enthusiastic response. Roosevelt joined with his four sons; Luke Wright, Dickinson, Stimson, all former Secretaries of War, enrolled.

The public announcement late in February, 1915, brought a thousand volunteers the first week. It brought, also, a sharp attack from the pacifists. From the department came an excited inquiry. The Secretary of War, it seemed, knew nothing about this plan for the organization of a reserve army. Clearly, ran the murmur in Washington, Wood has been "indiscreet;" and indiscretion was the ultimate sin. The fact was that the sponsors of the American Legion had laid their plans before the Secretary, and he had pigeon-holed them.

"I am up to the neck," General Wood wrote his friend Williams, of the Boston Transcript * * * "trying to make it evident that a personal and friendly interest in a patriotic movement, one whose sole purpose is the betterment of national defense, is not inconsistent with the conduct of an officer of the army."

Commotion Ensues.

The affair created a commotion. In vain Wood explained that Roosevelt had no connection with the Legion other than as a volunteer enrolled for service, and that the Legion was conducting, not propaganda, but a card index. The Legion was ordered to remove its officers from the Army building in New York, and from Garrison came another rebuke.

The episode of the American Legion gained significance from the fact that, four days before the tempest broke, Garrison had issued an order that officers of the army should refrain "from giving out for publication any interview, statement, discussion or article on the military situation in the United States or abroad."

The order was aimed obviously at Wood. The general, knowing that in his heart the Secretary of War was almost as ardent in the cause of preparedness as Wood was himself, did not take the order too seriously, but threw himself on the mercy of the reporters, and went ahead as before. If he was careful, as a rule, not to violate the order in fact, by actually "giving out" statements for publication, and earnestly insisted, not only to the Secretary of War, but to Roosevelt, that he was "most scrupulous" to observe both the letter and the spirit of intent had unquestionably been, with the least possible fuss and publicity, to silence him: and he had refused to be silenced.

Talk of Insubordination.

There were angry murmurs in administrative circles that this man was insubordinate. But the issue was not so simple as the adherents of the President pretended to believe. On one side stood certain policies regarding the national defense proposed by successive Secretaries of War, approved by three Presidents, adopted by Congress and made the law of the land, on the other was authority, supported by no discernible principle, autocratic, arbitrary. The President himself was represented on both sides, with his words, on the one, demanding a "citizenry trained and accustomed to arms;" with his acts, on the other, discouraging all efforts to make a reality of his words. Wood chose to support the established policy which the President himself had sanctioned, and marveled that any one should question the justice of his choice.

Many of the officers of the Army, indeed, made a different choice, and played safe, huddled over their precious careers and shook their heads mournfully over Wood's recklessness.

Gen. Wood knew the risks he was running. He had a precedent to illuminate the situation. Lord Roberts had, in 1902, gone home from the German maneuvers, which he and Wood had watched together, and, against all the traditions which governed the public utterance of army officers, had gone up and down England, begging his countrymen to prepare for the war which he believed must come. In his case, too, a pacifist administration had issued its rebukes and its threats. One man, like the other, gritted his teeth and faced the guns.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF January 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., and from 5:30 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to midnight.

A romantic atmosphere will be engendered by the planets on this date, and young people will probably fall in love and be happy within themselves in consequence—disillusionment will follow, however. The mind will be more than usually centered on social life and entertaining.

Children born on this January 28 will have sunny natures and considerable individual charm. They will make friends easily and through their unselfishness will keep them. They will take an interest in literature and history, but will dislike the science of mathematics.

You are ambitious, and you have something to offer the world besides the mere strength of your hands. You have an avid mind and one which you will not allow to remain untrained. You believe in preparedness and have vision, so that your opportunities do not find you napping when they knock at your door. You have courage without being foolhardy; you have self-confidence without being conceited; you have optimism without being too hopeful. You like to be busy, and busy at something worth while—you are not a time-waster, and each day's slate is usually wiped clean. You are not always fair to your body and mind. You try to run at high gear under all conditions, and unless you let up, you are due for a breakdown.

As a rule you have an even temperament, although, due to nerves, you sometimes show signs of irritability and touchiness. You are not one to harbor resentment or hate, and are always ready to pardon or forgive. You do not need or desire constant companionship for complete happiness—you can enjoy periods of solitude, alone with your own thoughts and actions. You try to avoid crowds, and greatly dislike noise and confusion.

Your heart will remain whole for many years of your life, but it will finally be given to the man or woman of your choice, to whom you will give your best loyalty and devotion.

Successful people born January 28:
Daniel Willard, railroad president.
Pierre Lorillard, financier.
Julia Opp (Mrs. William Faversham), actress.
Charles Simon Barrett, president national Farmers Union.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—To save Fifi D'Orsay's salary expense between pictures, Fox studio officials sent her out on an extended vaudeville tour. When the Frenchiest girl ever to get her start in Montreal returned, she marched into the office of the big boss.

And she got it.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

Showmanship.

The feature of a forthcoming picture about separations is a divorce party, suggested by a Hollywood incident.

Edward Sutherland, director, and his wife gave a party for several score of prominent guests. In the midst of the fun they called for silence to announce their separation and probable divorce. Host and hostess had kissed farewell before guests regained composure to realize the novelty of the situation.

A writer pounced on the idea and injected it into the film version of the play, "Among the Married."

It seems that the "ex" in the lady's name is necessary because French courts forbid a divorcee to use her married name for commercial purposes. Huguette became famous after she married, and her maiden name was of no value to her. So "ex-Duflos" was arrived at as a compromise.

If this country had a similar law, and its Hollywood divorcees effected similar compromises, imagine: Helen ex-Twelvetrees, Florence ex-Vidor, Clara Kimball ex-Young or Lita Grey ex-Chaplin! They have retained former husband's names.

Success Rule 97.

Hollywood has more social rules than any other community. I've just heard of another one.

More than a few aspiring young contract actresses make it a rule never to "go out socially" with men connected in any capacity whatever with the same studio.

"The bosses who put cracked ice in your glass at night just give you the cold, cold ice when you see them in the studio the next day," is the way one girl put it.

Fakers Must Fail

In Their Absurd Appeals

To the Fat

Fakers have flourished in their appeals to the over-fat. Not many remain. Some of their methods were harmful, some absurd. All have perished quickly in the test.

One reason is that medical science has found a great cause of excess fat. It lies in a lacking gland secretion which must be supplied. Doctors the world over now supply it, and excess fat in late years has been going fast.

A world-famous medical laboratory embodies this factor in Marmola prescription tablets. Not to oppose doctors, but to supply their best help in a very economical way. Thus Marmola opens this right way to millions who might otherwise go wrong.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. The use has grown and grown, while the frauds disappeared by the scores. Now in every circle you can see the results. Your own friends can recite them. Slender figures are the vogue.

Marmola, in every box, gives the formula complete. It also tells you why the fat goes, why new vim appears.

If you have been enticed by fakes, by silly claims, go now and use what doctors use. Combat your fat in the right and scientific way. Gain normal figure, normal vim in Nature's way. Then tell your friends about it—they should know. Go now and order a $1 box from your druggist. Read the book, watch the many good results.

THOMAS A. EDISON

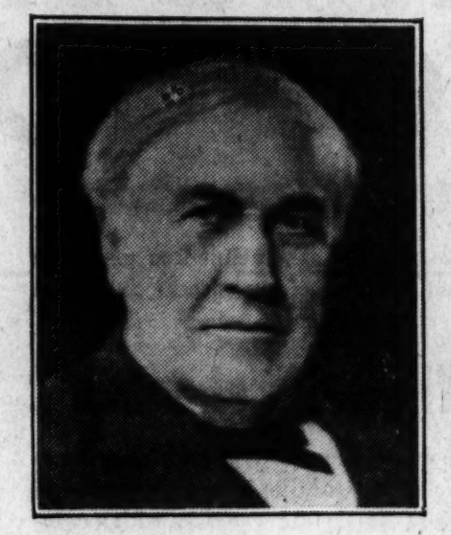
"It Is The Only Balanced Diet" ★



Keen, alert and vigorous at eighty-four, the great inventor, Thomas A. Edison, relies almost entirely on Milk today for physical and mental vigor. Here's an impressive paragraph from a recent interview with Mr. Edison published in the January issue of the Review of Reviews:

"I have been experimenting with Milk now for about eight years. For the last three years I have taken hardly anything else. I came in with Milk"—here he chuckles—"and I guess I'll go out with it. ★ It is the only balanced ration—balanced by the great chemist who is far away."

WASHINGTON DAIRY COUNCIL

ELITE OF CAPITAL ATTENDS CONCERT

RUSSIAN IS APPLAUDED

An interested audience headed by Mrs. Herbert Hoover and representative of many circles of Washington life thronged Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon for the memorable concert given by the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, directed by Bernardino Molinari, the famous European conductor. The concert was given under the local management of T. Arthur Smith.

Without the customary symphony being played, the concert was easily one of the most outstanding productions of the musical season. An added attraction was the noted Russian pianist, Nikolai Orloff. Two modern suites replaced the symphony.

Conductor Molinari renewed the splendid impression given during his previous American tour in 1927-1928, when he directed symphony orchestras in St. Louis, New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, San Mateo, San Francisco and at the Hollywood Bowl. Orloff proved to be a pianist of surpassing ability. His playing of the solo portions of the piano concerto was beautifully achieved.

The Respighi Suite was particularly lovely, and received much applause at its conclusion. While the Strawinsky Suite was no novelty in Washington, where it has appeared on a number of concert programs, it was greeted with acclaim and favorably commented upon by the audience.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

At this period it looks as if the National Theater next week will supplant musical comedy with grand opera. When "America's Sweetheart," now occupying the boards of the E street playhouse, goes for its baptism of fire on Broadway, the New York Opera Company will take over the dressing rooms and the stage—four performances, beginning on Thursday night, February 4, and remaining until the following Sunday.

• • • •

Miss Ruth Draper, who gave her first night audience the thrill of thrills with such profound characterization as the stage seldom sees, will be followed into the Belasco next week by "Blackbirds of 1930." This sepia entertainment, which last year played the National, carries with it quite an assemblage of singers and dancers. Thus, where one lone woman holds the fort at Lafayette Square this week, an entire army, more or less, must take her place in the following seven days—and nights.

• • • •

It had been announced that Miss Draper, after her Washington engagement, would go abroad; but plans are changed. Instead, she will have a fling at other Shubert houses, going from the Belasco to Brooklyn next week, then to the Riviera, on the upper West Side of little old New York, then to her native Philadelphia, and then to the Royal Alexandria Theater in Toronto, where she closes her tour—the last week in February.

• • • •

Hollywood these days is serving as the source for quite a lot of satire. The latest shot at the West Coast celluloid factory is taken by "America's Sweetheart," at the National. Set to music, these shafts follow somewhat the same trajectory traced by George Kaufman and Moss Hart's spicy drama, "Once in a Lifetime"—but Hollywood gets its revenge. It seems that Moss Hart is out there acting in and directing the second company of the play he helped to write. His first problem was to get an actor to play the role of the German movie director. No one suited him. He wanted some one who looked Von Stroheim. After seeing several worthy candidates rejected, Sid Grauman, owner of the theater where "Once in a Lifetime" opened last night, sent for Von Stroheim himself and then asked the great director to disguise himself and applay for the job. He did. Mr. Hart, according to the story, made Von Stroheim read the lines; but it was no go. "You do not look enough like Von Stroheim," said the youthful director, so a noted screen figure lost a job.

• • • •

Lynn Rigg's play, "Green Grow the Lilacs," which played all last week at the National Theater here, got started on its Broadway run last night in the Guild Theater at Fifty-second street. In order to get this berth, the play with June Walker and Helen Westley in principal roles forced out another piece of drama that had its early beginnings in Washington. This is "Midnight," shown here under the title, "In the Meantime." It goes to the Avon Theater and probably has several more weeks ahead of it.

• • • •

Bernard Shaw's political piece, "The Apple Cart," produced by the Theater Guild, has folded up, as the saying goes; but the play will still have other showings on this continent because Maurice Colbuourne and Barry Jones, English actors, have bought the scenery from the Guild and are about to produce the play in Toronto. This will the first presentation in any part of the British Empire outside of England.

• • • •

When James B. Fagan, the English playwright, visited Washington several seasons ago with his comedy, "And So to Bed," playing at the Belasco, he had a chance to observe American manners. The result is a new play which opened in London last week and which has Washington as its locale. It is called, "The Improper Duchess," it takes a fling at prohibition and its scenes are laid in a local hotel. So, there you are—a London laugh at America's expense.

Wales Is Nearing Bermuda On Way to South America

Takes Active Social Part on Ship and Is Perfecting His Spanish; Only Four Persons Permitted to See Him at Havana.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 27 (A.P.). Undaunted by a severe crossing in which the Oropesa was frequently rolled by high waves and westerly gales, the Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, tonight were nearing the end of their Atlantic voyage to the New World.

Despite the rough seas, the royal brothers, who are on a visit to South America, have enjoyed the trip and have taken active parts in the social life aboard ship. In addition to making many motion pictures of the huge waves, the Prince of Wales mingled freely with the other passengers. Apparently the heavy motion of the ship has not inconvenienced him.

Much time was devoted by the Prince in perfecting his Spanish. Before his departure from England he studied the language, and on board the Oropesa he had carried on many conversations in the Spanish tongue.

Various South American business men on the ship discussed the affairs of their countries with the Prince, and paid tribute to his general knowledge and information about the places he plans to visit. They predicted that British interests in South America will benefit materially from the tour.

After spending several hours in Hamilton the Oropesa will leave tomorrow afternoon for Havana, the next port of call on the prince's itinerary.

Havana, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Only four persons will be permitted to visit the Prince of Wales and Prince George when the steamer Oropesa stops here en route to South America.

The curtailment of visits will be made at the specific request of the Prince of Wales, in a wireless message received here.

The prince is understood to consider the brief stop here insufficient to permit a larger reception. The vessel is due in Havana from Hamilton, Bermuda, Saturday and will remain in port only an hour or two before proceeding to Jamaica.

Those who will call upon the prince on board ship here are Dr. Rafael Ortiz, secretary of state; Enrique Soler y Baro, of the department of state; Thomas J. Morris, British minister, and Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League of Nations.

Legion Post Will Begin Operetta Rehearsals

The Vincent Costello Post of the American Legion will commence rehearsals for their operetta, "Songland's Romance," Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Cairo Hotel, 1615 Q street northwest. Judge Robert E. Mattingly will be interlocutor.

The cast will include more than 100 persons and will be under the direction of Lieut. Charles Riemer. According to the director there is still need of several soloists. Any one wishing to participate may get in contact with Lieut. Riemer in the Denrike Building.

RUM BOAT CAPTURED AS HIJACKERS WORK

PREMIER ASKED TO ACT

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—A board of inuiry investigating the shelling by the Coast Guard of the Canadian rumrunner, Josephine K., and the killing of her commander, Capt. William Cluett, heard today the Government cutter arrived alongside the liquor craft just as hijackers were starting operations.

This testimony came from Karl Schmidt, boatswain in command of cutter 145, the ship which made the capture Saturday night, off Ambrose Light.

Schmidt said a speed boat slipped away in the dark just as his patrol hove in sight. The master of the scow, Brooklyn, which was lying beside the Josephine K, and subsequently was found to be well loaded with liquor, told him about the hijacking attempt, the boatswain testified.

Hijackers Line Up Crew.

The Brooklyn already had been boarded by ten men from the speedboat, Schmidt told the board of inquiry, and they had backed the crew against the cabin and started transferring "some heavy sacks" to their own craft.

The witness said he had fired the six warning shots required by Coast Guard regulations before he trained his gun on the Josephine K, and denied the encounter took place outside the 12-mile limit, at which United States jurisdiction ends.

Shelled 15 Miles Out, He Says.

He thus contradicted two points made by Wesley Anderson, first mate of the Josephine K, who insisted the shelling took place 15 miles offshore, and said the first shot fired by the cutter ripped through the superstructure of the Canadian vessel. Anderson has not yet been called before the board, but he told his story to newspapermen.

The international aspect of the case was emphasized by the presence of Gerald Campbell, new British consul general at New York. Mr. Campbell was invited to take part in questioning witnesses, but he declined. He attended at the request of the Canadian government, to which he is making a detailed report of the proceedings.

Ottawa, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The shooting of Capt. William Cujett of the Canadian rumrunner Josephine K by the United States Coast Guard off New York was the subject of representations today to Premier R. B. Bennett by William G. Ernst, Conservative member of Parliament for Queens-Lunenburg.

Mr. Ernst asked for the fullest inquiry into the shooting.

Chicago Seeks National Conventions.

Chicago, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Chicago wants both the Republican and Democratic national conventions next year. The Association of Commerce today decided to make an aggressive campaign for the party meetings. A committee of 50 will confer with national committeemen.

Theft of Pullman Laid To Arkansas Traveler

Last August Mahone felt the need of a quiet trip to St. Louis. Pretending to be superintendent of the Pullman Company, police said he telephoned Memphis yard officials to attach a car to train 126 as a "deadhead," advising them a porter would accompany it.

When train 126 pulled out for St. Louis, they said, Pullman car "Kescog" tagged along, and in the "Kescog" rode Walter Mahone. Mahone returned home today and was jailed.

JURY NAMES SEVEN IN BUCKLEY KILLING

Ted Pizzino Is Also Charged With Slaying of Two Narcotic Runners.

WOMAN IN INDICTMENT

Detroit, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The Wayne County grand jury's list of the persons it believes participated in the assassination of Radio Announcer Jerry Buckley last July 23 was enlarged today by the returning of a blanket indictment naming six men and a woman.

The indictment named Ted Pizzino, Joseph Bommarito, Angelo Livecchi, Pete Licavoli and three persons designated only as John Doe, Richard Doe and Mary Doe.

Pizzino, Bommarito and Livecchi are already under arrest. Licavoli has been sought ever since the slaying. Just before the first three defendants were arraigned on the blanket indictment the prosecution sprung a surprise by arraigning Pizzino on a secret indictment charging him with the slaying of William Cannon and George Collins, narcotic runners, shot to death in the doorway of the La Salle Hotel July 3, three weeks before Buckley was killed.

Pizzino and Bommarito are alleged actual assassins in the Buckley slaying. They already have been named in individual indictments. Livecchi, the alleged "finger man" in the plot, has been held ever since the slaying.

Pizzino stood mute when arraigned for the killing of Cannon and Collins, and a plea of not guilty was entered for him. He was then arraigned with Bommarito and Livecchi on the blanket indictment, and all three stood mute, and pleas of not guilty were entered for them.

The true identity of Richard Roe, John Doe, and Mary Roe was not revealed. The police are known to be seeking three men in the Buckley killing. They are Angelo Meli, "black Leo" Cellura, and Thomas (Yonny) Licavoli, a younger brother of Pete Licavoli. The "Mary Roe" is believed to be the woman supposed to have called Buckley to the lobby of the La Salle Hotel, where the three gunmen shot him.

WOMEN HEAR LUCAS LAUD 2-PARTY PLAN

POINTS TO FRENCH UPSET

Pointing out that France has had twenty changes of ministry since the armistice, and that England has had no ministry which lasted more than two years in that time, Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, said the American system of two-party Government has tended to stabilize this country, in an address yesterday before the Federation of Republican Women of Montgomery County in the Chevy Chase Postoffice Building.

Because of the inability of foreign countries to maintain a permanent government, they have been unable to formulate a definite forward looking policy, or to carry it out if it could be evolved, Mr. Lucas said.

Calls Two-Party Plan Essential.

"Under our two-party system of Government, we have preserved our free institutions, developed our country and its resources and to a degree never before recorded in civilization, promoted the material and spiritual welfare of our people," he said.

"There is no other way in which our Government can be administered than by the two-party system. Those who go outside of the two political parties to form blocs, cliques and groups, not only fritter away their strength and influence, but they contribute to the breakdown of our democratic form of Government. For if a party's ability to carry out its promises be destroyed by the renunciation of party loyalty and the rules of party solidarity, then also is there destroyed a party's responsibility for its conduct of public affairs.

"Those who seek to disorganize political parties in order that they may reap personal benefits and preferment, would, in the event that they were elevated to official position, disorganize our Government. It is axiomatic in public life, quite as well as it is in business life, that those who can not take orders and execute them are not possessed of the inherent ability to give orders."

Mr. Lucas urged the women to take an active part in politics and to inspire their fellow Republicans to continue to combat Democratic propaganda against the Republican party and its leader, Herbert Hoover.

Women Elect Officers.

Mrs. E. W. Koch, president; Mrs. Don Clarke, of Wheaton, vice president; Mrs. Milton Bancroft, of Sandy Spring, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Chadwick, of Washington Grove, recording secretary; Mrs. E. W. Moore, of Kensington, treasurer; Mrs. Charles I. Corby, of Garrett Park; Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, of Bethesda, and Mrs. John W. Coffman, of Takoma Park, directors.

Paul Sieman, chairman, and Wilson L. Townsend, treasurer, of the Republican State central committee for Montgomery County, and Mrs. John A. Holmes, State president of the Republican Women, were present.

Manager of Roxy Theater Will Retire on March 29

New York, Jan. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Samuel L. Rothafel, familiarly known as Roxy, will relinquish his management of the Roxy Theater here on March 29, the board of directors announced today.

When he returned from a three months' vacation last December Roxy would neither deny nor confirm a report that he was to be the general director of the Radio City in the amusement and scientific center being planned in cooperation with John D. Rockefeller, jr., and the Radio Corporation of America, in "Rockefeller City."

It is believed this is the "wider field of activity" Roxy plans to enter. He was not available tonight, hence no statement concerning his future plans could be had.

Roxy realized his dream in 1927 when the Roxy Theater, one of the largest of its kind in the United States, was built at a cost of more than $2,000,000. After a considerable struggle, Roxy accomplished the financing of the project through sale of $2,500,000 in bonds, as president of the Roxy Theaters Corporation. Recently a bronze bas relief portrait of Roxy was installed in the lobby of the theater, as the theatrical industry's tribute to his fourteen years of theater management on Broadway.

Dr. Holmes Is Guest Of Landscape Club

Dr. William H. Holmes, director of the National Gallery and dean of Washington artists, last night was honor guest of the Landscape Club of Washington at a banquet at the Cosmos Club.

Other guests of the club were Roy Brown, of New York City; J. Maxwell Miller, of Baltimore, Md., and Robert Spencer, of New Hope, Pa., all nationally known painters and members of the jury of award for the forthcoming annual exhibit of the Washington Society of Artists. Films showing scenes along the upper Potomac were exhibited.

School and Playground Purchases Approved

Purchase of a school site and two playground sites was approved yesterday by the District Commissioners for approximately $62,000.

The offer of Charles Glover, jr., to sell about 6 acres at Calvert and Thirty-first streets northwest for $59,460 was accepted. The property is required, it was said, as an elementary school site in the Burleith-Glover Park section. The playground tracts are small lots adjoining the Lovejoy and the Kenilworth schools and are to be acquired for $750 and $1,021.25, respectively.

M Street Auto Parking Restriction Is Extended

The two-hour parking restriction on M street was extended yesterday by the District Commissioners one block west to Nineteenth street so as to prevent all-day parking in the neighborhood of Connecticut avenue. The change was made upon the recommendation of Traffic Director W. H. Harland.

Complaints had been made, it was explained, that all the parking space on M street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, formerly open for all-day parking, was occupied throughout the day to the inconvenience of residents and business men in the area.

Extension Instruction Available for Teachers

Teachers already in the service in Washington are to be given the opportunity to take extension courses at the Wilson Teachers College and the Miner Teachers College, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools.

Application for registering in each course can be made at the Wilson Teachers College tomorrow and Friday between 4 o'clock and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Applications for registering will be received at the Miner Teachers College Saturday between 10 o'clock and noon and on Monday between 3:30 o'clock and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Gordon Junior High Job Let on $135,000 Bid

The contract for construction of a twelve-room addition and two gymnasiums at the Gordon Junior High School, Thirty-fourth and U streets northwest, was awarded by the District Commissioners yesterday to George E. Wyne, of Washington, on his low bid of eleven proposals for $135,000.

The contract was far below the expectations of the Commissioners, the estimate on the project being $171,020 and the appropriations amounting to $250,000. Work will start on the addition at once.

Heads Found in Rio Grande Sack.

Laredo, Tex., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Heads of a blonde woman and a dark-haired man were found in a cloth bag today on the Mexican bank of the Rio Grande by two bootblacks. Each bore a bullet hole. Indications were that the killings had occurred within the last few days.

ENGLISH AVIATRIX IS HURT AT AIRPORT

MUD IS ACCIDENT CAUSE

She escaped with a bruise over the left eye and a cut on her right hand, but was badly shaken, and said she would remain at a hotel here overnight while repairs were made on the plane. The propeller was broken and one wing bent.

The accident occurred in view of a large group of spectators at the Glenn L. Martin airport as the plane's wheels sank in mud off the packed runway. She said she felt the pull of the mire and turned on more power suddenly in the hope of pulling free in one spurt.

The spectators saw the plane flop over with a crash, and ran up to extricate the flier. But she climbed out alone and displayed concern only over the damage to the ship, making light of her injuries.

Arrives Hour Late.

Mrs. Bruce piloted the plane here today from Tappahannock, Va., where she made a forced landing late yesterday when on her way here from Pittsburgh. She said she passed the night at the home of a farmer. This morning she resumed the flight but lost her bearings and arrived at the airport more than an hour after she was expected.

In landing Mrs. Bruce's plane mired in a corner of the field, away from the runway. She arrived alone in her biplane, but was escorted by another ship piloted by C. J. Brossman.

She said the forced landing at Tappahannock was made necessary because she lost her way and run out of fuel.

Plane Carries Radio.

Mrs. Bruce's flight started last September 25 at Heston, Middlesex Air Park, England. The plane is a two-seated biplane equipped with radio. On the flight to Tokyo she encountered difficulty and made a forced landing in the mountains 20 miles north of Jask, Persia. The radio remained intact and with it she brought help.

At Tokyo the plane was crated and placed aboard a ship for Vancouver, British Columbia. From that city she flew down the Pacific coast to San Francisco and on to Dallas, Tex.

At New York the plane is to be crated for the trip by ship to London.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer, of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

"May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at Peoples Drug Stores or any drugstore in America. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. To help reduce swiftly cut out pastry and fatty meats and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.—Adv.

ELITE OF CAPITAL ATTENDS CONCERT

RUSSIAN IS APPLAUDED

An interested audience headed by Mrs. Herbert Hoover and representative of many circles of Washington life thronged Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon for the memorable concert given by the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, directed by Bernardino Molinari, the famous Europeon conductor. The concert was given under the local management of T. Arthur Smith.

Without the customary symphony being played, the concert was easily one of the most outstanding productions of the musical season. An added attraction was the noted Russian pianist, Nikolai Orloff. Two modern suites replaced the symphony.

Conductor Molinari renewed the splendid impression given during his previous American tour in 1927-1928, when he directed symphony orchestras in St. Louis, New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, San Mateo, San Francisco and at the Hollywood Bowl. Orloff proved to be a pianist of surpassing ability. His playing of the solo portions of the piano concerto was beautifully achieved.

The Respighi Suite was particularly lovely, and received much applause at its conclusion. While the Strawinsky Suite was no novelty in Washington, where it has appeared on a number of concert programs, it was greeted with acclaim and favorably commented upon by the audience.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

AT this period it looks as if the National Theater next week will supplant musical comedy with grand opera. When "America's Sweetheart," now occupying the boards of the E street playhouse, goes for its baptism of fire on Broadway, the New York Opera Company will take over the dressing rooms and the stage—four performances, beginning on Thursday night, February 4, and remaining until the following Sunday.

* * * *

Miss Ruth Draper, who gave her first night audience the thrill of thrills with such profound characterization as the stage seldom sees, will be followed into the Belasco next week by "Blackbirds of 1930." This sepia entertainment, which last year played the National, carries with it quite an assemblage of singers and dancers. Thus, where one lone woman holds the fort at Lafayette Square this week, an entire army, more or less, must take her place in the following seven days—and nights.

* * * *

It had been announced that Miss Draper, after her Washington engagement, would go abroad; but plans are changed. Instead, she will have a fling at other Shubert houses, going from the Belasco to Brooklyn next week, then to the Riviera, on the upper West Side of little old New York, then to her native Philadelphia, and then to the Royal Alexandra Theater in Toronto, where she closes her tour—the last week in February.

* * * *

Hollywood these days is serving as the source for quite a lot of satire. The latest shot at the West Coast celluloid factory is taken by "America's Sweetheart," at the National. Set to music, these shafts follow somewhat the same trajectory traced by George Kaufman and Moss Hart's spicy drama, "Once in a Lifetime"—but Hollywood gets its revenge. It seems that Moss Hart is out there acting in and directing the second company of the play he helped to write. His first problem was to get an actor to play the role of the German movie director. No one suited him. He wanted some one who looked Von Stroheim. After seeing several worthy candidates rejected, Sid Grauman, owner of the theater where "Once in a Lifetime" opened last night, sent for Von Stroheim himself and then asked the great director to disguise himself and applay for the job. He did. Mr. Hart, according to the story, made Von Stroheim read the lines; but it was no go. "You do not look enough like Von Stroheim," said the youthful director, so a noted screen figure lost a job.

* * * *

Lynn Rigg's play, "Green Grow the Lilacs," which played all last week at the National Theater here, got started on its Broadway run last night in the Guild Theater at Fifty-second street. In order to get this berth, the play with June Walker and Helen Westley in principal roles forced out another piece of drama that had its early beginnings in Washington. This is "Midnight," shown here under the title, "In the Meantime." It goes to the Avon Theater and probably has several more weeks ahead of it.

* * * *

Bernard Shaw's political piece, "The Apple Cart," produced by the Theater Guild, has folded up, as the saying goes; but the play will still have other showings on this continent because Maurice Colbuourne and Barry Jones, English actors, have bought the scenery from the Guild and are about to produce the play in Toronto. This will the first presentation in any part of the British Empire outside of England.

* * * *

When James B. Fagan, the English playwright, visited Washington several seasons ago with his comedy, "And So to Bed," playing at the Belasco, he had a chance to observe American manners. The result is a new play which opened in London last week and which has Washington as its locale. It is called, "The Improper Duchess," it takes a fling at prohibition and its scenes are laid in a local hotel. So, there you are—a London laugh at America's expense.

Wales Is Nearing Bermuda On Way to South America

Takes Active Social Part on Ship and Is Perfecting His Spanish; Only Four Persons Permitted to See Him at Havana.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 27 (A.P.). Undaunted by a severe crossing in which the Oropesa was frequently rolled by high waves and westerly gales, the Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, tonight were nearing the end of their Atlantic voyage to the New World.

Despite the rough seas, the royal brothers, who are on a visit to South America, have enjoyed the trip and have taken active parts in the social life aboard ship. In addition to making many motion pictures of the huge waves, the Prince of Wales mingled freely with the other passengers. Apparently the heavy motion of the ship has not inconvenienced him.

Much time was devoted by the Prince in perfecting his Spanish. Before his departure from England he studied the language, and on board the Oropesa he had carried on many conversations in the Spanish tongue.

Various South American business men on the ship discussed the affairs of their countries with the Prince, and paid tribute to his general knowledge and information about the places he plans to visit. They predicted that British interests in South America will benefit materially from the tour.

After spending several hours in Hamilton the Oropesa will leave tomorrow afternoon for Havana, the next port of call on the prince's itinerary.

Havana, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Only four persons will be permitted to visit the Prince of Wales and Prince George when the steamer Oropesa stops here en route to South America.

The curtailment of visits will be made at the specific request of the Prince of Wales, in a wireless message received here.

The prince is understood to consider the brief stop here insufficient to permit a larger reception. The vessel is due in Havana from Hamilton, Bermuda, Saturday and will remain in port only an hour or two before proceeding to Jamaica.

Those who will call upon the prince on board ship here are Dr. Rafael Ortiz, secretary of state; Enrique Soler y Baro, of the department of state; Thomas J. Morris, British minister, and Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League of Nations.

Legion Post Will Begin Operetta Rehearsals

The Vincent Costello Post of the American Legion will commence rehearsals for their operetta, "Songland's Romance," Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Cairo Hotel, 1615 Q street northwest. Judge Robert E. Mattingly will be interlocutor.

The cast will include more than 100 persons and will be under the direction of Lieut. Charles Riemer. According to the director there is still need of several soloists. Any one wishing to participate may get in contact with Lieut. Riemer in the Denrike Building.

RUM BOAT CAPTURED AS HIJACKERS WORK

PREMIER ASKED TO ACT

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—A board of inuiry investigating the shelling by the Coast Guard of the Canadian rumrunner, Josephine K., and the killing of her commander, Capt. William Cluett, heard today the Government cutter arrived alongside the liquor craft just as hijackers were starting operations.

This testimony came from Karl Schmidt, boatswain in command of cutter 145, the ship which made the capture Saturday night, off Ambrose Light.

Schmidt said a speed boat slipped away in the dark just as his patrol hove in sight. The master of the scow, Brooklyn, which was lying beside the Josephine K, and subsequently was found to be well loaded with liquor, told him about the hijacking attempt, the boatswain testified.

Hijackers Line Up Crew.

The Brooklyn already had been boarded by ten men from the speedboat, Schmidt told the board of inquiry, and they had backed the crew against the cabin and started transferring "some heavy sacks" to their own craft.

The witness said he had fired the six warning shots required by Coast Guard regulations before he trained his gun on the Josephine K, and denied the encounter took place outside the 12-mile limit, at which United States jurisdiction ends.

Shelled 15 Miles Out, He Says.

He thus contradicted two points made by Wesley Anderson, first mate of the Josephine K, who insisted the shelling took place 15 miles offshore, and said the first shot fired by the cutter ripped through the superstructure of the Canadian vessel. Anderson has not yet been called before the board, but he told his story to newspapermen.

The international aspect of the case was emphasized by the presence of Gerald Campbell, new British consul general at New York. Mr. Campbell was invited to take part in questioning witnesses, but he declined. He attended at the request of the Canadian government, to which he is making a detailed report of the proceedings.

Ottawa, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The shooting of Capt. William Cujett of the Canadian rumrunner Josephine K by the United States Coast Guard off New York was the subject of representations today to Premier R. B. Bennett by William G. Ernst, Conservative member of Parliament for Queens-Lunenburg.

Mr. Ernst asked for the fullest inquiry into the shooting.

Chicago Seeks National Conventions.

Chicago, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Chicago wants both the Republican and Democratic national conventions next year. The Association of Commerce today decided to make an aggressive campaign for the party meetings. A committee of 50 will confer with national committeemen.

Theft of Pullman Laid To Arkansas Traveler

Last August Mahone felt the need of a quiet trip to St. Louis. Pretending to be superintendent of the Pullman Company, police said he telephoned Memphis yard officials to attach a car to train 126 as a "deadhead," advising them a porter would accompany it.

When train 126 pulled out for St. Louis, they said, Pullman car "Kescog" tagged along, and in the "Kescog" rode Walter Mahone. Mahone returned home today and was jailed.

JURY NAMES SEVEN IN BUCKLEY KILLING

Ted Pizzino Is Also Charged With Slaying of Two Narcotic Runners.

WOMAN IN INDICTMENT

Detroit, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The Wayne County grand jury's list of the persons it believes participated in the assassination of Radio Announcer Jerry Buckley last July 23 was enlarged today by the returning of a blanket indictment naming six men and a woman.

The indictment named Ted Pizzino, Joseph Bommarito, Angelo Livecchi, Pete Licavoli and three persons designated only as John Doe, Richard Doe and Mary Doe.

Pizzino, Bommarito and Livecchi are already under arrest. Licavoli has been sought ever since the slaying. Just before the first three defendants were arraigned on the blanket indictment the prosecution sprung a surprise by arraigning Pizzino on a secret indictment charging him wth the slaying of William Cannon and George Collins, narcotic runners, shot to death in the doorway of the La Salle Hotel July 3, three weeks before Buckley was killed.

Pizzino and Bommarito are alleged actual assassins in the Buckley slaying. They already have been named in individual indictments. Livecchi, the alleged "finger man" in the plot, has been held ever since the slaying.

Pizzino stood mute when arraigned for the killing of Cannon and Collins, and a plea of not guilty was entered for him. He was then arraigned with Bommarito and Livecchi on the blanket indictment, and all three stood mute, and pleas of not guilty were entered for them.

The true identity of Richard Roe, John Doe, and Mary Roe was not revealed. The police are known to be seeking three men in the Buckley killing. They are Angelo Meli, "black Leo" Cellura, and Thomas (Yonny) Licavoli, a younger brother of Pete Licavoli. The "Mary Roe" is believed to be the woman supposed to have called Buckley to the lobby of the La Salle Hotel, where the three gunmen shot him.

WOMEN HEAR LUCAS LAUD 2-PARTY PLAN

POINTS TO FRENCH UPSET

Pointing out that France has had twenty changes of ministry since the armistice and that England has had no ministry which lasted more than two years in that time, Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, said the American system of two-party Government has tended to stabilize this country, in an address yesterday before the Federation of Republican Women of Montgomery County in the Chevy Chase Postoffice Building.

Because of the inability of foreign countries to maintain a permanent government, they have been unable to formulate a definite forward looking policy, or to carry it out if it could be evolved, Mr. Lucas said.

Calls Two-Party Plan Essential.

"Under our two-party system of Government, we have preserved our free institutions, developed our country and its resources and to a degree never before recorded in civilization, promoted the material and spiritual welfare of our people," he said.

"There is no other way in which our Government can be administered than by the two-party system. Those who go outside of the two political parties to form blocs, cliques and groups, not only fritter away their strength and influence, but they contribute to the breakdown of our democratic form of Government. For if a party's ability to carry out its promises be destroyed by the renunciation of party loyalty and the rules of party solidarity, then also is there destroyed a party's responsibility for its conduct of public affairs.

"Those who seek to disorganize political parties in order that they may reap personal benefits and preferment, would, in the event that they were elevated to official position, disorganize our Government. It is axiomatic in public life, quite as well as it is in business life, that those who can not take orders and execute them are not possessed of the inherent ability to give orders."

Mr. Lucas urged the women to take an active part in politics and to inspire their fellow Republicans to continue to combat Democratic propaganda against the Republican party and its leader, Herbert Hoover.

Women Elect Officers.

Mrs. E. W. Koch, president; Mrs. Don Clarke, of Wheaton, vice president; Mrs. Milton Bancroft, of Sandy Spring, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Chadwick, of Washington Grove, recording secretary; Mrs. E. W. Moore, of Kensington, treasurer; Mrs. Charles I. Corby, of Garrett Park; Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, of Bethesda, and Mrs. John W. Coffman, of Takoma Park, directors.

Paul Sleman, chairman, and Wilson L. Townsend, treasurer, of the Republican State central committee for Montgomery County, and Mrs. John A. Holmes, State president of the Republican Women, were present.

Manager of Roxy Theater Will Retire on March 29

New York, Jan. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Samuel L. Rothafel, familiarly known as Roxy, will relinquish his management of the Roxy Theater here on March 29, the board of directors announced today.

When he returned from a three months' vacation last December Roxy would neither deny nor confirm a report that he was to be the general director of the Radio City in the amusement and scientific center being planned in cooperation with John D. Rockefeller, jr., and the Radio Corporation of America, in "Rockefeller City."

It is believed this is the "wider field of activity" Roxy plans to enter. He was not available tonight, hence no statement concerning his future plans could be had.

Roxy realized his dream in 1927 when the Roxy Theater, one of the largest of its kind in the United States, was built at a cost of more than $2,000,000. After a considerable struggle, Roxy accomplished the financing of the project through sale of $2,500,000 in bonds, as president of the Roxy Theaters Corporation. Recently a bronze bas relief portrait of Roxy was installed in the lobby of the theater, as the theatrical industry's tribute to his fourteen years of theater management on Broadway.

Dr. Holmes Is Guest Of Landscape Club

Dr. William H. Holmes, director of the National Gallery and dean of Washington artists, last night was honor guest of the Landscape Club of Washington at a banquet at the Cosmos Club.

Other guests of the club were Roy Brown, of New York City; J. Maxwell Miller, of Baltimore, Md., and Robert Spencer, of New Hope, Pa., all nationally known painters and members of the jury of award for the forthcoming annual exhibit of the Washington Society of Artists. Films showing scenes along the upper Potomac were exhibited.

School and Playground Purchases Approved

Purchase of a school site and two playground sites was approved yesterday by the District Commissioners for approximately $62,000.

The offer of Charles Glover, jr., to sell about 6 acres at Calvert and Thirty-first streets northwest for $59,460 was accepted. The property is required, it was said, as an elementary school site in the Burleith-Glover Park section. The playground tracts are small lots adjoining the Lovejoy and the Kenilworth schools and are to be acquired for $750 and $1,021.25, respectively.

M Street Auto Parking Restriction Is Extended

The two-hour parking restriction on M street was extended yesterday by the District Commissioners one block west to Nineteenth street so as to prevent all-day parking in the neighborhood of Connecticut avenue. The change was made upon the recommendation of Traffic Director W. H. Harland.

Complaints had been made, it was explained, that all the parking space on M street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, formerly open for all-day parking, was occupied throughout the day to the inconvenience of residents and business men in the area.

Extension Instruction Available for Teachers

Teachers already in the service in Washington are to be given the opportunity to take extension courses at the Wilson Teachers College and the Miner Teachers College, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools.

Application for registering in each course can be made at the Wilson Teachers College tomorrow and Friday between 4 o'clock and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Applications for registering will be received at the Miner Teachers College Saturday between 10 o'clock and noon and on Monday between 3:30 o'clock and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The contract for construction of a twelve-room addition and two gymnasiums at the Gordon Junior High School, Thirty-fourth and U streets northwest, was awarded by the District Commissioners yesterday to George E. Wyne, of Washington, on his low bid of eleven proposals for $135,000.

The contract was far below the expectations of the Commissioners, the estimate on the project being $171,020 and the appropriations amounting to $250,000. Work will start on the addition at once.

Heads Found in Rio Grande Sack.

Laredo, Tex., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Heads of a blonde woman and a dark-haired man were found in a cloth bag today on the Mexican bank of the Rio Grande by two bootblacks. Each bore a bullet hole. Indications were that the killings had occurred within the last few days.

ENGLISH AVIATRIX IS HURT AT AIRPORT

MUD IS ACCIDENT CAUSE

She escaped with a bruise over the left eye and a cut on her right hand, but was badly shaken, and said she would remain at a hotel here overnight while repairs were made on the plane. The propeller was broken and one wing bent.

The accident occurred in view of a large group of spectators at the Glenn L. Martin airport as the plane's wheels sank in mud off the packed runway. She said she felt the pull of the mire and turned on more power suddenly in the hope of pulling free in one spurt.

The spectators saw the plane flop over with a crash, and ran up to extricate the flier. But she climbed out alone and displayed concern only over the damage to the ship, making light of her injuries.

Arrives Hour Late.

Mrs. Bruce piloted the plane here today from Tappahannock, Va., where she made a forced landing late yesterday when on her way here from Pittsburgh. She said she passed the night at the home of a farmer. This morning she resumed the flight but lost her bearings and arrived at the airport more than an hour after she was expected.

In landing Mrs. Bruce's plane mired in a corner of the field, away from the runway. She arrived alone in her biplane, but was escorted by another ship piloted by C. J. Brossman.

She said the forced landing at Tappahannock was made necessary because she lost her way and run out of fuel.

Plane Carries Radio.

Mrs. Bruce's flight started last September 25 at Heston, Middlesex Air Park, England. The plane is a two-seated biplane equipped with radio. On the flight to Tokyo she encountered difficulty and made a forced landing in the mountains 20 miles north of Jask, Persia. The radio remained intact and with it she brought help.

At Tokyo the plane was crated and placed aboard a ship for Vancouver, British Columbia. From that city she flew down the Pacific coast to San Francisco and on to Dallas, Tex.

At New York the plane is to be crated for the trip by ship to London.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer, of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give 'Kruschen Salts' a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

"May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at Peoples Drug Stores or any drugstore in America. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. To help reduce swiftly cut out pastry and fatty meats and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.—Adv.

HAVE YOU Ever Given this A Thought . . . . The "Breaks" Make or Break!

How about YOU who have Plenty?

Give More This Year-- the Need Is Greater

Lest you forget . . . 1931's Community Chest Campaign requires larger donations . . . because demands upon it are greater . . . $388,000, or 25% MORE (THAN LAST YEAR) MUST BE RAISED . . . besides the addition of the American Red Cross Drought Relief Campaign and the following conditions have forced this increase: UNEMPLOYMENT—GROWTH OF CITY—IMPROVED SERVICE FOR NEEDY—YEAR-'ROUND OPERATION OF FORMER PART-TIME ORGANIZATION—MANY LARGE GIFTS MUST BE MADE UP!

AMERICAN RED CROSS DROUGHT RELIEF

In order to prevent interference with the Washington Chapter of the American Red Cross in raising its $100,000 quota of the Nation-wide $10,000,000 drought Relief Fund, and in order also to save time of volunteers and cost of duplicate solicitation, the Community Chest has included the $100,000 for this fund in its budget. This amount must be raised in addition to the sum of $1,850,154.40 required by the Community Chest for local needs. Do your share for local and national emergency by giving one gift to your Community Chest.

FOR WASHINGTON'S SAKE GIVE COMMUNITY CHEST

How the Community Chest increases the power of the Charity Dollar

Cost of money-raising before the Chest was formed averaged more than 15%.

Chest cost for 1930 was only 7%—3½% for campaign and 3½% for year-'round administration. Cost will be only 6% in 1931.

You men who have arrived, pause for a moment and live life over in memory. Has there ever been a time when you needed the "breaks"? When a wrong step or a twist of circumstance would have sent you down the ladder instead of up?

There are thousands of men in Washington less fortunate than you who have consistently gotten the wrong kind of "breaks." The Community Chest is their ray of hope—a means of getting started again—UP THE LADDER!

This year the Community Chest faces a grave emergency. More thousands than ever before are in want—and every Washingtonian has a civic duty to perform and must perform it freely, fully, promptly.

So we appeal to you to make this year's contribution to the Chest a generous one ! . . . more generous even than you would have made it in a year of great prosperity. Thousands will be saved from untold misery, if every gift is measured by the need,

The Community Chest

NARROW CHANGES STILL RULE STOCKS

MERCHANDISING LIST UP

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The stock market, with its mind on the meeting of the U. S. Steel directors, refused to budge today from an area of restricted price movements.

Leading shares developed and maintained a heavy undertone and points of strength elsewhere were none too numerous. Merchandising shares started a noon rally, but it was promptly squelched by the Studebaker dividend reduction. Late covering kept final prices off the bottom and net declines in utilities and industrials were largely fractional. Sales totaled 1,601,720 shares.

U. S. Steel traveled a 1-point path, selling off by a major fraction and then rallying at the close under covering by professional traders who were taking no chances on the earnings statement. The stock closed at 142¾, up ¼. Some of the utilities turned heavy. American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, American & Foreign Power, Electric Power & Light and Columbia Gas lost about a point. Rails were mixed and quiet. Union Pacific dropped 3.

Studebaker Shares Decline.

Studebaker's reaction to the dividend cut was a 2-point drop and some sympathetic heaviness appeared in other motor shares. The merchandising group held part of 1-to-3-point advances, with J. C. Penney making the best showing.

There was isolated strength in the Twin Cities Rapid Transit issue, which anticipated a favorable 1930 earnings statement with a 10-point rally in the preferred and 4-point rise in the common. Byers, Auburn Auto, Paramount and Erie fared reasonably well; American Cab, Westinghouse and National Biscuit sagged.

The Steel Corporation's report gave striking evidence that the depression had struck the industry with full force in the final quarter of 1930, although net income from all operations was equal to 70 cents a common share, earnings from operations amounted to little more than 27 cents, which meant the corporation failed to earn the three months' dividend by nearly $1.50. Unofficial estimates of the earnings had run as low as 30 cents a share.

Loans on Collateral Drop.

Bond trading expanded, but the market was irregular, which was rather to be expected in view of the large volume of new offerings. The weekly condition statement of Federal Reserve member banks showed considerable switching to Government securities from corporate bonds. Loans on collateral dropped $97,000,000 to $7,425,000,000, where they are $308,000,000 below the total for this time last year.

Freight loadings fail to display outstanding improvement. The increase for the week ended January 17 over the previous week was 11,687 cars, so that the gains still leave something to be desired.

Wheat closed firm, with net gains of ½ to ⅞ of a cent, reflecting continued dry weather in the Southwest and a decrease in the world's visible supply. Corn rallied about a point in response to a good shipping demand in Chicago and smaller contract stocks. Cotton improved 9 to 12 points.

Foreign exchanges were dull and steady. The firming of bill rates in London helped sterling cables slightly.

BOND MARKET DIPS AS TURNOVER GAINS

Missouri Pacific Issues Sold Reach $1,000,000 at Loss of 2 Points.

FLOTATIONS ARE HEAVY

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The appearance of nearly $100,000,000 in new loans for domestic corporations and the prospect of many additional flotations during the week gave the bond market a slight setback today.

The reactionary trend was most evident in carrier loans with obligations of the Missouri Pacific Railroad leading both the activity and the decline. More than $1,000,000 in bonds of the road were sold, most of them 2 points off the previous day, following the marketing of a new $61,000,000 issue. Not in weeks has the bond market witnessed such activity in the bonds of one company. Four per cent bonds reacted to 95, the offering price of the new issue. Large blocks of other investment railroad obligations were offered at good fractional concessions.

The expansion of activity on the decline gave the bond market the busiest session in more than a fortnight, the day's exchanges amounting to more than $13,000,000. Utilities also had competition from new financing and most of the changes were of the downside.

Announcement of the prospective sale of $60,000,000 Treasury bills on Friday, contributed to the lower movement in United States Governments. An $1,000,000 block of Treasury 3⅜s of 1940-43 changed hands at a concession of 7-32ds from the previous close. Bankers expect that the Government will receive very high bids for its 90-day notes.

Foreign bonds were generally firm. There was a good demand for Belgian, British and Japanese bonds at their best prices of the year. Realizing depressed the German group. Several Latin-Americans improved.

Former Richfield Oil Aid Faces Receivership Plea

San Francisco, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—A petition asking a receiver in equity be appointed for James A. Talbot, San Francisco, former vice president of the Richfield Oil Co., was filed with Federal Judge Frank H. Kerrigan today by J. Walter Stead, of Chicago.

As assignee for W. B. Simpson, also of Chicago, Stead said he held a promissory note for $40,000 against Mr. Talbot. The former oil company official's assets were listed at $4,237,000 and liabilities at $2,990,000. The petition is a friendly action.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Cotton was higher today on covering combined with a moderate trade and commission house demand which appeared to be promoted by fairly advances in Liverpool cables and the failure of advances to bring more active selling. May sold up to 10.66 or 11 points net higher and closed at 10.64, with advances of 9 to 12 points. The opening was steady, 3 to 7 points net higher, and there appeared to be covering on spot house buying of old crop positions and there appeared to be covering and trade buying in the later months. Liverpool made a relatively steady showing, while reports from Manchester indicated a better prospect for the reopening of negotiations to settle the labor dispute. And the reports of trade buying orders in the market here led to covering or rebuying by some recent sellers. The initial demand was supplied by realizing and Southern selling, which was supposed to include hedging in May and July contracts. But the offerings were quite readily absorbed and the market held generally steady.

The best prices of the day were reached during the afternoon when March sold at 10.43 and July at 10.89, making net advances of about 11 to 13 points on the old crop positions. The new crop was relatively firm with October advancing to 11.13 and December to 11.32 or 14 to 16 points above yesterday's closing quotations. Closing prices were 3 or 4 points net from the best under realizing sales. The slight widening of differences between near and late months during the middle of the day was attributed largely to the transferring from March and May to the new crop positions. Liverpool was a buyer here during the early trading. Liverpool cables said that hedging had been taken by covering and Bombay buying in that market, and reported an improved cloth inquiry from South America and the British home trade. It was reported that employers in the Lancashire weaving section had accepted an invitation to meet the prime minister in London on Thursday to discuss the labor situation. Exports today 7,820, making 4,436,000 so far this season. Port receipts, 4,475. United States port stocks, 4,080,000.

AID OF CREDIT MEN TO BE HEARD HERE

Dr. S. I. Miller to Speak at Bank Institute Forum on Feb. 4.

DINNER IS ALSO PLANNED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The forum committee of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, has been fortunate in securing as the speaker at is next forum meeting, February 4, Dr. Stephen I. Miller, executive manager, National Association of Credit Men and former national educational director of the banking institute.

Dr. Miller's subject will be, "Lifting the Roof of the Economic Structure," and is most timely and interesting. He is a close student of business conditions, a man of keen vision and an excellent speaker. His speech will convey thoughts which will make it well worth hearing.

The meeting will be held in the palm court of the Shoreham Hotel and will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 o'clock. All bank officers and all institute standard certificate holders are urged to attend. Reservations may be made with A. E. Henze, chairman of the committee, at W. B. Hibbs & Co., on or before January 31.

Sales of Business Machines.

International Business Machines Corporation sales during December in France, Cuba, and Mexico were the best for any month in the history of those divisions, Thomas J. Watson, president of the company, stated yesterday.

December was also the twenty-second consecutive month in which the entire South American division fulfilled its sales quota. The company's Dayton scale division in Argentina is finishing its third year of consecutive monthly quota sales.

V. F. Boucas, manager of the company's Brazilian division, made the best 1930 sales record of the whole International Business Machines world-wide organization, Mr. Watson announced. The company does business in 27 different countries.

All officers of the National City Dairy Co. were reelected yesterday as follows: M. J. Hime, president, treasurer and general manager; Joseph C. Fish, vice president; Simon T. Price, secretary; Dion S. Birney, assistant treasurer.

Mellon Company Has New Refinery

$60,000,000 Being Spent by Union Gulf for Improvements.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Another link has been wrought in the Union Gulf Corporation's $60,000,000 improvement program with the completion of a new refinery here. The plant has a capacity of 6,000 barrels of crude oil daily and will receive its supply of petroleum through a new pipe line extending from Pittsburgh to Tulsa, Okla. Completion of the pipe line was announced last week.

Union Gulf is controlled by the Gulf Oil Corporation, of which W. L Mellon, of Pittsburgh, is president.

The pipe line will also serve new refineries at Toledo and Cincinnati, the latter plants to be ready for operation in March. The pipe line and additional refineries will give Gulf an outlet for surplus crude production in Western fields. Ten steel barges with a capacity of 800 tons each, are also being constructed for the concern as initial equipment for a river transportation.

Curb Review

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The curb market was unable to make much progress in either direction today and closed irregular with variations in active issues only fractional. The session was dull, which was reflected in a total turnover of 396,600 shares.

Traders made an effort at the start of the session to push prices upward with little success and mild reactionary tendencies were evident during the afternoon. In contrast with the comparative dullness in market leaders some of the industrials and specialties were strong.

Dresser Manufacturing "B" rallied 2½ points. Gray Telephone Pay Station 6¾, and Ferro Enamel 3⅛. Deere sold off at the close to drop 1¾. In the investment trust and holding company group, Cord Corporation, controlled by Auburn, moved up ¾ in sympathy with the strength of the stock of the parent company. Investment trusts maintained a firm trend on narrow fluctuations.

Utilities were erratic and displayed no marked trend. Utility Power & Light "A," Electric Bond and Share, American Superpower, and United Gas eased fractionally. Electric Bond and Share, which made some progress in the early hours, closed at 44, off ¾ on the day. American Light & Traction advanced 2¾. National Fuel Gas 1, and Middlewest Utilities ⅝. Southern Pipe made a belated response to publication of its 1930 earnings, rising 1¾.

Petroleum issues, with the single exception of Gulf, which declined one point, idled. Price movement was in a narrow groove which gave the group a steady tone. Cities Service was fairly well supported and advanced ¾ net higher.

OIL QUOTATIONS.

JANUARY 28, 1906.

Christian IX, King of Denmark, died at Copenhagen following a heart attack. He was 88 years old, and called the "father-in-law of Europe" because of his relation to most of the continent's royal families.

Clinging to the back of a runaway horse for three miles, with Lieut. Stephen Rowan, her escort, following in a mad race to save her life, Miss Shelby Converse, daughter of Rear Admiral Converse, was thrown at Twentieth and M streets northwest, and seriously injured.

Mark Twain was a guest of Speaker Joseph G. Cannon at dinner in a downtown hotel, and afterward accompanied him to the Capitol, where he was entertained in the Speaker's rooms.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ST. VITUS' DANCE.

Of the several disorders which cause heart diseases to begin in childhood, none is more important than chorea, sometimes called St. Vitus' dance. If somehow chorea could be wholly prevented a big bite would be taken in the heart disease problem. This is as one would expect when he knows the close kinship between rheumatism and St. Vitus' dance. They are almost parts of the same thing. Certainly juvenile rheumatism lays the foundation for the nervous symptoms. Perhaps anemia, fatigue and nervous instability are as upper stones required to change foundations into a house.

The best treatment for chorea is to see that it does not develop. This means watching the throat to ward off sore throat. If, in spite of watching, sore throat develops, it means watching the heart to prevent it from becoming infected. It means care as to wet feet, wet clothing; precautions against chilling. It means protection on rainy days and it means comfortable home and schools. It means that the parent is to take notice of pallor and to guard against anemia.

It means liver, juicy meats, eggs and colored vegetables if there is evidence of anemia. It means that the parent and teacher are to guard children against fatigue.

If chorea develops the day can still be saved. Chorea is a curable disease. Properly handled, heart disease should not follow in its wake. Neglected, that unfortunate consequence may be expected. Perhaps the most important element in the cure of chorea is rest.

In bad cases there should be a six to eight week period of rest in bed, to be followed by a very carefully guarded convalescence and a slow return to work. During the period of convalescence the child should be entertained without being fatigued. Dr. H. M. Fletcher recommends having such convalescents work jigsaw puzzles. If this advice is followed the child should not be allowed to work long "at a sitting." The heart must be watched carefully.

Physicians regard salicylates as sovereign in rheumatism, but they do not use them much in chorea. They do use arsenic and iron tonics, but good food, sunshine, good air, and rest are better tonics than those that come out of a bottle.

NO DANGER EXISTS.

J. J. writes: I am going with a girl whom I intend to marry. Recently she found out that my second cousin has epileptic fits, and she claims that if we marry it would have an effect on our children.

REPLY.

Neither your prospective children nor you and your generation are in any way endangered by your second cousin's epilepsy. Epilepsy is scarcely hereditary an any phase, and the relationship in this case is too remote for genetic relations of any disease or deformity.

SIGNS OF GALLSTONES.

M. J. N. writes: What are the signs of gallstones?

REPLY.

EASTERN AND BUSINESS GAIN SCHOOL SERIES LEAD

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Such grunting and squealing, such thumping and pounding as you never heard in your life before broke the stillness of Madison Square Garden when Jack Curley's herd of wrestlers, sixteen head of imported and domestic Percheron stock, nigh onto 4,000 pounds in all, wrestled last night for the heavyweight championship of the world.

There were more than 20,000 devotees, and the astounded cashiers, lately adjusted to nickel and dime computations, counted the house four times before they would trust themselves to certify a total business of $59,400, a new indoor box-office record for this event.

In the principal contest, James Londos, the defending champion, conquered Jim McMillen, an old football player from the University of Illinois, in 57 minutes with an ardent embrace officially described as a half Nelson and headlock, with just a dash of angostura and the whites of two eggs. This effect was not achieved, however, until McMillen had fetched the Greek some positively gosh-almighty kicks in the pants and lower abdomen, and flat-of-the-hand smacks upon his classic profile, and tied him into such a variety of running bow-knots as the frame of mortal man had never accommodated itself to before.

GREEK TIED IN MANY KNOTS

McMillen was one of the more or less unseen colleagues of Red Grange in his days at the University of Illinois. He was a tackle and once was captain of the team but, like James J. Walker during the reign of Grover A. Whalen in New York, every time he faced a camera his subordinate was there ahead of him taking all the bows. He is large and blond, with a slightly tremulous middle and a reputation for clean-living, fair-dealing and right-thinking.

LONDOS ACE OF CURLEY HERD

Londos finally inserted his left foot in McMillen's esophagus and with a sudden heave and a soprano grunt laid him on his spine, as Ernest Roeber, the referee, spanked him smartly on the shoulder blades, the signal of victory. Londos thus confirmed himself as world champion of the Jack Curley herd. There are several other herds, each with its own world champion, but as the various groups do not recognize one another artistically, each champion feels serene in his own jurisdiction and business is very good.

The spectacle attracted a large delegation of those socially refined sportsmen and their ladies who used to frequent the prize fights in the Garden but dropped away when the ringside prices failed to adjust themselves to the stock market quotations. Mr. Curley's maximum price is only $5.50, and the millionaire trade has been strangely sensitive to the lure of the bargain.

In the main exhibition McMillen was generally the aggressor, but it was apparent from the start that he was only a country boy playing a city boy with the city boy's dice. Londos knew how and McMillen was still a comparative apprentice.

William Muldoon, the prize fight commissioner, a reformed wrestler himself, sat in the first row, glaring suspiciously throughout the long entertainment, nibbling little sprigs from his sparse mustache in very apparent unbelief. Mr. Muldoon refuses to admit that there was ever an honest wrestler with the exception of himself and Hercules, and he has his doubts about Hercules.

MULDOON IS SUSPICIOUS OF ALL

Three other college athletes adorned the evening's cast, grunting their grunts in intelligent accents. Herbie Freeman, of City College of New York, beat Tom Marvin, but mind was inferior to bone and other substantial matter in the other two.

Thus, Ralph Wilson, of the University of Indiana, described as a doctor or something or other, lost to Ray Steele, and Jim Clinkstock, of the Haskell Indian Institute, yielded to Ferenc Holuban, the Neckless Hungarian, without too much disorder.

Mr. Will Carey, the Garden's promotor of prize fights, was quite carried away by the social and commercial success of the show.

"This wrestling," said he, "How long has it been goining on?"

CAMPBELL TO DALLAS.

Chicago, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Bruce Campbell, a Chicago boy who warmed the White Sox bench most of last season, has been released on option to the Dallas Club of the Texas League. An outfielder, he played a few games with the Bloomington, Springfield and Indianapolis Clubs last year.

Hitting Power Added by Tigers

Harris Pleased With Outfield Prospects From Minors.

Says Detroit Will Be "Hard to Beat" This Season.

DETROIT, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Manager Stanley Harris believes the Detroit American League Baseball Team "will be hard to beat" this year, with a goodly supply of young outfielders to choose from and a pitching staff probably better than last season when the Tigers finished in fifth place.

The outstanding weakness of the 1930 team was the hitting of the outfield, which turned in an average of about .285. To remedy this four good prospects were purchased—the Walker brothers, Gerald and Harvey, from the Evansville Club of the Three Eye League, and Eckhardt and Shiver, from Beaumont, Tex., Club.

Johnson, Funk, Stone and Doljack remain from last year's outfield. Stone batted .310 and Doljack joined the club in September after hitting .391 at Wheeling, W. Va. Johnson batted .273 and Funk, .276.

Discussing the four recruit outfielders, Harris said that "judging from their records last year, I feel confident they will improve our outfield."

Wyatt Recovers From Sore Arm.

Whitelow Wyatt, fast-ball pitcher, who joined the Tigers last spring, showed plenty of stuff until his arm failed him. "I only recently received a letter from Wyatt," Harris said. "He stated his arm felt fine. I honestly think he will be a real good pitcher."

Earl Whitehill, southpaw, who finished with 17 victories and 13 defeats after losing his first nine starts, is expected to have the best year of his career. Whitehill is said to have conquered a handicap of temperament which made him blow up easily.

Vic Sorrell, George Uhle and Waite Hoyt are other prospective regulars on the mound.

Harris expects to use the same infield which functioned sufficiently well last season—Dale Alexander at first; Charlie Gehringer at second; Bill Akers at short and Marty McManus at third. Mark Koenig may play in the infield or continue to try out as a pitcher. He tried pitching last season after his eyes began to bother him.

Sees Good Year For Akers.

"I haven't decided about Koenig," Harris said, "but the way Akers improved his playing last year, I feel that he will prove to be quite a shortstop this coming year."

"I have every reason to believe our pitching staff will be a good one," the Tiger manager said, "and with the experienced Schang to do some catching, we will no doubt be quite hard to beat."

In addition to Wally Schang, Harris has Gene DesAutels, Holy Cross College product, who joined the Tigers last summer, and Ray Hayworth on his catching staff.

On the roster of 33 players who will train at Sacramento, Calif., the Tigers have ten players purchased since the close of last season. Three others were obtained on option. Pitchers and catchers are to report at Sacramento February 22, and other players March 1. Thirty-five preseason exhibition games are scheduled starting March 18.

Business, Eastern, Tech in Games Today

Business and Eastern, topnotchers in the high school series, will engage in games today expected to be the features of the scholastic series card for the day. Business takes on two opponents, the first time a high school has turned this trick this season. The league-leading Stenogs, seemingly anxious to use the ebbing services of Bobby Lucas, who will graduate Friday, play Hyattsville High this afternoon at Business and the Boys Club tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Boys Club.

Eastern has what promises to be a waltz with Alexandria High, at Eastern.

Tech takes on Episcopal at Episcopal in the second of two games between the two rivals, while St. Alban's "Freemanized" team plays Silver Spring High at Silver Spring.

Charge Made Of Recruiting By Army

"Positive Proof" Is Claimed; Denied by Academy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—A charge that the Military Academy at West Point had attempted to "recruit" Kenneth Goff, star full back of the Rhode Island State Football Team, was made in a copyrighted story in the Providence (R. I.) Bulletin today and promptly denied by West Point officials.

The Bulletin said it possessed correspondence tending to show an attempt to get Goff to seek admission to the academy and that W. T. Wrightson, of New York, described as a member of the "Army Athletic Association," had tried to secure Goff's appointment for examination in a Massachusetts district in which Goff did not live.

West Point Official Makes Denial.

Maj. Philip Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at the academy, when told of the charge, pointed out that Wrightson had no official connection with the academy organization and said no official at West Point had or would take any action to recruit a college football player.

As the facts are understood at West Point, Goff himself wrote to a cadet at the academy concerning entrance. This cadet, presumably the Paul Carroll referred to in the Bulletin story, who is an underclass assistant and not football manager, took the letter to Maj. Ralph Sasse, cadet football coach. The cadet was told that nothing could be done to help Goff or any one else to gain entrance to the academy. He was told to refer Goff to the adjutant's office for routine information about entrance.

"Nasty Mess," Says Providence Coach.

Coach Frank Keaney, of Rhode Island State, was quoted in the Bulletin as saying it is "positive proof that big colleges are preying upon smaller institutions. The entire thing is a nasty mess."

West Point officials expressed regret over "some apparent overzealouaness," but did not consider the case justified any criticism of athletic methods at West Point.

Deig Sought by Army, Says Marquette Coach

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Coach Frank J. Murray, of Marquette University, tonight said he had been approached by three men when Marquette University played football at Boston last fall and asked to use his influence to get Francis Deig, veteran Marquette full back, to continue his studies at West Point.

"As I was leaving the dressing room after Marquette defeated Boston College November 1," Coach Murray said, "I was approached by three men, two of whom identified themselves as former Army officers and interested in diverting star college players to the academy."

"The chief spokesman was a Boston cotton merchant and a former Army football player. He asked me to talk with Deig and urge him to ask for an appointment to the academy in the spring. 'You get that full back of yours to come to the point and we'll take care of his commission,' was the substance of the conversation," Muray said.

Deig tonight said he was considering seeking an appointment at West Point but was witholding his decision until after another conference with Murray.

Chattanooga U. Coach Named Aid at Alabama

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Harold Drew, head coach at the University of Chattanooga, has been named assistant football coach at the University of Alabama, Dr. James S. Doster, faculty chairman of the athletic committee, announced today.

The Consumers are looking for a game for Sunday to be played at the Hyattsville Armory at 2:30 o'clock. The Army Headquarters outfit is especially challenged.

G. U. Five Hopes to Give Army First Setback

An undefeated team furnishes Georgetown opposition today when the Hilltop quintet meets Army at West Point. The Cadet court stars have won seven games thus far and are rated among the top-notch basket ball teams of the East.

EPIPHANY GIRLS PROTEST.

Epiphany Girls Basket Ball Team dropped an 18-15 decision to Strayer's sextet last night at Central High School. The Epiphany manager and captain have protested the game to the Washington Girls Recreation Basket Ball League on the grounds that suitable officials were not employed.

PAID BRIGADE TOPPED BY VON ELM

Former Amateur Has Won $7,447 From Winter Play.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—George Von Elm, who recently decided to make golf his avocation, celebrated his first winter in the ranks of the money tournament players by winning the largest share of the $51,200 post in six California and Baja California championships.

Playing through the same circuit last season, the Los Angeles "business man golfer," as he pleases to call himself, collected only a bunch of amateur prizes. This year his earnings were $7,447.

One brilliant round of golf enabled him to collect the greater share of this, for he won $6,750 by finishing in a tie for first with Johnny Golden, Noroton, Conn., professional, in the Agua Caliente $25,000 open, the feature event of the annual California golf rush.

Ed Dudley Third With $4,512.

Tall Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., came third with $4,512, the greater share of which he made by winning the $3,500 first place money in the Los Angeles $10,000 open. The veteran Al Espinosa, of Chicago, was fourth with $2,869.

Von Elm was consistent in his earnings. He collected $532 in the San Francisco $7,500 match play tournament. He added $50 at the Pasadena $4,000 open, missed out entirely in the Santa Monica $1,500 amateur-pro event, gathered in $100 in the Los Angeles open and then wound up with $15 in the motion picture $3,200 match play affair here. Uncontested Divorce Gained by Mrs. Grimes

Canton, Ohio, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Florence Ruth Grimes was granted a divorce today from Burleigh A. Grimes, pitcher for the St. Louis Baseball Club of the National League. Grimes did not contest the suit, which was heard by Common Pleas Judge Joseph L. Floyd. Mrs. Grimes charged extreme cruelty and neglect of duty.

Grimes filed a similar suit a year ago but it was dismissed. He charged Mrs. Grimes was extravagant and interfered with his career. Letters from women admirers of the diamond star were submitted as evidence by Mrs. Grimes. Their contents were not read publicly.

Mrs. Grimes introduced the same letters when she countered her husband's action and at that time she told of the distress they caused her. Most of today's testimony dealt with property division and alimony.

IN THE COLLEGE CORNER

By JACK ESPEY

WITH the overemphasis guns still smoking, it would seem at first thought that Catholic and Georgetown universities are laughing at criticism by planning longer-than-usual terms of spring football practice for 1931.

Though the spirit of the resolutions passed by the football coaches association early this month was to "let up" on spring training, we find the Cardinal and Hoya gridiron athletes due for plenty of work, according to present plans.

Catholic and Georgetown will start spring drills as soon as the weather permits (they hope by February 15) and will maintain a routine of daily sessions for about 10 weeks.

Must Protect Selves, Coaches Feel.

It is out of necessity that they will do this; they must protect themselves, so to speak. They have no knowledge that their opponents will not do likewise.

It has been stated by athletic authorities of both schools that spring practice would be shortened or abolished if such action were taken by their rivals. The resolutions of the coaches meeting, it has been pointed out, carried no teeth as to enforcement.

Simply stated, Catholic and Georgetown do not wish to concede their rivals anything in the way of preparation or training. There's nothing wrong in that attitude, it seems to us.

In the past, neither of the two conducted spring practice longer than six weeks, but it is only because they now have coaches who stress spring practice that the periods have been lengthened.

Dutch Bergman, head man at C. U., and Tommy Mills, Georgetown's chieftain, are exponents of the Notre Dame system in which spring training is featured. It is incidental that they succeed coaches who did not hold the spring work so important.

Maryland, C. U. Mittmen Ready for Action.

Basket ball shortly is to be edged out of some of the college sportlight by boxing, with Maryland and Catholic getting their mitt-pushers down to a fine edge in condition and skill.

The ring season opens Saturday night, when Maryland presents the first boxing team in its history against Washington and Lee at College Park. Next Tuesday night at Brookland, Catholic will trot out its team in a match with Massachusetts Tech.

Coach Billy Whipp, after a stiff workout yesterday with his school of ringmen, announced the Terp boxers who would appear Saturday. For his heavyweight he has chosen Holloway, a big, shifty boy who did little fighting up until this year; Robbins, light heavy; Mech, middleweight; Kaener, rated by Whipp as the best collegiate welterweight product he has seen in a decade; a choice of Becker and Burslem for the featherweight match; Lake, bantamweight, and Isemann, lightweight.

The boxing program will be preceded at 7:15 o'clock by Maryland's basket ball engagement with the tossers of Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Catholic's team is a little more experienced than that of Maryland, but has not yet reached the stage where Coach Eddie LaFond has nothing to worry about. Capt. Rocco Biasi, middleweight, and Harry DiGiacomo, lightweight, are the only veterans remaining from the 1929-1930 team. Johnny DePasuale, star bantam weight of last year's team, thus far has been prevented from training by his studies. He might see action next BENJAMIN FRANKLIN moved farther away from the other teams of the Washington Collegiate Conference last night, when it took Strayer's Business College five into camp by the score of 26-13. It was a decisive win for the Bennies, who were never checked in their march toward the victory.

John Sherman and Lester Singman, Bennie kingpins, led the way last night at Central High, contributing 17 of their team's points and sponsoring most of the good passing and guarding of the fray.

Thurnblad in Cue Lead As Reiselt Is Defeated

Chicago, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, took undisputed possession of first place in the world's three-cushion billiard championship today by defeating Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, 50 to 32 in 44 innings. The defeat virtually eliminated Reiselt from the championship running.

The victory gave Thurnblad, a dark horse in the tournament, a record of five victories and one defeat, and enabled him to break a four-way deadlock for first place with Reiselt, Allen Hall, of Chicago, and Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., the defending champion. Thurnblad has but one more match to play in the tournament.

Sam Rice and Judge Sign Nat Contracts

Two Nationals who have been most successful in keeping ahead in their race with Father Time, dropped into President Clark Griffith's sanctum yesterday and signed contracts for the coming season. Outfielder Sam Rice and Capt.-Assistant Manager-First Baseman Joe Judge swinging into line.

These two veterans, starting their sixteenth season in the majors and as members of a Washington team, are both most optimistic over what the coming season holds in store for them and for the Nats. Judge is training hard daily at the Jewish Community Center, while Rice plans to leave for Hot Springs, for baths and preliminary work, about February 7.

GAMES FRIDAY.

Central vs. Tech.
Eastern vs. Western.

Both Winners Score Easily; Games Lack Usual Thrills.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

SOMETHING akin to the lull after the storm visited Tech High School Gym yesterday and after two mediocre games had run their course it was found, by those who had remained awake, that Business High and Eastern High had accomplished the feat of boosting themselves into a double-jointed tie for first place, and Western High and Tech High had tumbled down to adjoining berths in the cellar.

Business defeated Western in decisive fashion, the score, 38-26, hardly showing the difference between the two teams. Eastern returned to life in the shape of Bill Noonan and was never seriously threatened by Tech. The score was 35-29.

From Bill Duryee's neat jumping potshot which effaced a 1-0 Western lead at the start of the game, down through the long succession of plays until Joe Sherman climaxed a day of fine shooting by popping in a ball off the backboard, Business was the superior passing, the superior dribbling and by several odd thousand miles the superior shooting team on the floor. Western, virtually eliminated from title consideration by reason of the defeat, showed ill effects of a recent tour taken by the team, appearing sluggish and overplayed.

Lucas Brilliant In Final Game.

Bobby Lucas, playing his last high school series game, put up a smashing floor game, dribbling as ever, and seeming content to feed his teammates. Business as a team came through in fine style, practically proving that it could stand the physical loss of Lucas, and perhaps the mental loss, Joe Sherman, forward, was on the deadly end of most of Lucas' passes and he turned in a bright shooting exhibition. Billy Duryee's work at center was notable, gaining the jump consistently and retrieving a major portion of all backboard balls.

Western was but a shell of the team that beat Central last week. Latona was in miserable shooting form, and since he is the outstanding marksman of the Western team, carried his squad down with him. Even Western's passing and team play, usually good, fell before the dervish dribbling and shooting of the Stenogs.

Eastern Quintet In High Gear.

Eastern impressed even its most ardent ill wishers in routing Tech, and more than ever proved that it is the rightful heir to Tech's tottering crown. Tech led only once, at the start of the game, but Eastern simply went into high gear, commanding an 11-5 lead by the end of the first quarter and a 20-9 advantage at the half. Tech staged one of its customary rallies, but this time erred grievously in the time element which must needs be a part of sensational rallies. The game had only a paltry minute and a half to go when Tech's shots commenced to slide through the cords. Of the last 17 points scored in the game, Tech was credited with 13, but a neat exhibition of freezing and a monstrous detonation from Mr. Haight's howitzer put an end to all activities, including the functionary properties of this reviewer's left ear.

Eastern's Bill Noonan gave conclusive evidence of his complete recovery with a great brand of ball playing. He stifled many of Tech's well-planned passes and on one occasion pocketed three baskets in that many moments on three different styles o. delivery to ring up a distinguished six points. Eastern, as a team, was alive to the immediate present during the game. Interception of Tech's passing attack gave them the ball during a greater portion of the game.

Tech Loses Ground From Start.

Tech was never in the money. Starting the game with two substitutes on the floor, Tech lost ground from the very start up to the point where a belated rally on the part of Willison—who played Tech's outstanding game—and Reichardt sent slight tremors through Techian hearts.

MAX ARRIVES IN AMERICA CONFIDENT

Blames Sharkey for Own Plight as Result of Idleness.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, German holder of the world heavyweight championship, arrived in New York aboard the Europa tonight in first-rate condition and confident that he will whip W. L. Stribling when they clash in June.

His first words carried a denial that he ever had said anything derogatory either to the New York State Athletic Commission or to the German Boxing Commission. He added that he was perfectly satisfied with the arrangements under which he is to meet Stribling in June and possibly Primo Carnera, of Italy, in the fall.

"My job is to fight," said Max tersely. "Joe Jacobs is to manage. Whatever he does is right with me."

Says Sharkey Has Self to Blame.

Jack Sharkey, the Teuton slugger declared, has only himself to blame for his failure to get the heavyweight title shot this summer. While Sharkey loafed, Max explained, Stribling went out and knocked out Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott and could no longer be ignored. Max said he was anxious to meet Sharkey in the ring again, and was confident that sooner or later they would be matched.

Schmeling said he weighed 192 pounds, compared to the 189 he scaled the night he fought Sharkey and won the title on a foul. He looked to be in good condition, although he was a bit plump around the face.

Macks Sell Catcher Phillips to Pirates

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—With the idea of bolstering the one department in which dependable reserves were lacking, the Pittsburgh National League Baseball Club management has purchased Catcher Edward Phillips from the Philadelphia Americans, it was made known today.

Phillips was with the Boston Braves in 1923, was tried out by the New York Yankees in 1927 and was with the Detroit Tigers for a short time. Last season he was with Toronto of the International League.

Rex Beach Leads Field In Artists-Writers Golf

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Rex Beach won first-day honors from other prominent pen and brush wielders in the Classic Artists and Writers Golf Tournament here today. He had a gross score of 42, 38—80 over the par 68 Palm Beach Country Club course.

H. T. Webster, illustrator, carried the colors of the artists to tie with Beach for second prize with a 70 in the net scores division. Beach had a handicap of 10, while Webster crossed 27 strokes off his gross score of 50, 47—97 for the low eighteen holes net count. Goldberg's handicap was 30.

DeMolay, W. Electric Fives League Winners

Western Electric and DeMolay tossers last night won games in the Intercity League at Laurel, beating the Black Pirates and Laurel Independents, respectively. The Electricians had things pretty much their own way, winning 69 to 14, but the Independents extended the DeMolays, finally succumbing, 20 to 15. Staffert, of Western Electric, led all players with a total of 21 points.

Fowl Play Wins for Police Team, Landing Scheduled Foes in Jail

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The police department has found a sure way to win basketball games—at least by forfeiture.

For instance, the police five was scheduled to play the Liberty Park Athletic Club's team.

Three hours before game time Detectives Sonnabend and Nordon started rounding up suspected chicken thieves in the Liberty Park district. By game time four of the athletic club's team were in jail.

George Simpson Loses 2 New Zealand Sprints

Wellington, New Zealand, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—George Simpson, Ohio State sprinter, who is making a tour of the antipodes, was nosed out in the finals of both the 100 and 220 yard dashes in a track meet at Masterton.

Simpson won his heats in both races in good time, the 100 in 9 4-5 seconds and the 220 in 20 seconds, but lost to Jenkins, local runner, in the finals. Jenkins ran the 220 in 21 4-5 seconds to win.

The experts were inclined to treat Simpson's reverses lightly, pointing out he had not had time in which to become acclimated and was below his best form.

PLUM RUN SCORES AT MIAMI AT $144.50 MUTUEL

Rank Outsider Wins 'Baby' Event

Playing, at Odds-on, Beaten by Head; Cholla Third.

Caracas Crashes Into Fence in Workout; Is Destroyed.

HIALEAH RACE TRACK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Charlie Koerner put over a real good thing in the "baby" race here today when Plum Run, making her third start, scored in a drive and paid the price of $144.50 for a $2 ticket.

The backers of the stable had the customary sentimental wager on the filly. They could not plunge because she ran so poorly a few days ago, when she was beaten several lengths.

Playing, the odds-on favorite, was second and Cholla third. The quarter mile was run in 0:23 2-5.

The start was good, the big field of juveniles going away in good order, with Playing having a slight advantage she was unable to hold.

Plum Run got away well in her stride and rushed to the front, leading the pack by half a length. Greenwood, who had the mount, rode a very confident race on the filly, and he sat perfectly still to win by a head. Playing beat Cholla a nose for the place.

Workout Fatal To Caracas.

Caracas, a chestnut 3-year-old gelding by Sir Clarence—Yelta, owned by Oakland Farms, met with fatal disaster here today while being breezed in the morning hours. After breaking into a gallop the gelding crashed over into the inside rail and broke the fence, throwing the rider into the ditch.

The exercise boy escaped uninjured, but the horse had to be destroyed.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

WILL MAHONEY has two great loves—one is tap dancing and the other is music, so he decided to combine the two. The xylophone which Will plays with his feet is the result of several years' work and is his own patented invention. He calls it a Mahoney-phone. It requires months and months to learn one song, but Will already has a dozen snappy tunes which he can tap.

Twenty-two teams played for 17 consecutive hours in the basket ball tournament which was won by the St. Stanislaus Team of Meriden, Conn. The four games won by St. Stanislaus required 2 hours and 8 minutes playing time.

So far Paul E. Bergling's flying career is limited to two flights, but both times he landed with a parachute. Bergling's jumps were made over Logan Field, in Baltimore, Md. On his first jump he knocked himself out and broke his nose as he was hit by the chute as it opened.

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THE entire card at Miami today has been turned over to the cheaper grade of horses. Although the program has been made up of seven claiming events, the fields are well matched. Several of the contests have attracted the limit of twelve entries. A juvenile dash over the 2-furlong distance, two sprints at 6 furlongs and four route races will comprise the card for the midweek race patrons.

In the absence of a regular feature, the fifth event, a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth, for 4-year-olds and up, in which six claimers will face the barrier, should result in a keenly contested affair. BOUNDING DEEP, from the Peconic Stable, a recent winner at this track, has shown staying qualities over a distance of ground and is selected to lead this field to the wire. TONY JOE, carrying the G. C. Winfrey silks, raced Port Harlem to a head decision in his last outing and should furnish the opposition to the top one. PRINCE TOKALON has raced consistently at this track and is given the show call. PLAYFELLOW'S DREAM and BROWN TRAP may surprise if the track becomes muddy.

FIRST RACE—The opening event, a dash of 6 furlongs for maiden 3-year-olds and upward, will bring together twelve springers. RAMUS, from the Nevada Stock Farm, was carried wide in his last start and just missed the winner's circle. He is well treated by the conditions and is favored to gain the award. LITTLE COVENTRY led until the stretch turn and then, hung in the heavy going, lost out. The Weque Stable sprinter should improve over that effort. MIXED TEA raced well in Bowie and has been training briskly. The Gallagher color bearer is favored for the minor share of the purse. LADY MESSENGER suffered interference in her previous effort and with better racing luck should go well here.

SECOND RACE—A dozen 2-year-olds will answer the bugler's call in the quarter-mile dash of the second race.

THIRD RACE—In the third number eight platers will match strides over the mile and 70 yards distance. PERCEPTION, T. M. Cassidy's clever 3-year-old, appears the class of this field. The Cassidy steed also stands out as the best bet of the program. DEA ran a poor race in his last effort. Disregarding that contest, the Livingston racer has shown several brilliant performances and is favored for the runner-up position.

FOURTH RACE—Another limit field of twelve claimers will battle it out over the 6-furlong sprint distance of the fourth contest. PERKINS, from the Van Ree Stable, has raced with better company than he meets here and should experience little difficulty in gaining the verdict. RED CROSS SISTER, a slow beginner, finished second to Monnie in her last start. The Peconic Stable color bearer is favored to extend the top one.

SIXTH RACE—The sixth race received seven entries for the overnight purse, which will be decided over the mile and 70 yards route, for 3-year-olds exclusively. MADELON, from the B. A. Lane barn, a fast-stepping daughter of Chatterton—Inquisition, has proved her ability to carry weight, and the top impost of 111 pounds should not hinder her chances against this band of platers. DIRECTLY, who was beaten by the top selection in their last meeting, should save the place.

SEVENTH RACE—In the closing race of the program a field of eleven of the older horses in training will be sent over the mile and a sixteenth course. BORIS, from the Harned Brothers Stable, has shown a return to his best form and is ready for a winning effort. WESTERN PRINCESS has speed, but may find the distance a trifle too far.

"I Hope Your Example Will Compel The Adoption Of Sanitary Methods"

STATE BOARD OF MEDICAL REGISTRATION

Public Health Commission

THOMAS J. McLAUGHLIN, M. D.

WOONSOCKET, May 21st, 1930.

The American Cigar Company,
#111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:-

Permit me to commend you for your crusade against the old-fashioned method of cigar making which involved the use of "spit" or "Saliva." There are many unsanitary processes still employed in industry which are very difficult to eliminate without the aid of industry itself.

Not only the public officer charged with the responsibility of improving conditions of health generally but every one immediately recognizes that the use of "spit" in the manufacture of cigars is not only unsanitary but has latent dangers to health of great magnitude. I feel it incumbent upon myself, therefore, as a public officer charged with protecting the public health to use this means of telling you that in campaigning against such a method of manufacture you are rendering a public service.

I sincerely hope that your example and your campaign will compel the abandonment of such methods of manufacture of cigars by the industry generally and the adoption by all of the manufacturers of sanitary methods in the manufacture of cigars.

You are at liberty to use this expression of my commendation in the furtherance of your laudable campaign for better sanitation.

Yours very truly,
Thos. J. McLaughlin, M.D.
Chairman State Board of Health
State of Rhode Island.

JOHNNY FIVE OUTSHINES G.U.PREP

Saints Gain Lead at Start to Score 32-14 Victory.

ST. JOHN'S BASKET BALL TEAM went into high gear yesterday afternoon at Garrett Park and routed Georgetown Prep to the tune of 32-14. The Saints clicked for the first time this year, passing and dribbling and shooting to better effect than heretofore.

The Saints gained an early lead and never faltered until the final whistle, leading at 7-4 at the quarter; 16-8 at the half, and 27-11 at the three-quarter point.

Georgetown Prep put up most of its battle in the first quarter, but wilted before the play of the Cadets in succeeding periods.

F. Sheely, Cadet forward, led both teams in scoring, pocketing five field goals and a free toss for eleven points. He was quickly followed by Gene Augusterfer, forward, who gained eight points and pivoted most of the passing plays.

Quantico Five Upsets Potomac Boatmen

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., Jan. 27.—The Quantico Marines today triumphed over one of Washington's strongest independent quintets when they defeated the Potomac Boat Club five this afternoon, 33 to 16.

The Marines outclassed the Washingtonians in the second half after the teams had been tied at the intermission at 10-10. Posik's sharpshooting and all-around performance stamped him the star of the contest although he was ably supported by Connell and Ferrell.

The Marines plan to enter the District A. A. U. championships at Tech High School in March. They have figured prominently in the tournament for the past four years.

HITTING the HEAD PIN

WHEN the bowlers take the drives at Convention Hall next Saturday for the second five-game block of the Howard Campbell Sweepstakes, Bradley Mandley, the leader, will be an outstanding favorite to win. Mandley, one of the best "money" bowlers in the District, led at the end of the first block in the 1930 event and was beaten out, but every indication is that it will be different this year.

Besides enjoying a lead of 29 pins over his nearest rival, Mandley has the advantage this year of having stepped away out in front of most of the other "money" bowlers in the event. Charley Walson, second, and Astor Clarke, third, are good pinmen, of course, or they would not be where they are, but they are not in Mandley's class when it comes to delivering in the pinches and in fifteen-game events when going at top speed all the way is necessary.

Seven Pretourney Choices Far Behind.

Of course, anything can happen with ten more games to go, but with such stars as Maxie Rosenberg, last year's winner; Jack Whalen, who beat out Mandley in the recent $1,000 Sweepstakes; Glenn Wolstenholme, 1927 victor; Howard Campbell, ranking pinman of the District; George Friend, runner-up last year; Clem Weidman, Red Megaw and Burt Parsons trailing by 75 or more pins, it readily can be seen that Mandley's job is much easier this year than it was last.

Not taking anything away from the ability of Walson and Clarke, indications are that Mandley will be furnished the most competition from Paul Harrison, Ollie Pacini, Oscar Hiser, Hokie Smith, Eddie Espey, Tony Santini and Jack Wolstenholme, all tried performers and proven "money" bowlers—and he has quite a start on all of this group. Still, you never can tell and one thing is certain, Mandley will have to travel at full speed all the way.

Harmony's star, Giovanni, turned in the bright exhibition of the Odd Fellows League last night when he led the team to a 3-0 victory over Canton. Giovanni had to roll a 135 game to cop the last match, and he came through in splendid style, leveling the required number of pins.

High-score honors of the league went to R. E. Hutchinson, of Langdon, with 140, a distinct boon to his team's 2-game win over Amity No. 1.

Things were slow in the Business Men's League, Walcott Lunch taking an easy match from Pi Kappa Pi and the Olympics gaining a hollow victory over Standard Oil by forfeit.

Two of the many features to be found in the duckpin championship of the United States, to be held at Convention Hall beginning February 18 and ending March 7, are the entrance in the listings of the Lotus Restaurant quintet, of this city, and the Neal Ball All-Stars, of Bridgeport, Conn. On the face of that statement, little is thought to be out of the ordinary, but one must stop to consider that the Lotus outfit is the only Chinese duckpin team in the country. It is under the direction of Lee Fong, who levels the minute maples for a 115 average.

The Connecticut team, headed by Neal Ball, former Cleveland Indian ball player, is composed entirely of former big league diamonders. Gus Kimberley, ranked tenth in the United States last year, is a member of the team.

Emily Disney, who several years back achieved some fame as a bowler both here and in Baltimore, will leave shortly from Aruba, Dutch West Indies, to come to Washington for the tournament. She will roll with the Baltimore Regents.

Several outstanding pinmen will compete with the McConville Pets, of Wakefield, Mass. They are Red Miller, national all-event champ; Bill Stenberg, No. 2 ranking bowler of the country, and Johnny Farrell, recent Boston entry in the United States Sweepstakes.

Georgetown Realty sprung the surprise of the Georgetown Recreation League last night by tumbling the Foxall No. 1 outfit for two straight games. The Foxes, encamped in second place in the league standings, evidently underestimated the real estate men, who came through nobly to cop the decision.

In other events of this league, Blackman Jewelry five took two from Georgetown Gaslight, while Fehall No. 2 had little trouble with the Drifters Canoe Club performers.

Boasting a 46-pin advantage, The Post's aggregation of bowlers takes on the Herald's team today at Convention Hall at 1 o'clock in the second and final five-game block to establish for once and for all the newspaper bowling situation.

The Post will use the same lineup which rolled creditably last week, namely, Suess, Sherwood, Darnall, Bergling and Clark.

Teams come and teams go, but the Beeques, of the Ladies' District League, seem to go on forever, or at least they did last night when they took three games in short order from the A. G. O.'s.

The Colombians, holders of second place in this league, received quite a jolt from the oft-despised Universal Car bowling women, who turned in a neat 3-to-0 win over the favorites. Kitty Fortney, Columbian acess, turned in a 328 set, including a 120 game, but could not offset the consistent play of the winners. Rena Levy and Frances McNamee, with 323 and 318, respectively, were mostly responsible for their team's victory.

RYAN DECLARES U. S. SHOULD SAFEGUARD JOBS OF EMPLOYES

Catholic Sociologist Says State Should Give Idle Material Relief.

OTHERS ALSO ADDRESS UNEMPLOYMENT GROUP

Manufacturers' Officer Hits Wagner's Proposal for Insurance.

Material relief and the provision of jobs are obligations of the state to the unemployed, the Rev. John A. Ryan, of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, last night told the closing session of the National Conference on Permanent Preventives of Unemployment at the Hamilton Hotel.

"Despite the complacency of men in higher places," he said, "it seems fairly well established that private charity will not bring adequate relief to all those who are in grave need in many parts of the United States this winter."

Father Ryan's assertion of the moral obligation of the Government to provide for the unemployed, came at the conclusion of a day's deliberations at which Senator Robert F. Wagner advocated accumulated reserves by industry to provide for wage earners in slack times.

Senator Wagner's proposal for unemployment insurance met with the uncompromising opposition of John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who said it would "subsidize idleness."

Encyclical Basis of Plea.

Father Ryan's beliefs were based on a concept of distributive justice as enunciated in a papal encyclical of Pope Leo XIII, he asserted.

In his argument of this position Father Ryan declared it is infinitely better to sin on the side of abundant relief than to permit people to starve in the interest of the shallow and doctrinaire theory about the impropriety of public relief.

The employment to be offered by the Government, he said, should be in the form of public works. He declared that $5,000,000,000 would not be an excessive amount to be expended by the Government. This expenditure, he said, would have a far-reaching effect upon employment and upon the public and business mind.

Income Tax Cut Hit.

This program, he said, could be financed by a bond issue which he predicted could be marketed, if necessary, within 30 days on account of the abundance of money. The annual interest charge on the total issue, he said, would, at 3 per cent, be $150,000,000 which is $10,000,000 less than "the foolish reduction made in the personal income tax last year."

Father Ryan referred to the three measures of Senator Wagner: the prosperity reserve bill, the bill for the collection of statistics about unemployment, and the measure to set up an adequate system of employment exchanges, as "elementary in any program dealing with unemployment. That none of them has yet been able to function is a very discouraging reflection upon the conception which Congress holds of its moral obligations to the laboring masses."

He also favored compulsory unemployment insurance, embodying the essential features of the workman's compensation laws. Employers should be charged with the burden of maintaining any reserve fund for unemployment or unemployment insurance, he said.

Shorter Working Hours Urged.

Higher wages and shorter working hours, he said, would aid immeasurably in the solution of the problem. The latter, he pointed out, would aid in bringing about the former through increases in the demand for labor.

Senator Wagner declared that "the bread line is not America's solution to the unemployment problem. "The joblessness of these wage earners is not a penalty which they incurred by their own misconduct; it is the resultant effect by forces beyond their control.

In most States workmen must be insured against loss arising from injury. Why can we not insure the workers against loss arising out of enforced idleness?"

In his opposition to Mr. Wagner's proposal, Mr. Edgerton declared that "good business men put aside surpluses out of their business earnings to take them through depression periods. If this has demonstrated itself to be sound practice for corporations, it is just as sound and wise for individuals.

Dole System Foreseen.

"Public unemployment insurance would not only be in conflict with, but subversive of, the tested theories of Government. With one hand the Government would be wringing money from one class of citizens and passing it on in doles with the other hand to other groups of citizens."

Other speakers at the session last night were the Rev. Dr. Harry F. Ward, professor of social ethics, Union Theological Seminary, New York City, and Rabbi Edward L. Israel, chairman of the Social Justice Commission, Central Conference of American Rabbis.

Dr. Ward said: "Too much of the national income has gone to people who have invested in the hope of making more money without regard to the consequences. Too little had gone to the people who would have used it to keep the wheels of industry turning. Thus it is a self-defeating system * * * our kind of prosperity manufacturing unemployment progressively as it makes millionaires."

Rabbi Israel Issues Warning.

Rabbi Israel warned against the danger "that we shall forget too easily, and with recurring prosperity or partial prosperity and with the traditional indifference of our kind, do nothing and find ourselves as unprepared for the next collapse as we were for this one."

Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, presided at the evening session. Other speakers during the afternoon session were Edward E. Hunt, secretary of the President's Emergency Committee on Unemployment; Daniel J. Meserole, president of the National Unemployment League, and Otto T. Mallery, of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

The conference was held under the direction of the Social Service Commission, Federal Council of Churches; the social justice committee of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, and the social action department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

NEW CEMENT WALK COMPLETED AROUND SPEEDWAY

POLICE WILL RENEW LIMERICK CASE QUIZ

Fresh Questioning Planned for 4 Held; Relatives to Testify.

GRAND JURY AT HOUSE

In a fresh effort to wrest additional information from the four prisoners in the District Jail held as accessories to the murder of Beulah Limerick, detectives today will again question the men.

Relatives of the murdered girl will be brought before the grand jury today to tell what they know of the circumstances surrounding the mysterious killing.

Mrs. Dora E. Limerick, the mother of the slain usherette; Earl Reed, brother of Richard Reed, one of the prisoners; Alfred Paddy, brother of William E. Paddy, another prisoner, and Mrs. Martha Bargfrede, intimate friend of the murdered girl, are scheduled to appear before the jury. In addition to Paddy and Reed, the police will also question Vernon Limerick and Patrolman Robert F. Langdon, who are also held.

The grand jury yesterday visited the scene of the murder, on Nineteenth street near A street southeast. It remained in the place for more than an hour while detectives explained the conditions in the room directly after the murder.

Lieut. John Fowler, firearms expert of the Police Department, informed his superiors yesterday that the eleven .25-caliber bullets taken from a sewer near the home of the girl's mother were of different manufacture than those used in the murder.

Judges of Costumes For Bal Boheme Named

The Arts Club of Washington yesterday announced the three judges of costumes for the Bal Boheme Monday night in the Willard Hotel. They are Frederic A. Whiting, an authority on art; Mrs. Frederic A. Whiting and M. R. Haider, a portrait painter.

False Spring Here as Sun Warms City

For the first time since the last days of Indian summer overcoats were in many cases discarded yesterday and the streets assumed an almost spring-like appearance, although the late afternoon became cloudy to mar an otherwise perfect day.

Perambulators filled with children were promenaded through the parks and sunny streets by nurses and mothers.

The Weather Bureau said that it was warmest yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, when the thermometer was standing on 63. The other extreme was at 6:30 in the morning, when it registered 38. This morning it is expected to reach a low of 40.

Today, according to their prediction last night, the day will be cooler, gradually increasing in coolness until tonight or tomorrow morning. There will be shifting northwest winds today, which will gradually come to this city from the north.

Mrs. Beulah Hottle, 44 years old, poisoned Monday afternoon at her home on Varnum street northwest near Second street when she took a deadly dose of acid, mistaking it for a common medicine of similar appearance, died yesterday morning in Garfield Hospital.

Mrs. W. H. Sherman, of the same address, administered antidotes of milk and mustard when Mrs. Hottle discovered her mistake. The Fire Rescue Squad was called and the woman removed to the hospital.

Mrs. Hottle is survived by her husband, Harry Hottle, and a daughter, Joan, 3 years old.

CITY HEADS APPROVE NEW HOSPITAL PLAN

FAVOR MARYLAND SITE

A plan for centralizing the antitubercular facilities of the District government on the site acquired about ten months ago on the Defense highway, at Randall station, Prince Georges County, Md., was approved yesterday afternoon by the District Commissioners.

The proposal was contained in a bill submitted by George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, whereby Congress would authorize the removal of the adult Tuberculosis Hospital, now located at Fourteenth and Upshur streets northwest, to the site, which was originally selected for the proposed Children's Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

The tract of land, which was selected by a committee, which included Mr. Wilson and several physicians, is ample to accommodate both projects, it was explained. It comprises 216 acres and cost $75,000. A small creek runs through the land.

The Children's Sanitarium is to cost approximately $625,000, of which $250,000 is included in the appropriations asked for 1932, and will consist of several buildings. It is said the present adult hospital is badly overcrowded, and a new plant is greatly needed.

Man Will Be Tried For Arson Today

Former Convict Linked With Fairfax Blaze Which Took Three Lives.

William Adams, Negro former convict, of Colvin Run, will be tried today before Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, on an indictment charging arson. The arson charge grew out of a number of large fires last fall in the Colvin Run neighborhood, one of which destroyed the home of Daniel Sullivan, burning to death Mrs. Sullivan and her three small children.

Adams was arrested as a suspect after an investigation by Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby and representatives from the State fire marshal's office. It is claimed that Adams swore that he would get even with the persons whose property was burned because they were the principal witnesses against him when he was sentenced to the penitentiary some years ago. Everyone of these persons suffered serious losses from fires last fall.

It is believed that Adams, who claims he was in Washington at his brother's house on the night of the fires, will attempt to establish an alibi depending largely upon the testimony of relatives and friends from Washington.

Electrocution of Man Postponed by Justice

Justice Peyton Gordon, in District Supreme Court, yesterday postponed the electrocution of Cordoza Bell, Negro, from February 6 to March 6.

The postponement was taken on a motion of Attorney E. Russel Kelly, counsel for the condemned man, who explained that the Court of Appeals has not yet acted on his client's appeal. Bell was convicted on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of Alice Metz, also colored, who was slain August 16, 1929.

Women Held When Checks Are Forged.

Muriel Groomes, 20-year-old Negro woman, who said she lives on S street near Ninth northwest, was held for investigation yesterday in connection with the forgery of four checks. Oliver A. Dudley, teller in a bank which was victimized, identified the woman on the street. Policeman B. A. Davis made the arrest.

POLICE ARE READY TO COMBAT CRIME BY RADIO SERVICE

SHORT WAVE LENGTH SIGNALS TO BE SENT

"This is Station WPDW, the Washington Police Department, broadcasting from police headquarters at 462 Louisiana avenue."

Announcements such as the above may or may not accompany flashes broadcast from the new police radio station inaugurating its service at 7 o'clock this morning.

But if they do Washington radio listeners will not be able to hear them. Flashes that will send specially equipped police cars post haste to the scene of an emergency, are on short wave frequencies that can not be picked up by the average set.

Final plans for opening the service on time this morning were drawn up yesterday by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent, at a meeting with inspectors and precinct captains yesterday.

Change in Assignments.

Following the meeting it was learned the innovation will occasion a radical change in Detective Bureau assignments.

Richard J. Cox and Joseph Sincavitz, the latter a member of the automobile squad, were the first picked to take over the "cruiser" jobs on the streets. Operating east of Seventh street, Cox will be on the alert for radio signals from headquarters affecting East Washington. Sincavitz will operate west of Seventh street. Each will have two privates from the precincts with them, one of whom will serve as chauffeur. Operating on three-week shifts, every man in the bureau eventually will do their trick of duty.

James L. (Radio) Kelly has been named "radio supervisor." He will have charge of the entire system. Privates Frank G. Howard, O. J. Henning, and J. G. Pipkin will be announcers, and Privates G. F. Brown, G. R. Douglas and A. J. Oeth will be technicians in charge of broadcasting.

Greatest Possible Speed.

Seventeen cars will be patrolling the streets ready for immediate action. Fourteen of these are the regular precinct patrol cars, two will be headquarters cars, and one will be of the vice squad.

The success of the plan, the only object of which is getting the policemen to points of danger with greatest possible speed, will depend on the alertness of the announcers and of the telephone operators, who receive the original calls, according to Capt. L. I. H. Edwards.

Washington is one of 50 cities which has taken to radio as a means of combating crime. WPDW will operate on a short wave length to avoid conflict with commercial stations. Reception of the broadcast will be only possible with the specially constructed sets of the type mounted on the scout cars.

Trinidad Citizens Join Move Against Billboards

The Trinidad Citizens Association, holding its monthly meeting last night at Wheatley School, adopted a resolution to cooperate with the American Civic Association in its campaign against billboards at the entrance to Washington. Extension of the drive to include unsightly dwellings in the Capital's outskirts also was indorsed.

A resolution indorsing the pending bill to give vocational schools the status of junior high schools also was adopted. Several members of the organization who are soliciting funds for the Community Chest reported heartening success.

Citizens Group Changes Name

Iowa-Thomas Circle Body Substitutes Name of General.

The Iowa-Thomas Circle Citizens Association formally adopted the new name of Logan-Thomas, in accordance with the change of the name of Iowa Circle to Logan Circle, at a meeting of the association last night at the Northminster Presbyterian Church.

Iowa Circle was recently changed to Logan Circle in honor of the memory of Gen. Logan. The meeting last night was the first held by the association, which represents the community in which the circle is located, since the name of the circle was changed.

The association voted to request the District Commissioners to issue emergency parking signs for the benefit of residents who desire delivery of fuel or other material demanding the use of a large truck. The signs would be placed in front of houses to prevent the parking of other vehicles during the time that the delivery is made.

Wallace Hatch, Community Chest speaker, made a talk on the drive which started yesterday.

Searchlights Held No Nuisance.

The searchlight on top of the Wardman Park Hotel do not constitute a public nuisance, the District Commissioners yesterday informed George M. Morris, of 815 Fifteenth street northwest, upon advice of the corporation counsel's office. The letter was in answer to an inquiry.

AUTOPSY IS SLATED IN TOMKINS' DEATH

Doctor Tells of Treating Man, 58, for Paralysis at Residence.

BUMPS FOUND ON HEAD

An autopsy will be performed at the Morgue today to determine what caused the death yesterday of John P. Tomkins at his home, 3263 P street northwest. The man was found Sunday morning by his son, John, jr., lying unconscious between two sheds of a construction company near Thirty-third street and Volta place northwest.

According to Seventh Precinct police, Tomkins, who was 58 years old, was last seen alive by his family Saturday night when he left the house.

Dr. E. Stuart Lyddane, of 3068 Q street northwest, said last night that he was summoned by the family to treat Tamkins and diagnosed the case as paralysis of the right side. Although expressing disbelief that bumps on the man's head were inflicted with a weapon, the physician did not issue a certificate of death pending the outcome of today's autopsy.

It was reported that Tomkins, gaining consciousness just before he died, murmured something of being struck on the head.

Man Overcome by Gas Is in Serious Condition

A man identified as Clyde L. Smith, 25 years old, of Guilford College, N. C., was in serious condition at Emergency Hospital late last night, suffering from illuminating gas poisoning. He was found yesterday lying on his bed in a rooming house on Pennsylvania avenue near Second street northwest. Gas was flowing from a jet. The door and windows were closed.

Removed unconscious to Emergency Hospital after receiving first aid treatment by an ambulance surgeon and the fire rescue squad, Smith could not be questioned as to whether the incident was accidental or suicidal. Edward Kelly, operator of the rooming house, discovered the man.

Burning Grease Causes Cafe to Be Flooded

Grease burning on a stove in the kitchen of the Pomona Restaurant, 1307 E street northwest, last night caused the establishment to be flooded with water when an automatic sprinkling system, set off by the heat, ran for more than fifteen minutes before it could be stopped.

An alarm bell on the outside of the building attracted a large crowd and police experienced difficulty in clearing the streets before fire engines arrived. Traffic on E street was stopped for nearly half an hour, while firemen swept the water from the building. Damage was slight.

G. W. President's Car Stolen.

Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, president of George Washington University, reported to police last night that his auto was stolen while parked on the north side of N street near Fourteenth. He said the machine was a 1928 model sedan and that its value is $300.

DALE SPONSORS NEW BILL ON RETIREMENT

Legislative Branch Employes Would Benefit Under Plan Advanced.

NOT UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

A retirement plan for employes of the legislative branch of the Government is provided in a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Porter H. Dale (Republican), of Vermont.

Employes of the legislative branch of the Government are not now under the civil service retirement law, which covers the employes of the executive branch of the Government. Employes of the House and Senate, the Capitol Police and others would benefit under Senator Dale's retirement bill.

The bill provides for annuities amounting to 2 per cent of the average annual salaries of employes, for any consecutive five-year period, with a maximum pension fixed at $2,500 a year.

Employes would be taxed 3½ per cent of their salaries up to $2,500.

Those leaving the service before retirement would be given back the amounts they paid into the fund. Their payments would bear 4 per cent interest annually.

Administration of the pension system would be in charge of a legislative retiring board, composed of the secretary of the Senate, the clerk of the House and an expert whose salary would be $7,500 a year.

Assignment Is Regarded as of Signal Importance at Exposition.

Col. J. Franklin Bell, former Engineer Commissioner of the District, has been named by the Government to head the applied sciences and industry division of the Chicago World's Fair, according to word received here last night.

Col. Bell will serve as first assistant to the director general of the exposition, which opens in 1933. His assignment is regarded as the most important in any branch of the organization in charge of arrangements. He will make his headquarters in Chicago.

Col. Bell, a former United States Army engineer, became city manager of Covington, Ky., in January, 1930, the first ever to hold that office. Four months later announcement was made that his resignation had been requested. Mass Meetings protesting his retirement from office were held in Covington.

He was employed there as an engineer.

U. S. TO AUDIT BOOKS OF MORTGAGE HOUSE UNDER RECEIVERSHIP

Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. May Have Violated Law, Rover Says.

MOVE FOLLOWS FILING OF PETITIONS MONDAY

Assets and Liabilities Not Yet Listed; Trust Deeds Total $18,000,000.

Coincident with efforts of the firm's officials to save the assets of the business, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday announced that accountants of the Department of Justice would immediately begin an examination and audit of the books of the real estate and investment concern of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., which on Monday filed a petition for voluntary bankruptcy.

Mr. Rover's action followed action of Justice William Hitz, of District Supreme Court, in appointing Henry P. Blair and Julius I. Peyser, members of the local bar, as receivers of the company, pending action of creditors in naming a trustee.

Sees Need for Audit.

The United States attorney's announcement was as follows:

"Having been reliably informed of the possibility of a violation of law growing out of the conduct and operation of the affairs of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., I have this day ordered an investigation into the affairs of this corporation and have placed Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw in charge. Accountants of the Department of Justice will start an examination and audit of the books of this concern tomorrow morning."

The action of the court was taken on a petition filed by Edmund D. Rheem, vice president. Mr. Rheem on Monday petitioned the court to adjudge the firm a bankrupt, acting on authority of the board of directors.

No Schedules Filed.

No schedule of assets or liabilities were included in the bankruptcy petition, and none probably will be filed before the 10-day period allowed under the law has elapsed. Mr. Rheem in his petition for receivership pointed out to the court that due to this fact it would be at least a month before a trustee could be named by the creditors.

Mr. Rheem explained to the court the various ramifications of the business his firm has carried on, and stressed the necessity that the business be conducted without further interruption.

"This petitioner," said Mr. Rheem, "has been engaged in the investment and real estate business in the District of Columbia for the last 29 years, its principal business being the making of loans upon real estate and financing construction loans, and as a result of its operation there are now in existence deeds of trust negotiated and financed by this corporation securing the payment of notes aggregating the sum of $18,000,000.

Stresses Continuity.

"The notes so secured have from time to time been sold and disposed of to some 5,000 clients of your petitioner, being held by such clients in various sums running from small to large amounts."

Mr. Rheem points out that under the provisions of the various deeds of trust securing the notes, the principal, as well as the interest, always has been and still is payable at the firm's office. He also points out that it has been the custom to distribute or credit such receipts to various customers. Mr. Rheem points out that it is important that such interest and principal payments be made, and declared that all the deeds of trust designated payment at the firm's office it was necessary that the business be operated, since makers of the trust deeds did not know the holders of their notes.

Attorneys Tobriner and Graham, who appeared for the firm in the bankruptcy matter, also filed the receivership petition.

Borland Measure Substitute Upheld

Senate District Committee Reports Favorably New Tax Plan.

The substitute for the court-riddled Borland law was favorably reported to the Senate yesterday by the Senate District Committee.

As reported by the committee, the new street assessment measure carried the amendments suggested by the District Commissioners to their own measure. One of these provides for reassessment of all property assessed under the Borland law for the last three years.

Enactment of the measure has been urged by the District Commissioners, and their recommendation seemingly has found high favor among members of the House and Senate despite protests of District residents voiced at hearings before both the House and Senate District committees. The measure reported yesterday is designed to get around restrictions on street assessments due to court decisions.

Park Policeman Hurt; Motorist Is Released

Park Policeman M. A. Rainey was injured yesterday morning when he was knocked from his motorcycle by an automobile driven by James H. Harper, 23, of Mount Rainier, Md., at Ellipse road.

Rainey was treated at Emergency Hospital for a broken leg and bruises. Harper was held at the Third Precinct until the extent of the policeman's injuries were determined. No charges were placed against him and he was later released.

Man Accused of Theft From U. S. Mail Bags

Mark Jolly, who said he is 22 years old and comes from Kernersville, N. C., was charged with larceny from United States mails in connection with the rifling of two mail sacks yesterday. The pouches were in a mail car of a Southern Railway train in Union Station.

Seized as a suspicious character when he was found loitering about the station shortly after the theft had been discovered, Jolly was taken to the Sixth Precinct Station. According to police, some of the mail taken was found on his person and he confessed to breaking open the bags.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WOMEN'S KNEES AND THE BUSINESS CRISIS.

When business halts and hesitates
And comes in fits and spurts,
The blame, a learned student states,
Is due in part to women's skirts.

* * * *

YES sir, believe it or not, a professor of economics in an Eastern university puts a measure of responsibility for trade depression on the fickleness of the ladies with regard to skirt lengths.

* * * *

The garment trade, one of the Nation's greatest industries, is suffering and has suffered for some years past, says the professor, from the ups and down of skirt hems.

* * * *

A garment house could never know how much stock to buy for any distance ahead because it never knew what the next season might bring forth.

* * * *

The skirt maker was always caught, so to speak, between the devil and the deep blue knee.

* * * *

If he bought stock on the assumption that the national skirt would be 34,567,000 miles long, a sudden change in lengths would show that but 18,456,789 miles of material would be consumed. And vice skirta.

* * * *

Stabilization is what all industries need, and as the garment maker asks, "How are we going to stabilize the skirt industry unless women stabilize their ideas about showing their legs?"

* * * *

* * * *

GARMENT magnates say they do not care whether the girls wear their skirts high or low, but they wish they would wear them one way or the other for a period of twelve consecutive months at least.

* * * *

What, they ask, would the manufacturers of men's clothing do if the men wore knee pants from January to May, long pants from May to August and intermediate pants the rest of the year?

* * * *

What chaos would prevail if a man demanded half-length sleeves six months of the year and three-quarter sleeves the rest?

* * * *

Ladies, aren't you ashamed of yourselves, hampering big business the way you are doing? Aren't you sorry, girls?

Of course, you are. Then do your bit for the rehabilitation of American business by making up your mind whether or not you wish to show your knees while shopping!

* * * *

Make up your minds on a skirt length! And then stick to it for a couple of years, regardless of Paris. Give the garment maker an even break!

* * * *

Now is the time for all good women to come to the aid of the cloak, dress and suit makers!

CAPITOL MOTHER GOOSE.

Wickersham, Wickersham, where have you been?
Up to the White House as you will have seen;
Wickersham, Wickersham, what did you there?
I added some lining to Herb's shirt of hair.

There was a man in our town
And he was wondrous wise,
He jumped into a wet report
And scratched out both his eyes.

And when he saw his eyes were out
With all his might and main
He jumped into a dry report
And scratched 'em in again.

* * * *

Jack Sprett could not be wet,
Jack Shy could not be dry,
And so they signed a finding much
Too deep to classify.

STILL WAITING.

ALFRED E. SMITH hasn't received that apology from Mr. Lucas yet, but it begins to look as if he wouldn't need it anyhow.

ALL DONE BY MIRRORS.

Mr. Hoover's friends say he didn't say what the papers said he said on the Wickersham report. The Wickersham report didn't seem to say what its individual members said. Perhaps the best thing for the average man to do is to attribute it all to something he ate.

An official of the canning industry says that what the business needs more than anything else is an invention for an efficient can opener. At last an admission that the one you get with the can of salmon these days is merely put there for purposes of exasperation!

The Argentine government has cut all officeholders' salaries, including that of the president and his cabinet. An experiment like that in any country should substantially reduce the yen for public office.

3 Flower 'Merchants' Held After Protest by Veterans

Three men who, according to police, claimed they are former soldiers, were arrested yesterday following complaints by veterans' societies that they were selling flowers on the streets under false pretenses. Julian T. Wood, 36; Raymond H. Decker, 33, and Harry Block, 38, were charged with unlicensed peddling and released under $25 collateral each.

Tenth Precinct police took the trio in custody in front of the Tivoli Theater, Fourteenth street and Park road. Veteran organizations are said to have denied that receipts realized from the sale of the flowers were turned over to them, as the trio allegedly told customers.

Decker and Block said they were from Philadelphia, the former saying his local address is on P street near Ninth street northwest, while Block gave an address which is not listed in the city directory. Wood declared he is from Richmond, Va., and also gave a local address which is not listed.
